SHOOT NEW YORK GANG CHIEF

REBELS CLAIM ALL STATES IN NORTH BRAZIL

Line Up for Decisive Battle in South.

(Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.)

MONTEVIDEO, Oct. 12.—News from both federal and revolutionary sources indicates that a decisive moment in the Brazilian civil war has arrived and that the next forty-eight hours will see an important battle for possession of Sao Paulo, where the federal government is making its last stand before falling back for a final defense of Rio de Janeiro. The rebels now claim to control all of northern Brazil as well as a large part of the southern states.

Rebel and federal armies are in contact along the southern border of the state of Sao Paulo, the rebel front extending from San Pedro on the Tyburgy river, in the state of Parana, to Itarare, where the Sorocabana railroad crosses the state frontier.

Expect More Desertions.

The revolutionists are determined to fight, though it is probable that some units of federal forces will desert to the enemy, as have so many forces since the uprising began Oct. 3. It seems certain there will be heavy fighting around Sao Paulo city and Rio de Janeiro.

News from Brazil continues to be of a most contradictory nature, depending whether it is from Rio de Janeiro or state of Rio Grande do Sul. Federal reports are mostly confined to denying rebel reports, calling them lies without giving any details denying the federal successes.

Government Hard Pushed.

The rebels, fired by enthusiasm over the rapidity with which their cause has succeeded throughout the country may be exaggerating their successes, but even making allowances for exaggeration, it must be admitted the uprising has succeeded from the extreme north to the extreme south with the exception of a small section in the center surrounding Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, the federal government's last remaining defenses.

They are both faced by strong revolutionary armies, Sao Paulo by three columns from the south, and Rio by two columns from Minaes Geraes. At the same time a strong rebel army from the north is invading Bahia.

Food Shortage Felt.

The cities of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo must depend on their own resources for defense, and both are already feeling the scarcity of foodstuffs. Newspapers received from Rio de Janeiro show federal troops stationed in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, which joined the revolutionists when the revolt started, number 13,000. They include 5,500 infantry, 4,700 cavalry, 1,800 artillery, and 300 engineers, composing one-fourth of the total federal troops under arms.

Defections of federal troops in the state of Parana, Santa Catharina, and Minaes Geraes and other states have decreased the government's original force of 56,000 men to a number far inferior to the rebel forces, which number 40,000 on the Sao Paulo front alone, while another army of 30,000 is being prepared in Rio Grande do Sul to move up to the front if necessary.

Rio Fort Mutinies.

Gen. Miguel Costa, commanding the revolutionist troops on the Sao Paulo front, reports the defeat of federal troops in several skirmishes on his left. Revolutionary headquarters also report the mutiny of the fort of Santa Cruz, one of Rio de Janeiro's principal harbor defenses.

That the federal government has not faith in its army because of constant desertions is indicated by the issue by the minister of war in calling up all naval reserves between 21 and 45 years of age, preparing to make a defense with the navy.

Revolutionist leaders have addressed proclamations to the navy personnel explaining them of the position they will assume before the eyes of the nation if they shed the blood of patriotic Brazilians in defense of an immoral government against which the entire country has taken up arms.

Warns Foreign Bankers.

Osvaldo Aranha, chief civil leader of the Brazilian revolution, minister of the interior and foreign affairs of the state of Rio Grande do Sul, and now acting president of the state during the absence of Dr. Getulio Vargas at the front, has issued a proclamation addressed to foreign governments and bankers saying the object of the revolution is to restore law and moral administration.

The statement says in part:

"The general command of the liberation

A PANACEA OR A REMEDY?

Copyright 1930 by The Chicago Tribune. McCUTCHEON

"Well, I'll tell you how I'd settle this unemployment problem. It's so good that there must be something wrong with it.

"In the first place, I read some place that about $800,000,000 of the government's annual revenue each year goes toward reducing the national debt caused by the late war.

"At that rate the entire national debt will be paid by the present generation in twenty years.

"Now, which is more important—to get that war debt paid off in twenty years, instead of twenty-one, or giving work to a couple o' million unemployed in a time of serious national emergency?

"I think the latter is more important.

"Now, here is my idea. See how it strikes you: Why not skip a year on this annual payment of $800,000,000 and use this money on vast public improvements which are greatly needed and which would give employment to a big part of the unemployed at, say, five dollars a day?

"What difference would it make whether our national debt was cleaned up in twenty-one years instead of twenty?

"The nation's debt to its unemployed is just as great and probably greater than its debt for making the world safe for democracy. At any rate, it's a lot more urgent.

"This program wouldn't be charity or a dole. The government would be getting value for its money, the unemployed would be relieved from bitterness and suffering, and not only would we get some great public improvements accomplished but we would remedy a condition that has a lot of dynamite in it.

"How about it?"

Gunmen Slay Policeman in Holdup Battle

Policeman William Rumbler, 33 years old, of the East Chicago avenue station, was shot to death last night in a battle with three holdup men in a soft drink parlor at 3174 Milwaukee avenue. Rumbler's body was riddled with eleven bullets.

Rumbler, who was married and lived at 3730 Oriole avenue, was off duty and was seated in a chair talking to the owner, James Purcelli. The first of the bandits entered and asked for "James Darwin," according to Purcelli's story to the police.

Purcelli was telling the stranger no such person was known there when two other men entered and ordered Rambler and Purcelli and two Negro porters who were in the rear to put up their hands.

Three Gunmen Open Fire.

All complied, but as one of the gunmen started to search Rumbler, the policeman suddenly drew his gun and opened fire. He was felled instantly by a fusillade from the guns of all three bandits. Rumbler was taken to the Belmont hospital where he died a few minutes after his arrival.

Shakespeare avenue police under command of Lieut. James Doherty who went to the scene found two caps believed to have been left by the bandits. One of the caps had been pierced by a bullet and was bloodstained.

An order was issued immediately to all police squads to keep a lookout at all hospitals and doctors' offices in the belief that one of the bandits had been wounded by one of the four bullets that had been fired from Rumbler's pistol.

Partner of Rum Foe.

Rumbler, a plain clothes detective, was a partner of Detective John Kratzmeyer who has received threatening letters because of his activities against beer runners. Police, however, discounted the theory that Rumbler had been marked for death because of his work on the force.

Rumbler had been on the police force for 10 years. He had been married twice, but had no children. Purcelli, who was taken to the Shakespeare avenue station for questioning, said that he and Rumbler had been friends for years and that the latter had dropped in for a visit on his night off.

Officers said the front door had been pried open and a truck used to haul away the loot.

6,200 CHICAGO YOUTHS HONOR R. E. LEE; SEND WREATH FOR STATUE

Lexington, Va., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Sixty two hundred boys of the north today paid tribute to the wartime leader of the south on the sixtieth anniversary of the death of Gen. Robert E. Lee, in historic Lee chapel here this afternoon. A memorial wreath from these boys, students of Lane Technical school, Chicago, was placed at the base of Valentine's famous recumbent statue of the confederate leader.

The wreath was placed by the statue by L. C. Borland, graduate of the Lane school, now a student of Washington and Lee university here. Dr. Francis Pendleton Gaines, president of Washington and Lee, accepted the gift on behalf of the university, on whose campus Lee built the chapel when head of the institution after the civil war.

"It's a thoughtful and altogether lovely courtesy that these boys should offer a wreath to the memory of Lee," President Gaines said. "Living in a state remote from Lee's Virginia, in a state in which prevailing historical sentiment does not always confirm Lee's political judgments, these young men have evidently paid tribute to Lee the man. And a rare quality of manliness prompted this gift."

Mrs. Converse and Escort Die as Car Crashes

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Walter Converse, 27, socially prominent in Washington and New York, and her escort, David Drage of Kansas City, were killed early today when the automobile in which they were returning to Washington from a party at Warrenton, Va., crashed into a telephone pole.

Mrs. Converse, who had been visiting her mother, Mrs. Emma J. Walter, in Chevy Chase, Md., was the wife of James Vail Converse, New York banker, to whom she was married Sept. 17, 1928.

Friend of Her Brother.

Mr. Drage was a member of a prominent Kansas City family. His father is Col. Frank B. Drage, formerly an officer in the British army. He came to Washington yesterday by airplane from New York. He was a close friend of a brother of Mrs. Converse.

Mrs. Converse, who was one of the prettiest débutantes in Washington in 1923, was at the wheel of the touring car when it left the road. Mrs. Converse, the former Elizabeth Walter, and a native of Staunton, Va., was married to Frank Addison Brastow soon after she was presented to society. In 1926 they were divorced in Memphis.

Third Mrs. Converse.

James Vail Converse, to whom she was married two years ago, was at that time vice president of Bennett, Converse and Schwab and had been married twice previously. In 1914 he married Miss Nadine Helbourne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Helbourne of New York and five years later they were divorced.

In February, 1922, Mr. Converse married in Washington Miss Thelma Morgan, daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, at that time American consul general at Brussels, a twin sister of Miss Gloria Morgan, who later became the widow of Reginald C. Vanderbilt. Mr. Converse and his second wife were divorced in 1926. After her divorce from Mr. Converse, Miss Thelma Morgan became the wife of Lord Furness, ship owner of England.

PASTOR ASSAILS SOCIETY WOMEN WHO JOIN WETS

Society women who have joined women's organizations opposed to prohibition will find themselves in low company, said the Rev. Dr. John Thompson in a sermon last night at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Chicago temple. The loop preacher also criticised wealthy men who make contributions to anti-prohibition funds. Dr. Thompson declared the new threefold association of wealth, society, and gangdom would be hard to defeat by the groups who want a cleaner city and nation.

INSULL REPORTS 7% GAIN IN HIS 1930 BUSINESS

He Says Depression Is Temporary.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Probably the most optimistic statement from a major leader in industry during the current depression came last night from Samuel Insull.

His companies, in the aggregate, have increased their revenue this year a little more than 7 per cent over last year. His transportation lines show a decrease between 7 and 8 per cent, the gas companies are about holding their own, and the electric concerns are doing better than last year.

His Plans for Future.

Such faith has Mr. Insull in the future that his companies will spend between $196,000,000 and $200,000,000 in extensions and improvements this year, and he plans to spend an equal amount next year. In the Chicago area, his capital expenditures this year will run to $90,000,000 and next year he plans to increase them to $124,000,000. The amount next year will be influenced by the progress made on a consolidated transportation system.

Mr. Insull does not pretend to tell the condition and trend of the nation's business. He limits his views and expressions to his own field of endeavor, but he is chief executive of public utilities operating in 30 states of which the securities have a market value of about three billion dollars. He tells of the capital outlays of these properties, their earnings and their policy on employment and then adds a forecast of their future.

Jobs Conference Today.

Probably his views will have an influence on Gov. Emmerson's conference on unemployment today at the Hotel La Salle to which the governor has invited a number of representatives from business and social service agencies. It is not improbable that the governor will urge other industries represented to aid employment as much as the Insull statement discloses his corporations have done.

Instead of curtailing work, Mr. Insull says that it has been the policy of his companies to keep all operating employés who attend to their duties. In addition, he has increased his expenditures for construction and betterments this year about 30 per cent over 1929, and has increased employment accordingly.

His Promise Fulfilled.

In his statement Mr. Insull says that at the White House conference called by President Hoover after the stock market crash of last November he was asked for an estimate of proposed investment expenditures for 1930. His figure was $198,000,000. Relative to fulfilling this promise, Mr. Insull says:

"It is now estimated that the total expenditures by all of our companies for the year for plant extensions and the like—chiefly for wages of labor and for materials—will be between $196,000,000 and $200,000,000. This includes work already done in 1930, work under way, and work to be completed by the end of the year.

"This is a very large expenditure to be charged to investment account during any year. It is particularly large for a year of general business depression, and these expenditures have a very special significance when consideration is given to the fact that like expenditures by our group were slightly under $147,000,000 in 1928 and slightly over the same amount in 1929."

After estimating that between $196,000,000 and $200,000,000 will be spent

Fair Harvard Disappoints a Fighting Man

BY FRED PASLEY.

The song, if you'll remember, went this way:

The infantry, the infantry,
With dirt behind their ears;
They can whip their weight in wildcats
And drink their weight in beers.

Come Armistice day this November, twelve years will have elapsed since Ralph T. (Dike) O'Neil listened to it on the march with his outfit, the 11th infantry, Fifth division, A. E. F. The last time he heard it was when the division crossed the Meuse in the final smash of the First American army in the Argonne, to lose 9,299 of its 30,000 men in the offensive that ended the world war.

O'Neil wasn't discussing the song as he stepped from a train yesterday at the La Salle street station. He had just been elected national commander of the American Legion at the convention in Boston and was en route to his home in Topeka, Kas. He had been approached by a reporter with a clipping. It was a reprint from the Harvard Crimson, daily newspaper of the undergraduates of Harvard university.

A Square Toed Man.

It read in part that the convention was a "wholesale brawl," which "was worse than a subway riot or a drunken football crowd."

O'Neil perused it thoughtfully. He stands over six feet; broad shouldered, square jawed, bronzed by the Kansas sun; calm of eye, quiet of voice. He is what you would call a square toed man. He read the clipping and was silent. When he spoke it was more in sorrow than in anger:

"I was a law student at Harvard in 1913. I'm disappointed. The kind of fellows I knew there then would never have written that sort of thing. I don't defend the legion. I don't have to defend it. As a matter of fact, the mayor and the commissioner of public safety of Boston have given the convention a 'clean bill of health.'"

Song of Mud and Battle.

O'Neil looked past the reporter into the twinkling lights of the city far beyond the train shed. Whether it was to that day in October of 1918 "on the field of battle," when he was promoted from a lieutenancy to a captaincy, or still later, in November, when he was cited for bravery, there was no way of telling. He might have been listening again to the song that came out of the mud and slime of the trenches; out of the fighting with bayonets, rifles, pistols and hand grenades:

The cavalry, artillery,
The lousy engineers;
They couldn't lick the infantry
In a hundred thousand years.

But if he was he didn't say so. He simply shook his head as he handed the clipping back to the reporter and sorrowfully remarked, half sotto voce:

"Just a bunch of young fellows who wouldn't know a Legionnaire from a toe dancer."

BROTHER, SISTER ARE KILLED IN AIRPLANE CRASH

Longmont, Colo., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Clyde Blackwell, 34, and his sister, Winifred, 24, were killed in the crash of their airplane at Blackwell's private flying field east of Longmont today.

Blackwell, who was a licensed commercial pilot, was giving his sister flying instructions and she was at the controls. The ship slipped into a nose dive, witnesses said, about 300 feet above the ground.

The girl is believed to have frozen the controls.

Plane Fall Kills Oil Official.

Corsicana, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Carl Bugh, 38, died in a Mexia hospital today from injuries suffered in the crash of his airplane yesterday near the Mexia airport. He was field superintendent for the Shell Oil company at Corsicana and is survived by his widow and two children.

It's a Good Time to Buy Women's Coats for Fall

There was a lot of football in the vicinity on Saturday. The weather was fine. It wasn't too hot and it wasn't too cold.

That was last Saturday. What the weather man will choose to offer next Saturday is something else again. There is the possibility, of course, that the next football occasion will be held in weather more suitable for baseball. But the odds are all against it. Every day now the mercury in the thermometer is approaching the dropping-off place. When it does turn cold, a lot of people, as usual, are going to wish that they had had the forethought to prepare for it.

Whether you possess any football tickets or not, now would be a good time to look over the coats and other cold-weather accessories which Chicago stores are displaying in such attractive variety. A shopping tour can be conducted now with greater satisfaction than after cold weather actually sets in and everybody gets the same idea at once.

Now is a good time for women to look for—and find—the fall coat they will buy sooner or later.

GUNMEN TRAP 'LEGS' DIAMOND IN HOTEL ROOM

Show Girl Friend Is Seized in Hiding.

Warning to Gangdom

Activities in the war on Chicago gangs centered yesterday in Cicero, where state's attorney's raiders, led by Chief Investigator Pat Roche, served notice on public enemies that they can no longer use the western suburb as a refuge after depredations in Chicago. Three Capone lieutenants were seized during the raids, which began on Saturday and continued until early yesterday.

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Jack [Legs] Diamond, gangster, whose racketeering reached such notorious proportions that he was barred from Europe two months ago as an international criminal, was shot five times today.

During the night physicians said Diamond had shown a turn for the worse. One bullet which struck him in the abdomen took a downward course and penetrated a region where ulcers and tuberculosis had already been developing.

According to the story which Police Commissioner Edward C. Mulrooney and District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain extracted from him at the Polyclinic hospital, "Legs" did not recognize the gunmen who shot him and has no idea why they did it.

Says Three Men Shot Him.

Diamond said he was sitting on his bed, in red silk pajamas, in the Monticello hotel in West 54th street, reading.

"The door opened," he said, "and three men walked in. One of them said: 'Well, here we are, let's go': and all three blazed away at me. It knocked me over on the bed and they ran out. After a while I got to my feet and went along the hall as far as the elevator. Then I fell over again and I don't remember anything."

"He's lying of course," said the police.

It was established that after Diamond was shot two men ran down the stairs to the street and drove off in a new auto with a New Jersey license which they had been seen to park five minutes earlier, opposite the hotel.

Taken to Hospital.

Diamond was carried into room 825, one of a suite of three rooms occupied by the manager of the hotel, Jacob Ginsberg, with his wife and child.

A private ambulance was summoned and Diamond's family physician, Dr. Howard Babcock, was called.

When the police were notified Diamond was in the hospital they placed a guard outside and inside the hospital and admitted nobody to the floor where the wounded gangster lay.

Guard at the hospital was doubled late in the evening when police received a report that if Diamond did not die soon gunmen would invade the hospital in force to complete the job.

Arrest Show Girl.

After questioning a reluctant and terrified staff of the Monticello hotel, the police began to hunt for Miss Marion Roberts, a show girl, who occupied room 831, next to 829, where the shooting occurred. They found Diamond's clothes hanging in her wardrobe and were told by George Kameo, a Japanese waiter in the hotel, that he had brought an order of coffee and orange juice at 8:30 a. m. to room 831 to a man in pajamas whom he identified from photographs as Diamond.

Miss Roberts was found late tonight in the apartment of Miss Agnes O'Laughlin, in 8th avenue, after the police threatened to break in unless they were admitted. It was not until they ransacked the apartment that they discovered her in the bottom of a clothes closet, hiding under a pile of clothing.

"All my life I have been a good girl," she moaned. "Jack was my first sweetheart. Why was I ever so unfortunate?"

Admits Entertaining Diamond.

She admitted Diamond had been in her room before the shooting and said that, when he returned to his own room, she got into her tub and was taking a bath when the shooting occurred.

Miss Roberts said that she had been in the show business several years and is now rehearsing a dancing part in the new Ziegfeld show, "Smile." It was as a result of her stage connections that she met Miss O'Laughlin, the chorus girl who has had considerable notoriety lately because of her breach of promise suit against Rudy Vallee, the crooner.

The police also are investigating a New Jersey telephone call which the records show from Miss Roberts' room shortly before the shooting, particularly in view of the fact that the gunmen's car carried a New Jersey license. A general alarm has gone out for three well dressed men of whom the police say they have no very good description.

Anonymous $3,000 Sent Hospital.

Police were further mystified by an unsigned note delivered at the hospital but a short time after Diamond was received there. It said:

"Please see that Mr. John Diamond has the best possible attention that money can buy."

Emphasizing the request was a roll containing $3,000 in dirty and much handled $100 and $20 bills.

Police also questioned Diamond's wife, who rushed from their home in the Catskills to the hospital. She spent twenty minutes with her wounded husband. He was conscious and able to talk, but what passed between them was kept secret.

Hotel Manager Sought.

The police also wish to question Ginsburg, the hotel manager, who vanished after calling the ambulance and the doctor and turning the situation over to his assistant, Joseph Goldy.

Ginsburg was believed by the police to be a friend of Diamond. He was formerly manager of the Hotel Harding, where Diamond and Owney Madden are supposed to have an interest in the operation of the Club Abbey, and where Diamond for a time maintained his Broadway headquarters.

It is the second time in three years that Diamond has carried five bullet holes to a hospital. In 1927, when "Little Augie" Orgen was killed with two bullets, Diamond, who was walking beside him, received five wounds but survived to reach greater eminence among the gangs and rackets.

Often Arrested, Convicted Once.

He was arrested many times, but only once convicted of burglary. He was one time bodyguard for Arnold Rothstein, the slain gambler, and is trying to recover from his bullet wounds in the same hospital room in which Rothstein died. The shooting of Rothstein likewise occurred in a hotel room and has never been solved. Diamond had been suspected of several gang murders, but the police were never able to pin anything on him.

Commissioner Mulrooney said he did not believe Diamond's recent trip abroad was in order to avoid a gang land death sentence, but to arrange for the importation of contraband, perhaps drugs, for American consumption. The police were trying to connect the shooting with some phase of Diamond's gang activities, but admitted no success up to midnight.

It had been noised about Broadway ever since Diamond sailed for Europe only a few weeks ago that he would be put "on the spot" if he ever came back to this country. Legs may have intended to stay abroad, but the governments of several nations, including England, Holland, and Germany, refused to admit him, and the German authorities put him on a freighter back to the United States. He landed at Philadelphia, but was promptly ordered out of town. He then slipped into New York and went into hiding—but his gang enemies soon found him.

CAPONE REFUGE INVADED

Public enemies discovered yesterday that they no longer have a sanctuary in Cicero. The discovery followed a visit to the western suburb by Chief Investigator Pat Roche and Lieut. William V. Blaul with a squad of raiders from the state's attorney's office whose major purpose was the arrest of Al Capone.

But Al, as becomes a commander-in-chief, was far from the front lines when his stronghold was invaded.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune, $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503, Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Three of his brigadiers fell into captivity, however, and indictments for carrying concealed weapons will be sought for them today. They are:

George ["Red"] Barker, racketeer boss of many unions which furnish him an army of mercenaries often used in promoting Capone's booze enterprises.

William ["Three Fingered Jack"] White, an ex-convict like Barker, handy with a gun and careless of human lives other than his own.

Claude Maddox, alias Johnny Moore, leader of the Circus café gang, who were involved in the Valentine day massacre. Maddox is an agent of Capone in forcing beer on unwilling buyers. He is a graduate from the Egan's Rats gang of St. Louis.

Blaul Starts Raiding Early.

For years Chicago detectives have bemoaned their lack of authority to go into the suburbs after men who commit their crimes and make their money in the city and who have had immunity from arrest in Cicero and Stickney, where Capone has influence.

Lieut. Blaul started in the afternoon, raiding two Hawthorne gambling houses and taking 33 prisoners. The captives were carried to Morton Grove for trial next Thursday before Justice of the Peace W. W. Ward. The places raided were said to be owned by Jack Murphy, who was absent.

At 3502 South 52d avenue J. W. Heater was seized as the keeper. At 3542 South 52d avenue, Vincent Pawlick was named keeper. Among the prisoners taken at No. 3502 were three girls who gave their names as Marie Brady, Patricia Pennino and Julia Brooks.

Raiders Invade Capone Hotel.

Roche and Blaul then led their men into Capone's fort, the Western hotel in Cicero, where a few years ago a thousand machine gun bullets found lodging as a party of Bugs Moran's gangsters drove swiftly by. The major casualty was the blinding of a woman by a bullet. Later two opposition gangsters, Michael Reilly and William Clifford, were found slain in an automobile back of the hotel.

The state's attorney's raiders visited every room in the hotel and seized records found in a room supposed to be Ralphe Capone's. The records are to be examined by the prosecutor's office and by government officials seeking evidence of booze violations and income tax evasions.

The night raids netted thirty prisoners after a dozen other resorts had been visited and searched. Roche and Blaul said they intended their visit would be accepted by Capone as a notice to move and a notice to Cicero officials to clean house.

Herbert Still in Custody.

Another important prisoner under arrest yesterday was Big Earl Herbert, who has a long criminal record and was identified on Saturday as the slayer of Thomas Bonner, a minor racketeer. His arrest was accompanied by the recovery of $22,000 worth of cigars and cigarets stolen from a Walgreen company warehouse a week ago and hidden by Herbert in the basement at 7420 Archer avenue, Summit.

Last spring Herbert was released from the Bridewell after a year there for a cigaret burglary. He was taken to the detective bureau where he was given 10 cents for carfare on his statement of intended reform. He complained of the hardship of that year in jail—he had lost 40 pounds in weight and his hair had turned gray.

Citizens' G.O.P. Committee to Open Offices Today

The Citizens' Republican committee is to open headquarters today at 134 North La Salle street with a reception for the Republican county ticket and party leaders. Rush C. Butler and Foster Nims are the co-chairmen of the citizens' committee.

SUGGESTS WHIP MAY STOP REIGN OF RACKETEERS

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A careful inquiry into the results of flogging as punishment for certain offenses and a prevention of further wrongdoing "may well be made to determine the desirability of employing it in the war against banditry and racketeers," in the opinion of George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission.

Mr. Wickersham's views on the American penal system were set forth in a paper read here tonight before the American Prison association. He had been scheduled to deliver these views in person, but was compelled to cancel the engagement.

Statistical Results Lacking.

He pointed out that in England and Canada flogging by birch or by "the cat" is inflicted, adding that he knew of only one state here, Delaware, where the whip is used.

After suggesting a study of flogging as a punishment for certain offenses, Mr. Wickersham said:

"As a deterrent to others, flogging would seem a priori to present great advantages, but it would be unsafe to assume that as a fact without inquiring into the subsequent career of the flogged offenders as well as into the general effect upon the volume of crimes of the character thus punished."

Touching on the prevention of crime, he said that it may be doubted whether there is an adequate and properly trained police force in any city of the union.

Wrong Attitude Toward Police.

"Much modern crime of the spectacular sort is organized and conducted by fearless men using modern methods and acting on the principle of audacity and surprise," he said. "Nowhere do the police forces appear to have developed methods of defense equal in intelligence and method to those of the aggressors. Nowhere, apparently—not even in Chicago—has an enlightened and imperative public sentiment demanded that the police forces be reorganized, given adequate appropriations and held strictly accountable for the protection of public order."

Mr. Wickersham contended that this country's penal laws and their administration very largely follow traditional lines and are a hopeless mixture of revengeful and reformatory measures.

COLORADO MEN SOFT PEDALING ON PROHIBITION

But Question May Decide Senate Race.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Denver, Colo., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Although the Colorado candidates for office, except Lawrence Lewis, Democratic aspirant to congress in the Denver district, are soft pedaling the prohibition issue, it is a factor in the election that will not down and conceivably might decide the contest for United States senator. Mr. Lewis is shouting it from the house tops that he is for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, if necessary to reform prohibition.

Both the Republican and Democratic managers regard Colorado as dry by at least 50,000 votes. Politically dry, you understand, for in Colorado as in those arid regions anybody who wants a drink can get it, though the efficiency of the bibulous is that it is more difficult to get safe liquor here than in such dry states as Oklahoma, in which a dependable grade of corn juice is obtainable.

Majority Against Dry Regime.

In the Literary Digest poll dry Colorado showed up with 25,753 votes for enforcement of the present law, 18,678 for modification, and 15,484 for repeal, a majority of 8,409 against the present Volstead regime. The politicians think that most of the wet votes in this poll came from Denver, which in 1928 returned a wet to congress. Denver casts about one-third of the vote of the state, which outside of the capital is rated intensely dry.

Edward P. Costigan, the Democratic candidate for senator, is dry, not only nationally but personally. No doubt about that, even his opponents say. But he isn't dwelling on the fact. He isn't waving any red rags at the wets. He contents himself with declaring for genuine, impartial and thorough state law enforcement, including the eighteenth amendment. He does not define whether he would vote for or work modification or repeal in the senate.

Plank for State Rights.

The Democratic state platform is devoid of even the customary declaration for law enforcement, but contains a state rights plank declaring that the time honored home rule prerogatives of "our states are being usurped by the federal government. And we believe the best interests of our people as well as their constitutional right to govern themselves in local affairs demand that we discourage it as much as possible further federal encroachments and stand firmly for the rights of our cities, counties, and state. A free people must ever remember that the smaller units of government are the citadels of their liberty."

The wets assert that the platform frames had prohibition in mind as the chief encroachment on state rights, but concede that the declaration is aimed at future encroachment only.

George Shaw, the Republican candidate for senator is politically dry if not personally wet or was up to a year ago, since which time he has given no word liquor has not touched his lips.

For Law Enforcement.

"Colorado was dry by constitutional provision prior to federal prohibition," reads his formal pronouncement. "Any man who represents Colorado is bound to protect the legislative dignity of this state. I will support strongly and wholeheartedly the stated policy of the Republican administration with reference to law enforcement. I most certainly favor adequate appropriations for proper enforcement."

This declaration is satisfactory to the wets who are satisfied that Mr. Shaw would vote to submit to the states a modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment on terms guaranteeing the legislative integrity of the states in choosing whether to be wet or dry thereafter.

The position of Mr. Shaw was pronounced unacceptable by the Anti-Saloon league, although it indorsed Mr. Shaw's opponent, William V. Hodges, while stating that he would support enforcement of the present law, but the position that as a senator he would not conscientiously refuse to vote for submission to the states of proposals for modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Moreover, he told the league managers that he takes a drink whenever he feels like it.

The story was widely circulated that Mr. Hodges had purchased the league's indorsement for $7,000 invested in oil stock sold him by the secretary of the organization. Mr. Hodges denied the charge, explaining that the league secretary began pestering him more than a year ago to invest $15,000 in an oil well and that he finally gave him $100. The secretary had told Mr. Hodges he was no longer on the league pay roll. It turned out later he was still secretary.

Refuses to "Lie."

When the Denver Democrats asked Lawrence Lewis, a lawyer, to run for congress against Representative William R. Eaton, a dry, he told them they had better look elsewhere, for he would not pussyfoot on prohibition. Thereupon they nominated him and Mr. Lewis proceeded to cut loose. He said his candidacy was a noble experiment to determine whether it is necessary for a candidate to lie to obtain office, for he said he would not straddle any issue.

As a member of congress he said, "I shall vote for measures which will provide that the national government shall devote its efforts to preventing liquor from passing by foreign or interstate commerce into those states that wish to exclude liquor, leaving to the respective states the right and duty to declare and to enforce their own liquor laws and other provisions regulating the private lives and private conduct of their own citizens. If this involves modification or repeal of the Volstead act, as it undoubtedly does, or even the eighteenth amendment, which latter is not at all certain, I favor such modification or repeal.

"This program does not involve the return of the open saloon, which has been effectually abolished and to which I am unalterably opposed."

Body Is Taken from Lake; Wire Twisted About Neck

The body of an unidentified man about 40 years old was found in the lake yesterday off 14th street. South State street police who were summoned by spectators at first believed the man had been murdered, but detectives later found that a heavy wire twisted about the neck probably was done with suicidal intent. All identification marks had been removed from the clothing.

FIFTH WIFE

MRS. LIDA DOWNEY.

Police throughout the middle west continued their search yesterday for George E. W. Perry, a bigamist accused of the murder of his bride, Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett, near Eagle River, Wis. The fifth wife of Perry, Mrs. Lida Downey, 43 years old, a widow, of Eldorado, Ill., was disclosed Saturday. She said she married him in Carmi, Ill., on Aug. 16 following a two year mail courtship, according to word received by the police from State's Attorney D. F. Rumsey of Harrisburg, Ill.

Perry has been traced to Blytheville, Ark., where Mrs. Hackett's automobile was found posted by him as security for a loan of $150. There it was revealed that he had been courting Miss Dorothy Davis of Blytheville. In the car was found letters to Miss Davis postmarked St. Louis.

SWING OF WETS TO DEMOCRATS ALARMS G. O. P.

Bank on Tariff to Keep Them in Power.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Acting upon suggestions from President Hoover, Republican campaign managers are planning to stress the tariff issue as a means of avoiding disaster threatened to the party by the prohibition issue.

The program is to emphasize the menace of a Democratic tariff law in industrial areas, where voters are showing an inclination to swing to Democratic senatorial and congressional candidates opposed to prohibition.

Party leaders in conferences held during the last few days, under the leadership of Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, have reported that their greatest danger is in industrial areas. They have attributed this partly to resentment against the administration because of present unsatisfactory business conditions, but primarily to a wave of sentiment against prohibition laws.

Wets Swing to Democrats.

The trend toward wet Democratic candidates has been marked, so the Republican leaders have reported, among employers as well as employés, in the industrial centers.

Discussion by some of the party leaders with President Hoover have been followed by a decision to make an appeal on the tariff issue with greater vigor in the industrial communities. The President is said to have expressed concern over the congressional situation in general and to have urged that an alarm be sounded over the possibility of a slashing of tariff rates if the Democrats should gain control of congress.

Early in the campaign Republicans could see no possibility of the capture of either the senate or house by the Democrats. Now they admit their apprehension over the situation. To gain complete control the Democrats must gain ten senators and 53 house members.

The Republicans intend to point out that if the Democrats get control of both houses they would immediately revise the tariff.

Ohio Worries Hoover.

Ohio, which usually returns big Republican majorities is one of the states which is causing President Hoover and other Republicans special concern.

Other states in which the prohibition issue is a powerful factor in increasing the strength of Democratic senatorial candidates include Illinois, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware, and New Jersey, all with extensive industrial interests. In Pennsylvania, another industrial state, James J. Davis, the Republican senatorial nominee, seems assured of election but the refusal of W. W. Atterbury to support Gifford Pinchot, dry Republican for governor, is likely to aid Democratic candidates.

LINDBERGHS BUY 150 ACRES FOR HOME IN JERSEY

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh have purchased 150 acres of farm land near Princeton on which it is probable that they will erect a home within a year. In confirming the report Col. Lindbergh said the land as it stood was not suitable for a flying field, but that it would be possible to land a small plane on it with ease.

Col. Lindbergh still maintains his official residence at St. Louis, and when he builds on his new property it is possible that it will be listed as a temporary domicile and that he still will continue to "live" officially at St. Louis. No plans have been made yet as to the type of residence he will build nor has he laid out a flying field on the premises.

Three Girls Are Drowned as Auto Plunges Into River

Groton, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Three young women were drowned in the Nashua river tonight when their closed automobile plunged through the railing of the Main street bridge. They were Mary Mariette and two sisters named Richards from Newton, Mass. Two men escaped from the car and were saved.

ERASE 238,682 IN REVISION OF CITY VOTE REGISTRATION

The Chicago election board announced last night that 238,682 names have been stricken off the registration books in the city as a result of the official revision undertaken by the commissioners last Saturday. The number stricken from the registry lists is approximately 20,000 more than was added at the final registration last Tuesday, and reduces the total registration in Chicago to 1,266,563.

SUMMER DAY SENDS THRONGS OUT OF DOORS

Chicago's unusual post-summer weather, which boosted the mercury to an official maximum of 78 degrees at 11 a. m. yesterday, sent thousands of men, women and children to the parks and crowded the highways with automobiles. The mean temperature for the day was 70 degrees, compared with a normal of 56.

The warm spell may last today and tomorrow, according to C. A. Donnel, the government forecaster.

Many of the thousands who spent the day along the lake shore had their first glimpse of the bird sanctuary just off Addison street, behind the Alaskan totem pole. The sanctuary is four acres in area, enclosed by a high steel fence, and includes a lake, swamps, and rolling hills. Wild fowl make the haven their home. The sanctuary is in charge of Carl Poppe, Lincoln Park landscape gardener.

HITS PROSPERITY PARADES ON EVE OF JOB PARLEY

Clifford Barnes Attacks "False Optimism."

Mayor Thompson's Chicago day celebration last Thursday, in which W. R. Hearst, California publisher, was the chief guest, was described as a "false day of optimism" by Clifford W. Barnes in a speech last night before the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall. Mr. Barnes is president of the club.

Mr. Barnes, who will meet with Gov. Emmerson's committee on unemployment today, warned that undue optimism is a handicap in solving the problem.

"We want to inform ourselves regarding conditions," he said, "and find out how bad the unemployment situation is. Then we will try to better it."

"What a Great Time!"

Mr. Barnes mentioned no names in his remarks about the Thompson-Hearst parade.

"What a day we had, with balloons floating, horns tooting, sirens shrieking, bands playing, and auto jams blocking traffic!" he said.

"Everybody said: 'What a great time!' It reminded me of the nursery rhyme about little Jack Horner, who pulled out a plum and said, 'What a great boy am I!'

"I want to know the truth about our city, its crime conditions, its financial condition, its political situation. I want to know just how bad we are, and I want you to know, so we may then start to clean things up. Conditions are rotten in the city hall, rotten in crime, rotten in a financial way.

"Let's face the facts and not blind ourselves with parades, bands, sirens, and false optimism."

Business Leaders to Meet.

Gov. Emmerson's conference on remedies for unemployment is to convene at the Hotel La Salle at 3 p. m. with a group of business and industrial leaders prepared to discuss their views with the governor.

Prof. Benjamin M. Squires of the University of Chicago, a member of the advisory committee of the state department of labor, who is among those to attend the conference, said one of the principal tasks would be to avoid further reduction of employment. He expressed the belief that a plan for shorter working hours would improve conditions, and asserted that a definite plan for meeting the unemployment problem this winter would have to be devised.

Representatives of the three major manufacturing and commercial groups in the state, the Illinois Manufacturers' association, the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, and the Chicago Association of Commerce, are to attend the conferences.

100,000 SHAKE FISTS AT FASCIST PARTY IN BERLIN

Defy Hitler on the Eve of Reichstag Opening.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—One hundred thousand German Socialists today defied Fascism and dictatorships in a gigantic demonstration at the Lustgarten called by Dr. Paul Loebe, Socialist Democratic president of the reichstag. The huge mass meeting, punctuated by frequent clashes among political foes in which scores were wounded, was held on the eve of the opening session of the new parliament.

An ear splitting cheer arose when Dr. Loebe warned opponents of Socialists that "the Social Democrats will oppose the Fascists with iron will and, if necessary, with workmen's fists."

Fascists Heckle Paraders.

In attempting to inspire the Social Democratic members with confidence for the parliamentary struggle, their standard bearer continued:

"Adolf Hitler is not strong enough to cancel the reparation debt, which is crushing Germany. He is not strong enough to end the business crisis, which is a world crisis."

At the end of the demonstration the thousands of Socialists marched past the former kaiser's palace. Groups of Fascisti stood at street corners heckling the paraders and soon the streets were dotted with fist fights. Police arrested thirty-eight.

Will Wear Colored Shirts.

The 107 Fascist members of the new parliament will attempt to enter the hall tomorrow in a body, contrary to the Prussian laws, wearing the brown shirts of the Hitler movement. The 77 Communists will try the same stunt. They plan to hide their red shirts under overcoats, shedding them in parliament. Once inside they are immune from arrest.

The Nationalist party today voted to introduce a resolution of nonconfidence in the Bruening government tomorrow.

CHEMNITZ, Germany, Oct. 12.—Communist "storm troops" today carried out field maneuvers around the villages of Baensdorf and Krumbach, near Falkenberg, the discharge of firearms adding realism. They disappeared when police reached the scene.

15 Hurt in Vienna Riot.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 12.—Two were seriously wounded and 13 others slightly hurt when police clashed with National Socialists at a mass-meeting here this afternoon. More than 20,000 Nationalists had assembled in front of the former royal palace and were protesting the treaty of Saint Germain and demanded an "anschluss" with Germany. The throng was celebrating the tenth anniversary of the plebiscite of Carinthia, which decided that the province would remain a part of Austria. The crowd sang "Deutschland uber Alles."

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 12. — This city celebrated the "Dia de la Raza" with exceptional enthusiasm today when Gen. Jose Uriburu, head of the provisional government, reviewed troops after a military parade down the city's main thoroughfares. A number of cadets wounded during the revolution on Sept. 5 received an ovation as they were carried down the Avenida de Mayo, where they received their wounds.

March on State of Bahia.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Oct. 12.—(AP)—All Brazil northeast of the Sao Francisco river today is in the hands of the revolutionary armies, who, heartened by tremendous popular acclaim, are beginning an offensive into the states of Sergipe and Bahia, still loyal to the federal government in Rio de Janeiro.

Advices reaching here from the state of Ceara say the governor, or president so-called, has been made prisoner. No details were learned.

Mobilize Four Warships.

BAHIA, Brazil, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Four warships have been assembled in this port by the federals for naval operations against the rebels in the north.

The cruiser Rio Grande do Sul and the destroyer Belmonte arrived today with the transport Commandante Capella, which brought reinforcements for Gen. Santa Cruz, federal army commander. The auxiliary cruiser Commandante Alvim left Rio de Janeiro for Bahia yesterday.

Rout 2,000 Rebels.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A government announcement today said that federal troops had defeated 2,000 rebels at Punto Ribeira and Itarare, in the state of Sao Paulo, near the Parana frontier.

The statement also asserted that a federal force of 2,000 volunteers had attacked insurgent forces at Jacarezinho, in northern Parana, and defeating them, had continued their advance into Parana toward Colonia Mineira.

In the state of Goyaz, the announcement said, military police defeated a rebel column raised by Pedro Ludovici, taking him and 70 followers prisoners and putting 200 others to flight.

Caravellas, in southern Bahia, which rebel forces in broadcasts from Porto Alegre claimed to have taken, remained in federal hands, the statement said, after military police defending that port had beaten back an attack of insurgents from the state of Minas Geraes. Three leaders and many of the ranks were captured in the encounter.

Claim Federal Retreat.

PORTO ALEGRE, Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The southern revolutionary army claimed today to have advanced over a wide front along the frontier of Sao Paulo and Parana, with their vanguard in some places in possession of several Sao Paulo towns.

In several instances there have been skirmishes between the rebel advance guard and the Sao Paulistas, but official announcements here say the federal forces have fled. As a consequence, they have avoided the major battle which the insurgents had expected in the vicinity of Castro, and which now is expected to occur nearer Sao Paulo frontier, or within that great coffee growing state.

Bello Horizonte advices stated a detachment from northeastern Minas Geraes had cut into the state of Bahia, above Espirito Santo, and had taken the small port of Caravellos.

DESCRIBES RISING AS NATIONAL MOVE TO PURIFY BRAZIL'S RULE

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The revolution is not mutinous in character, but is supported by all classes, including rich farm owners, manufacturers, the middle classes, and workingmen.

We are pleased to inform all nations of the constructive purpose of the revolution, which hopes to restore morality of administration, and to re-establish Brazilian credit abroad.

It is entirely false that the movement has any connection with bolshevik politics. It is important to note that the red badges worn everywhere are the badges of the old distinctive Liberal party.

When a Child is FEVERISH, CROSS, UPSET

Colic, gas, sour belching, frequent vomiting, feverishness, in babies and children, generally show food is souring in the little digestive tract.

When these symptoms appear, give Baby a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Add it to the first bottle of food in the morning. Older children should be given a tablespoonful in a glass of water. This will comfort the child—make his stomach and bowels easy. In five minutes he is comfortable, happy. It will sweep the bowels free of all sour, indigestible food. It opens the bowels in constipation, colds, children's ailments. Children take it readily because it is palatable, pleasant-tasting.

Learn its many uses for mother and child. Write for the interesting book, "Useful Information." Address The Phillips Co., 170 Varick St., New York, N. Y. It will be sent FREE.

In buying, be sure to get genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Doctors have prescribed it for over 50 years.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

EIGHT BATTLE FOR ESTATE OF PIONEER DAYS

Holdings Worth Millions Dwindle to $100,000.

A black cholera plague swept over this country nearly 80 years ago and Daniel Morgan Bliss, a Chicago carriage maker and blacksmith, was among those who died. That was in 1832.

Today eight persons are engaged in a probate court fight over the $100,000 which that remains of the once valuable holdings of the pioneer carriage maker.

When Bliss died his widow and 10 months old daughter, Amelia, inherited the property fronting on Adams street between Clark and Dearborn, part of the present site of the Federal building, and other downtown real estate now worth millions. The family, however, disposed of the downtown property and purchased other real estate farther west, family records indicating that the widow thought the city was growing westward and that the downtown property would not be worth much. Then she died.

Daughter Leaves No Will.

The daughter, Amelia, was the only child and she inherited the Bliss estate. When she died last year at the age of 79 she left no will to dispose of her property, valued at $100,000. The only relatives then known were two maternal cousins of Amelia Bliss. They are Mrs. Terrance McGovern and her sister, Mary Clinton, who reside at 1317 East 52d street. They established proof of relationship and were recognized as the lawful heirs to the Bliss estate, after they had provided a refunding bond in event other heirs should become known.

This contingency arose in the claim of Martha Blackney of 1615 Colfax street, Evanston, who entered proof that she, too, was a maternal cousin. Last week, in the Probate court, the relationship of Martha Blackney was established and the two sisters agreed to share the estate with her.

Five Others Enter Claims.

In the meantime, five other persons representing themselves as paternal cousins of Amelia Bliss entered claims to the estate and introduced documentary evidence in support of their contentions. Among their evidence was a geneology of the Bliss family in America, which showed that their grandfather and Amelia Bliss' grandfather was Peletiah Bliss of Williston, Vt.

These five claimants are Frank P. Hall, 62 years old, of Salida, Colo.; his brother, Charles E. Hall, 84 years old, of Ayr, Neb.; Mrs. Minnie Head, 81 years old, of Hooksett, N. H.; her sister, Mrs. Hattie Greene, 74 years old, of Concord, N. H.; and Mrs. Eliza Lowe, 82 years old, of Burlington, Vt. These five contend that their mothers were sisters of Daniel Morgan Bliss.

Their Bliss family record showed that their grandfather, Peletiah, was of the Bliss family which settled in New England in 1635 and later included Cornelius Bliss, who was in President McKinley's cabinet.

This evidence was heard last week by Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to the probate judge, and was taken under advisement by Probate Judge Henry Horner, who indicated he would enter a decision on Oct. 28.

ARMY EXHIBITS, TROOPS, WILL BE AT CHICAGO FAIR

Navy Also to Participate in Exposition.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Military maneuvers and exhibits by the United States army, including demonstrations of the newest developments in the science of fighting, will be one of the attractions for visitors at the Chicago World's Fair in 1933.

Active army participation in the exposition was assured today by a war department announcement that the various branches of the service already have started preparation of their plans for the fair. Although details are to be worked out later in conjunction with officials of the fair, the tentative proposals include both indoor and outdoor presentations.

"The plans contemplate certain troop participation and a series of exhibits which will cover the last hundred years in the army and demonstrate its military and civilian activities during that period," the announcement stated.

"To this end each chief of arm and service has been called upon to submit, at the earliest practicable date, complete data for the exhibits which should be included to cover the activities of his arm of service.

The extent of the troop participation in the fair depends upon factors to be determined later, but it is not unlikely that a full regiment of soldiers will be encamped at the fair for participation in parades, field shows, and maneuvers on special days.

The army undoubtedly will demonstrate experimental models of its latest equipment including tanks, anti-aircraft guns, and the new semi-automatic shoulder rifles. It probably will have one building or section of a building reserved for its exhibits.

One phase of the army exhibits promising to be the most interesting will be that dealing with its historical progress. This will include the development of uniforms, side arms, camping paraphernalia, wagons or trucks, and field equipment used in all of the American wars.

Although there has been no official announcement it is known that the navy department as well as the war department has taken tentative steps toward participation in the fair. It has been suggested that the navy bring into Lake Michigan a part of the Atlantic fleet for the greatest naval display ever seen in the great lakes. It is almost certain that one or more destroyers, at least, will make the trip to Chicago by way of the St. Lawrence route.

Chicago members of congress will probably ask that one or both of the two 6,500,000 cubic feet dirigibles now under construction for the navy at Akron, O., be brought to the fair.

The war and navy departments have taken the lead in preparations for participation in the fair as provided under a resolution adopted at the last session of congress.

GOVERNOR LAUDS IMMIGRANTS AT COLUMBUS FETE

Italians and Spaniards Celebrate Day.

Five thousand Italians gathered at the Navy pier to celebrate Columbus day, yesterday cheered Gov. Louis L. Emmerson when he paid tribute to "the thousands of loyal immigrants" from Europe who have contributed to the success of the United States as a nation.

On the south side, several thousand persons, most of them of Spanish descent, also celebrated the day with a parade. Speakers at both occasions claimed credit for both Spain and Italy for having produced Christopher Columbus, the discoverer of America.

"We are a widely separated country with greatly varied sectional interests," Gov. Emmerson told the crowd at the pier. "We have been peopled by all the nations of the globe. Yet our foreign born have grasped the true spirit of America and, relinquishing the teachings of their homelands, have joined in maintaining and perpetuating the ideals of American freedom.

"Today there runs from coast to coast a national consciousness that subordinates special interest to the general good."

The governor then went on to predict that the United States, having passed through one great era, was on the eve of entering into a new golden age.

Sees New Industrial Era.

"Life would not be easy today for those who would attempt to live by the standards of fifty years ago," he continued. "Nor will the next fifty years bring success to those who live by today's standards. Increased use of machinery and the growing complexity of life will make education and training even more necessary than it is today.

"We are headed towards an age of industry, an age when more complete development of our industrial life will give us the time to turn back to the arts which we have not developed in pace with industry."

Other speakers were Municipal Judge Francis Borelli, who presided at the meeting; Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding general of the 5th corps area; and Judges John Lupe and John Sbarbaro.

Spanish Societies Parade.

The Knights of Columbus, Boy Scouts, Mexican bands, and representatives of many Spanish and Mexican societies participated in the south side parade, which ended in Columbus square, 92d street and South Chicago avenue, where Charles S. Peterson, city treasurer, was the principal speaker.

At a dinner in the Hotel La Salle in the evening many prominent Italians of the city paid tribute to the famous navigator. Judge Borelli was toastmaster.

Addresses were made by Prof. George B. Hewitson, Rear Admiral Crosley, A. M. Gualano, Bernard Barasa, and Dr. Antonio Ferme, Italian consular commissioner. Among those present were Dr. G. Castruccio, Italian consul general; Horatio Tocco, consular attorney, and E. Maglione, director of the Bank of Naples.

All schools will be closed today as part of the Columbus day celebration. Most of the municipal, criminal and county courts will be closed. Today will also be a holiday for banks.

Rob South Side Hotel, Imprison 3 in Closet

Three robbers entered the Ritz hotel, 4711 Kenwood avenue, early yesterday, imprisoned a guest and two employés in a closet and fled with $225 from the safe and cash register. Frank McAllister, a guest, was seized as he walked into the lobby, and was locked in a closet with James Whitington, the clerk, and George Thomas, a bell boy.

ENVOYS OF AMERICA JOIN GENOESE IN COLUMBUS TRIBUTE

GENOA, Italy, Oct. 12.—(AP)—This city of Columbus today, by express order of the Fascist government, celebrated as never before the anniversary of the famous Oct. 12 of 1492, when the intrepid explorer made his first landfall in the new world.

Large crowds turned out to view the Columbus relics preserved in the city hall, and costly wreaths were placed on his monument and at the house preserved as his birthplace.

From early morning flags were out all over the city, that of Italy mingling with those of the countries beyond the ocean that the explorer helped to bring into being. The harbor, in honor of the great sailor, fluttered with multicolored pennants.

At the house reputed to be his birthplace a guard of honor of carabineers watched all day long. Diplomatic representatives of all the countries of the Americas filed through the doors to lay their wreaths and bow their heads in tribute.

Representatives of the United States wore formal morning clothes and those from the Latin-American republics glittering gala dress.

From the balcony of the United States consulate flew the Stars and Stripes, the Italian tricolor, and the flag of Genoa.

Dances and dinner parties provided the entertainment for the American colony, many coming from Leghorn and even from Rome to attend these festivities.

MEDICAL SOCIETY PLANS FIGHT ON PUBLIC CLINICS

Would Revoke Licenses of Physicians.

Plans of the Chicago Medical society to take action against medical clinics, including those at the University of Chicago and the Public Health institute, were revealed yesterday in a letter sent to the state department of registration and education by Dr. N. S. Davis III, secretary of the medical society.

That the physicians who are associated with these clinics may be cited for revocation of their licenses to practice medicine was also indicated by the letter.

Dr. Davis, as secretary of the society, said in the letter that he is seeking to learn the attitude of the state medical board on whether the actions stated might not be taken under the Illinois medical practice act.

War on Charity Work.

The Chicago Medical society in the past has charged that clinics such as are operated by the University of Chicago in connection with its medical school are unfairly in competition with private practitioners, and that the income of the latter is seriously hampered by the charity work done by the university clinics. The same charge that the Public Health institute, through low fees and advertising, has hampered the earning powers of Chicago physicians has been made in the society's long war to close the institute.

At one time the Chicago Lyin-In hospital, headed by Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, sought to establish a maternity clinic in South Chicago to serve the expectant mothers in the manufacturing and steel mill region, giving them advice and treatment during expectancy. The medical society successfully opposed this clinic, and the plan was abandoned.

Dr. Davis in his latter, which was addressed to Dr. Arthur H. Geiger, a member of the state medical board, said he had been reading over the medical practice act.

"Paragraph 6 provides," the letter stated, "that a license may be revoked if a licentiate holds himself out to treat human ailments under any other name than his own. Is not a physician who, for example, advertises by circulars or placards under the name of the 'Chicago Health institute' or the 'Boston institute' practicing medicine under a name other than his own? Neither of these institutions is incorporated in Illinois. It is possible that the same might apply to those employed by such a corporation as the Public Health institute.

Matter of Association.

"Paragraph 10 of this section provides that one may lose his license for professional connection or association with any person, firm or corporation holding himself, themselves or itself out in any manner contrary to the act.

"The Chicago General Health service, incorporated by one Schultze and others, can, according to its articles of incorporation, practice as an 'other practitioner'; the Public Health institute can, according to its articles of incorporation, among other things, practice both medicine and dentistry.

"The University of Chicago is practicing medicine under its university charter. None of these institutions can or has complied with the provisions of the medical practice act. Has not the secretary of state exceeded his powers in granting such articles of incorporation? Are not these corporations, despite their charters, holding themselves out contrary to the medical practice act?

Can License Be Revoked?

"Why cannot those having professional connection or association with any corporation have their licenses revoked because of such connection? It would make no difference whether they were licensed as physicians or as other practitioners.

"It seems to me that these sections must have been included for the purpose of preventing the practice of medicine by corporations or under such names as the Boston institute or the Chicago Health institute or the Public Health institute. If enforced they would certainly put a stop to such practices and their enforcement would be beneficial to the public.

"Could you let me know what the medical committee thinks about this?"

Dr. Geiger referred the letter to Philip Ringer, assistant attorney general in charge of state license revocations, who in turn sought advice from Harry A. Ash, first assistant attorney general. Mr. Ash held that if a formal opinion from the attorney general is sought, a request should be made by Michael Walsh, director of the department of education and registration, upon Attorney General Carlstrom.

MISS INGALLS AND BOY AVIATOR LAND AT AMARILLO, TEX.

Amarillo, Tex., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Robert Buck of Elizabeth, N. J., and Miss Laura Ingalls of St. Louis, seeking to establish west to east transcontinental flight records, landed here today after flying from Albuquerque, N. M.

Buck encountered engine trouble over Tucumcari, N. M., and was forced to land here for repairs. Miss Ingalls landed on account of bad weather.

Both expected to take off at daylight tomorrow for the east. Buck left Albuquerque at 8:40 a. m. [M. S. T.] and landed here at 12:40 p. m. [C. S. T.]. Miss Ingalls left the New Mexico city at 6:42 a. m. [M. S. T.] and arrived at 10:25 a. m. [C. S. T.].

Buck is attempting to set a new junior transcontinental west to east record. Miss Ingalls is trying to establish a woman's west-east mark.

KEELEY INSTITUTE SEES NEW RECORD FOR RUM PATIENTS

With 84 more patients under treatment up to Oct. 1 than in the first nine months of last year, the management of Keeley institute at Dwight, Ill., yesterday predicted that 1930 would break the all time record established by the institute in 1907. The report reveals a sharp decline in drug patients since prohibition in contrast to the steadily increasing number of post-Volstead drinkers.

The report, signed by Secretary Martin Nelson of the institute, answers a statement made by Miss Helen Wood, president of the Illinois branch of the W. C. T. U. in a recent speech at Lake Bluff. Miss Wood indicated that the treatment of drug addicts was a new venture at the institute and that such patients were a large factor in the steadily increasing registration figures.

The institute report, however, shows that the peak in drug cases was reached in 1900 with 116 cases; 98 cases in 1907 and 102 in 1915. The peak since prohibition was 44 drug patients in 1923, while of 677 patients treated to Oct. 1 this year but 21 were drug cases. There were 33 drug cases in 1929 in a total of 794 cases.

N. Y. FINANCIER AND HIS PILOT SOUGHT IN VAIN

The whereabouts of Charles V. Bob, New York banker and mining engineer, and his pilot, Col. Dean Lamb, British war flyer, continued a mystery last night despite the efforts of New York authorities who wish to question Bob regarding the affairs of the Luminous Products company and Metal Mines, Inc.

Bob and Lamb have been missing since Wednesday when they landed at the Municipal airport here and left instructions to have the plane fueled and serviced for flight the following day. Friends of Bob in New York last night expressed the belief that he was the victim of Chicago racketeers.

Watson Washburn, assistant attorney general of New York state, has been seeking Bob for several days, according to New York dispatches. On report of his disappearance Washburn sent a statistician to the banker's offices to learn as much as possible about the companies with which Bob was associated.

INSULL REPORTS 7% GAIN IN HIS 1930 BUSINESS

He Says Depression Is Only Temporary.

for extensions of permanent plants next year, Mr. Insull refers specifically to Chicago as follows:

"The expenditures for this year have been, and those for next year will be, spread over 29 to 30 states. However, of the sums given, upwards of $90,000,000 of the 1930 expenditures have been or will be in and around Chicago, and it is estimated that upwards of $124,000,000 will be spent in this area next year.

"The increase in the expenditures to be made in and around Chicago next year will be somewhat influenced by the rapidity achieved in consummating the consolidation of the local transportation system."

Then follows in the statement an explanation of the time required to obtain a return on a capital expenditure in the utility business. It is Mr. Insull's estimate that on the average it takes a year to a year and a quarter for earnings to show on expenditures for extensions and additions.

"Depression Only Temporary."

"In looking ahead," continues the statement," we look upon the business depression as only temporary. We feel that this depression will have relatively little effect upon the growth of our business over a period of years."

As indicating that the investing public holds this same view, Mr. Insull says:

"Notwithstanding the fact that business is depressed, it has been easy enough to raise money for capital expenditures this year, and we believe it will be the same for expenditures we expect to make next year. We have had no trouble in selling for investment either stocks or bonds.

"As examples, one of our companies has doubled its number of stockholders in less than a year and another shows upward of 25 per cent increase in the number of its stockholders. Therefore we feel that the public shares our faith in the future of our business."

Earnings Gave Warning.

Discussing earnings, Mr. Insull says that the decrease in the rate of increase in earnings last summer gave a warning of the approaching depression.

"When the panic of last November occurred," continues the statement, "I wondered whether it would be followed by a decided depression in our business. I felt that I had had no experience that would enable me to forecast the effect that panic in the stock market and a general depression in business would have upon the revenue of public utilities.

"In the gas business, so far as retail customers are concerned, the saturation point had about been reached. Increased output and revenue could be expected only through additional use for house heating and in connection with manufacturing processes."

His View of Electricity.

Mr. Insull says he could not then decide whether the use of electricity, locally, had reached the saturation point. Now his view is:

"Month to month experience of this year, 1930, has brought me to the conclusion that although the use of manufactured gas has more or less reached the saturation point, except in house heating and the arts, the decrease in revenue from the sale of gas in times of depression is relatively slight.

"The situation in regard to the use of electricity is even more favorable. We still get a steady increase of use for household purposes, and this increase has been about enough to compensate for decreased use in the arts brought about by the depression."

Down to Brass Tacks.

Getting down to brass tacks on earnings, Mr. Insull says:

"Such favorable conclusions, however, cannot be reached in regard to transportation. The decrease in revenue of the transportation lines under our management has been, for the first eight months of 1930, at an average of about 7 per cent; whereas, all of the properties of the Insull group, taken together—gas, electricity and transportation properties—show an average increase of a little over 7 per cent.

"It is worth particular mention that the increase in gas and electric business has been least in the large centers of population, and highest in the country and suburban territories.

1930 Balance Sheets Good.

"On the whole, the Insull group of properties will show reasonably good balance sheets for 1930. Our real troubles are confined to suburban and interurban transportation properties. Some of these are doing pretty well, due to local conditions. But in most cases this branch of the transportation business is adversely affected, not only by the general business depression, but by the competition of the automobile."

On employment Mr. Insull's statement says:

"For a number of years operating expenditures of all public utilities have been quite high. It is not possible to hold down operating costs during a period when every one is spending money lavishly. When a depression comes, however, a time when every one thinks he is poor and is trying to save money, it is natural for an operating manager to endeavor to cut expenses.

"Whilst we all try to keep all of our people employed, the disposition to curtail what might be called the frills of the business and see to it that we get a full day's work for a full day's pay is inevitable. But the really efficient amongst our employés need have little concern about the continuity of their employment because of this tightening up policy."

Another word about the future is contained in the following:

"Speaking from my own experience in the operation of properties of the so-called Insull group, I have the greatest confidence that the conservatively financed utilities the country over will weather the present business depression with great credit to themselves and satisfaction to their owners.

"Also, that they will continue to make large expenditures for additional plant and equipment, despite the depression. Thus they will be ready to reap the advantage of the upturn which will come to the utilities as soon as general business shows even a relatively slight improvement."

CLAIMS TOO MUCH WAR AND SILVER INJURE CHINA

Capt. Dollar Urges Gold as Currency Basis.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12.—Capt. Robert Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship company, who for 30 years has been connected with Chinese-American trade, declared in an address here that China is suffering from two maladies—too much civil war and too much silver.

In reference to the silver situation, particularly the investigation of Chinese-American trade, headed by Senator Key Pittman, called recently in Los Angeles, Capt. Dollar said:

"There will be no permanent solution of Chinese trade or the exchange situation until China adopts a gold standard, eliminating silver as the basis for her currency.

Too Much Silver.

"The result of the silver slump to less than half its previous value in China has practically forced her out of world markets, causing a drop of practically 60 per cent of Chinese-American trade.

"The present investigation of the Pittman committee is bound to be futile because silver is affected with the same malady as wheat—over-production—and there is no prospect for the improvement of the silver price, unless the miners are willing to close the mines until the consumption overtakes the production."

In reference to the prospects of China's adoption of a gold standard Capt. Dollar stated that it was first necessary to overcome the objections of certain banking and financial interests who are chiefly concerned with silver speculation, and that hence they are not desirous of a stabilized gold currency.

Chiang Outlines Cure.

Gen. Chiang Kai-shek in a nation-wide manifesto today announced that China is facing five post-war tasks, namely:

"The rehabilitation of national finances, eradication of communism and banditry, development of an honest governmental administration, development of the productive industrial enterprises, and the enforcement of local autonomy throughout the country."

900 Lose Playground in Collapse of Gym Roof

Nine hundred boys and girls were deprived of gymnasium facilities Saturday night when the roof of the gymnasium at the University Settlement social center, 4630 Gross avenue, collapsed. No one was injured, but eleven boys who had been playing basketball left the floor only five minutes before the crash. The gymnasium, a one story brick building, is only four years old and attendants at the social center were unable to explain the cave-in.

PROFESSOR'S PRAISE OF JUSTICE OLSON IS SENT TO VOTERS

Supporting the candidacy of Harry Olson for reëlection as chief justice of the Municipal court, a committee of attorneys is distributing by post card a report made to the Illinois crime survey concerning the qualifications of the chief justice. The postcard, bearing the names of John E. Northup, John A. Massen and David Silbert, says the following:

"Prof. Raymond Morley of Columbia university, in his report to the Illinois crime survey, said the following about Harry Olson, chief justice of the Municipal court of Chicago: 'It is to be said in favor of the present chief justice that he has exercised his large powers as chief justice of this court with very remarkable skill and force.

"'In spite of the general breakdown of the administration of criminal justice in the city of Chicago, the Municipal court has probably survived with less discredit than most of the other agencies of law enforcement, due to the high standards and vigilant watchfulness of the present chief justice.

"'It should be said, in addition, that he has been an able exponent of the idea of judicial reform in municipalities throughout the United States. He has, through writing and speaking, performed a distinct public service to other states and cities.'"

EASTERN ROADS INCREASING USE OF ELECTRICITY

Find Replacing Steam Is Profitable.

Following is the eighth of a series of articles prepared by Mr. Henning as a result of a survey of the eastern electrified railroads made by him:

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Electrification of steam railroads is going on apace in the eastern part of the country. One after another the roads are eliminating steam locomotives on important stretches of their lines because electrification improves service, improved service increases patronage and increased patronage swells profits.

The Pennsylvania railroad has embarked upon an undertaking involving the complete electrification of its right of way between New York and Washington, D. C.

The New York Central is planning the extension of the third rail to Buffalo as soon as an agreement can be come to with various cities along its route with respect to the removal of its tracks from grade.

The Lackawanna is electrifying from Hoboken to Dover, N. J., in addition to its New York suburban service.

B. & O. Plans Electrification.

The Baltimore and Ohio has announced its intention of electrifying the main line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Reading contingent upon the incorporation of these roads in its system. The Reading is electrifying its Philadelphia suburban service. The road's plans also call for electrification to Bethlehem and Reading, Pa.

The Lehigh Valley is planning the electrification of its main line between Mauch Chunk and Wilkesbarre, Pa.

The Pennsylvania has completed electrification between Philadelphia and Wilmington and between Philadelphia and Trenton. The gaps between Trenton and Manhattan Transfer and between Wilmington and Washington are to be electrified by 1937, by which time the Pennsylvania will have 2,300 miles of track operated by electricity.

Boston to Washington Soon.

Inasmuch as the Pennsylvania connects by the electric New York Connecting railroad with the New York, New Haven and Hartford, which is electrified between New York and New Haven, Conn., Boston and Washington through trains will be operated solely by electricity between Washington and New Haven upon completion of the Pennsylvania project. There is reason to believe that by that time the New Haven will have embarked upon the electrification of its line between New Haven and Boston.

The Pennsylvania project also includes the electrification of the main line westward from Philadelphia as far as Atglen, Pa. Altogether there will be 325 miles of passenger and freight line comprising 1,300 miles of track electrified. The work will cost about $100,000,000.

Factors Influencing Pennsylvania.

According to Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, the immediate factors influencing the company to proceed with this electrification were the following:

"1. The greater economy of electric traction as compared to steam operation in dense traffic territories;

"2. The growth of the southern passenger business;

"3. The increasing density of both freight and passenger business on our eastern lines and the probability that in the future more rapid movement would be required;

"4. The desirability of utilizing the advantages of electric traction in connection with the construction of our new passenger terminals at Philadelphia and Newark;

"5. The desirability of building a locomotive that would meet the requirements from the standpoint of weight of train, speed and reliability that we believe will have to be met in this territory in the next twenty years;

"6. The probability that the project, if started now, could be completed with a less total expenditure, all matters considered, than if started at a later date."

Looking Toward Future.

In deciding upon this vast project of electrification the master minds of the Pennsylvania were taking a long look ahead. Just how long a look is indicated by Gen. Atterbury.

"The authorization of the board of directors to inaugurate this work," he said, "follows exhaustive studies of the whole industrial and transportation situations in the eastern part of the country, including the terminal developments already under way or projected for Philadelphia and Newark. While this analysis was worked out in detail on the basis of traffic estimated for the year 1935, the probability was not lost sight of that by 1950 the metropolitan area around New York would extend to New Brunswick on the west and well out on Long Island on the east and contain 30,000,000 people, and that there would be similar development in other cities.

"The system adopted will be such that it will, by the simple addition of increased power and increased rolling stock, handle a movement of any magnitude which it is possible to handle over the existing tracks and at such speed, within the bounds necessary for safe operation as the demands of the traffic may require from time to time."

Greatest Project of Kind.

Gen. Atterbury said that this electrification "will far exceed in magnitude and in importance that of any other railroad in the world, in miles of track to be electrified, in volume and density of passenger and freight business handled, in size and amount of equipment required, in the number of trains affected, and in terminal operations involved."

It will be accomplished, however, by the expenditure of only about $15,000,000 a year, 60 per cent of which is being expended for catenary, transmission line and substation construction and 40 per cent for rolling stock.

"This," said the general, "will be a normal percentage of Pennsylvania railroad improvement expenditures, which have been averaging $70,000,000 a year; a reasonable portion of which has always been provided out of surplus earnings. These proposed capital expenditures for electrification will make unnecessary certain other capital expenditures on this section of the railroad which would have to be made unless electrification is carried out."

In describing the results expected of this electrification Gen. Atterbury drew a picture of passenger travel by faster trains, gliding quietly over the roadbed and starting and stopping without bumps and jerks.

Will Eliminate Double Engines.

"In the case of passenger trains," he said, "we expect to eliminate all double heading and most, if not all, of the second sections of trains and avoid the possibility of rough handling due to limited starting capacity, all of which make for greater comfort, better service, and increased capacity of the line.

"By the method of operation proposed we expect eventually to reduce the number of freight trains 50 per cent for a given car movement and increase the speed to any reasonable extent required. This of itself provides for a 100 per cent increase in capacity in so far as freight movement is concerned.

"We intend to use an alternating current single phase system of electric traction, similar to that now in use in our Philadelphia suburban service, because we believe it the best adapted for heavy traction trunk line service. Our engineers studied this system abroad a number of years ago, and in anticipation of the future we have been working on its development ever since. It is now used extensively in Germany, Switzerland, and Sweden, and in this country on the New Haven, Norfolk and Western, and Virginian railways.

Multiple Unit Suburban Cars.

"In suburban service we will use multiple unit cars similar to those in the subways of New York and Philadelphia and those at present in use on our Philadelphia suburban lines, because they are more desirable from the standpoint of rapid transit on runs where frequent stops must be made.

"The through freight and passenger service will be handled by electric locomotives, because they handle that kind of service best.

"With the assistance of the electric companies we have developed three types of electric locomotives which, when used singly or in multiples as required, will provide any power demanded by size, weight of trains, or speed."

WATER IS TOO LOW FOR U. S. STEAMBOAT TO DOCK AT QUINCY

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—For the second time in thirty days the United States steamboat Gen. Allen has not docked at Quincy owing to the low water in the Mississippi river. Yesterday she passed Quincy, bearing Maj. C. L. Hall and a company of army engineers, and members of the rivers and harbors committee, and press representatives.

Maj. Hall put off in a government motor boat at Canton, Mo., and came down to Quincy. Later, when the Gen. Allen was in midchannel, Maj. Hall and his party got aboard the big boat and proceeded on down the river.

Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, recently landed in a similar manner.

The river has been stationary here for several days, being a foot and two-tenths above low water mark.

The Illinois river stage continues to improve as the flow of water diverted through the Chicago drainage canal has been increased.

ROBBERS COW 15 IN GROCERY; GET $700 HIDDEN CASH

Three bandits cowed 15 men and women in the Blue Island avenue grocery, 1914 Blue Island avenue, yesterday and escaped with $700. The money, hidden away, was revealed to the robbers by the wife of one of the owners of the grocery, who feared injury to her three children.

The store was crowded with Sunday morning purchasers when the bandits sauntered in, drifted into strategic positions, and drew their guns. One bandit forced Leo Fordon, one of the proprietors, upstairs, while the other two remained downstairs to guard his brother and partner, John Fordon, and the customers.

Upstairs the robber came upon Mrs. Frances Fordon, wife of John, who disclosed the hidden money under threat of violence to her children, herself, and her brother-in-law. The gunmen departed without opening the cash register or making any attempt to search the frightened customers.

MANY KILLINGS UNDER DRY ACT ARE UNEXPLAINED

But Agents Are Freed in U. S. Courts.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Vignettes of prohibition days, showing several strange and unexplained deaths, are contained in the report of the prohibition department showing that 134 citizens have been killed since national prohibition enforcement was attempted, through actions of prohibition agents alone.

Where it is not a clear case of self defense, the circumstances in which these deaths occur are usually moved to protest and to try to prosecute the killers. The usual result is a removal of the slaying case to federal court, a long delay, and acquittal under the laws which seem to take no account of the theory of criminal negligence so often put forward by the state. In no case reported was the agent dismissed or criticized, with the exception of Agent Lottner, who was dismissed after the boat in which he was chasing a suspected rum runner in the Detroit river ran down and killed Mildred Lee, 9 years old, and her father. He was tried, but the jury disagreed and the case has not been called again.

Some Cases in Record.

Here are a few of the cases noted in the report of the department:

PETER YANCAUKAS. "Facts of the case: On April 27, 1923, Agent James D. Asher, with two other prohibition agents and a deputy sheriff, went to a saloon at 10th and Winter streets, Philadelphia, to identify prisoners wanted and to serve a search warrant, a purchase of whisky having been made at said saloon on a previous date. When the agents entered Mrs. Yancaukas, the wife of the saloonkeeper, was serving whisky out of a pitcher. The agents tried to get possession of the pitcher and a fight ensued in which the agents were assailed with bottles and other articles. Agent Asher tried to arrest Peter Yancaukas, but he resisted. It is alleged that Asher kicked Yancaukas in the stomach and that Yancaukas later died as a result thereof. Asher denies this, stating that the only thing he did was to hit Yancaukas with his fist under the chin when Yancaukas was about to hit another agent with a quart soda water bottle. He further states that Yancaukas, while under bond, called at the prohibition office three times, at which times he seemed in the best of health.

"Disposition of the case: Agent Asher was arrested July 2, 1923. Acquitted Dec. 23, 1924."

Case of John Danley.

JOHN DANLEY. "Facts of the case: On April 29, 1926, Prohibition Agents L. F. McGlothlin and C. A. Hood, with State Prohibition Agent T. M. Graveley and County Officer W. H. Vane, raided a still near Falls Mills, Tazewell county, Virginia. The still was located in a hollow and the officers separated.

"Agents McGlothlin and Hood walked to the top of the ridge and just as they started down into the hollow they heard two shots. Thinking this was a signal from the others they started in the direction from which the shots came. They met Graveley and asked him if he had his man, and he said he had. They found Vane standing near the still and on being questioned why he had rushed them so soon without the others having time to get to their places he replied that the operators saw him first and as soon as he saw some one running from the still he fired two shots. They destroyed the still and on investigating a noise found a boy, John Danley, lying wounded about 300 to 400 yards from the still. He was rushed to a hospital, but he died before reaching it.

"Disposition of the case—Agents Hood and McGlothlin were indicted on charge of murder, May 8, 1926. Case was prossed Oct. 28, 1927."

Michigan Case Reviewed.

PHILIP KALB. "Facts of the case—On Jan. 13, 1924, Prohibition Agents Frank W. Rickey, Gibboney, Campbell, Larimer, Thayer and others went to the premises known as 'Jew Corners' five miles north of Lambertsville, Mich., for the purpose of searching the home of one Sam Kalb. Several men ran down a field and were captured by the officers. As they returned they heard a loud cry from within the house and a man ascertained to be Philip Kalb came to the door in a fainting or painful condition. He was helped several feet and then collapsed, never regaining consciousness.

"Disposition of the case—Agent Rickey was tried in United States federal court [after removal from state court] in July, 1924, for the killing of Philip Kalb and a verdict of not guilty was brought in."

Case in Florida.

THOMAS JOHNSON. "Facts of the case—On March, 4, 1927, Eugene S. Forsythe, a custom border inspector and prohibition agent, in company with Deputy United States Marshal S. A. Johnson, left Pensacola, Fla., about 1 p. m. for the purpose of raiding a still in a swamp near Eleven Mile creek. A mile from the still the car bogged and they got out and walked. A man standing near a small fire ran toward the still as soon as he saw the officers. Agent Forsythe pursued him. On approaching the still, two other men started running through the swamp.

"Forsythe fired his gun once to let Johnson know the still had been found and continued pursuing the two men who had been at the still. After running about a quarter of a mile the men split, one running to the left, the other to the right. Forsythe followed the one who turned to the right and a short distance ahead the man, Thomas Johnson, plunged into a creek. Forsythe had fired his gun twice in the air. Upon reaching the bank of the creek, Forsythe called to the man to come back. At the second call he said he would. As he swam toward Forsythe he sank. Forsythe made an effort to save the man, almost being overcome by cold himself. He was not successful and came to the conclusion that the man had drowned.

"Disposition of the case—At the coroner's inquest Forsythe was acquitted, but upon his return to Escambia county, Johnson's father swore out a warrant charging him with manslaughter. He was arrested and placed under $1,000 bond. April 17, 1928, evidence thought to be insufficient upon which to present such a charge."

DRINKING AT INDIANA FOOTBALL GAMES IS A SHOCK TO W. C. T. U.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Shocked by things they have seen to date at Indiana university football games here this fall, the Monroe county W. C. T. U., through the columns of the Indiana Daily Student, campus newspaper, has appealed to alumni and students to try to keep football games as dry as the drastic Hoosier state prohibition statute.

Alleged aridity at Michigan State and the University of Oregon are cited. "Keep drink out of the games," is the W. C. T. U. plea.

THE GOVERNOR'S UNEMPLOYMENT CONFERENCE.

Gov. Emmerson has called a conference of leaders in finance, industry, and labor to consider the problems of unemployment in Illinois. No one, we think, will be inclined to minimize the seriousness of the situation which has led the governor to act. The suffering which has already been inflicted on the men and women out of employment and the suffering which awaits them when winter closes down is fully comparable to that of the victims of a great disaster. There is as much need for relief for the victims of business depression as there ever was for the victims of fire, flood, or earthquake.

It seems clear that measures of two sorts must be undertaken. There must, in the first place, be provision for temporary relief. We cannot allow men, not to say women and children, to starve to death or freeze to death this winter. We must face the fact that the recovery of business has been slow and that even if its pace accelerates markedly there will still be many thousands of unemployed in the state whose savings will not be adequate to carry them and their families through the winter. Some means must be found of providing these unfortunates with shelter, clothing, and food. Means must be found of increasing the resources of both public and private charity.

Nor ought the work to stop there. When temporary relief has been provided the fundamental difficulty will remain. Plans must be laid now for preventing, if possible, a recurrence of such a depression as we are now experiencing, and, if that is impossible, then at least of minimizing the extent and duration of these periods of slack business. It is important to start work in this direction now, for with the return of better times it will be easy to forget all about unemployment until the next period of slack calls it sharply to attention.

It is certain that if the task is not undertaken by the free coöperation of individual business men efforts will be made to intrust it to the government. If that is done quack remedies may be expected; they will be expensive and they will serve to undermine the theory of individual enterprise which has carried this country to unprecedented material prosperity. Self-interest itself commands that our business men face the problem of the business cycle. Man was not made for industry; industry was made by man for his own service and it must be organized in a fashion to serve him.

Two aspects of the problem, we think, are especially worthy of study. The point has been made that an inadequate use of the world's gold reserves has led to a general lowering of prices, with a consequent dislocation of buying power. The validity of this theory should be carefully tested. It has also been said that the movement of population from the farms to the industrial cities has been too rapid and that industry cannot provide permanent employment for anything like the number of applicants for jobs. The alternative, it must be admitted, is a larger farm population and therefore larger farm surpluses and lower prices for farm products, but at any rate the farm offers any one willing to work a roof over his head and enough to eat the year round. It may be necessary to reverse the tendency of recent decades and return some of the surplus city dwellers to the land.

RACKETEERS AND THE A. F. OF L.

President Green of the American Federation of Labor has spoken on the question of labor racketeers. He said, at the convention of his organization, that he would do all in his power to remove from office in a labor union any man who was using his position to exploit labor for self-advantage.

"If there is brought to my attention a racketeer moving under the garb of trade unionism," he said, "and I can place my hand upon him with convincing evidence I will drive him from this movement if I can." Mr. Green may be charged with attaching too many conditions to his pledge, but we are of the opinion that the conditions themselves are an evidence that he has given the problem careful consideration.

Single handed he cannot drive out the racketeers. Though president of the federation, he is not all powerful in the management of all its constituent unions. The locals and internationals have a large measure of autonomy, and Mr. Green, whatever his own opinions may be regarding individual union leaders, cannot impose his views upon the unions without their consent. More especially he cannot be expected to act without convincing evidence. Given that evidence, he has pledged himself to use the moral influence of his office to drive out the corruptionists, and we believe Mr. Green intends to live up to the letter of that pledge. Racketeering has a close historical relationship to labor violence; moreover, the trade union connection has long served as a protection for many racketeers. These are facts which leaders of organized labor hitherto have been reluctant to admit openly. Mr. Green, on the contrary, has not sought to hide labor's responsibility. His candor reflects credit upon him and upon the organization which he directs. More than that, it promises much in the way of housecleaning.

THE PLAY OF PRESIDENTS.

President Hoover, as the author of a little book, chose his favorite sport of fishing as his subject. It is his favorite because it composes the mind. Certain varieties of it are meditative, in some phases. Composure is probably not a quality of all moments of contact with salmon, tuna, bonefish, muskies, small mouth bass or trout, but there are meditative periods which permit the exclusion of the world.

The English occasionally use a word in connection with fishing which seems to get the matter all wrong. That is "kill." "To kill a fish" is hardly in the spirit. To the average fisherman the relation is one of friendship. There may be irritation if the fish carries off his end of the affair too well, but otherwise there is affection in which it is difficult to say how far the fish joins. Its demurrer, if entered, does not impair the cordiality.

Fishing seems to be an appropriate presidential sport because it can so easily be made noncompetitive. Mr. Coolidge unexpectedly turned out to be a man of the wide open spaces, handy with a gun and at home with a reel. His first disappearances into the stretches of the Brule with a guide were regarded as efforts to conform to an idea that the out of door character was popular with the American electorate, but it became apparent that he liked it. It was a revelation of unexpected qualities, dramatized later when it was disclosed that he could bust clay pigeons with a gun. Even now that turns toward the incredible.

There was no doubt as to Grover Cleveland. There was a duck hunter and fisherman in every ounce of the weight he put in a boat. Fishing remains about the only sport a President may safely enjoy. He is not only out of competition, but he can be protected from general observation when he throws his bait into a spruce, snarls his line with backlashes, fails to set his hook, or loses the fish after he has played it. It may be doubted that the golf course is a safe place for a President. He'd better take his exercise on the electric horse. Roosevelt was said to engage in strange combats in the White House, the legend including jujutsu, but it was all inclosed within walls, and anyway he was Roosevelt.

Washington had the widest range of recreations permitted, by his ideas of decorum, more to the country gentleman and the commander in chief than to the President. There never has been since his time so great a personal dignity in that office, but when the man escaped it his fondness was for balls and dancing, horses and his fowling piece, the fox hunt, the cross country ride and a moderate reward for comfortable fatigue in the cup which cheered and might intoxicate. Times have changed and with them the diversions of men in notable place.

Andrew Jackson, if less the formal gentleman (he would have you out for intimating that), was quite as much of the country, loved a horse race with his money or his horse and could take considerable of a chance to look into the muzzle of another man's dueling pistol. Those were robust days. The play of a President is now found with rod and reel and the meditations permitted by a reach of water where there may be a fighting musky in a hole, a game bass or trout to rise at the cast of a fly.

Editorial of the Day

A DEMOCRAT, BUT A WET.

[Cleveland News.]

The News, convinced that the prohibition principle is utterly wrong in theory and seriously harmful in practice, has long disapproved the eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, has long argued its repeal and the substitution of the legislation which, enforceable, would foster temperance and respect for the law. We know that this attitude is widely reflected in the community and in the state. We know further that this attitude is not peculiar to the voters of either major political faith. We strongly suspect, indeed, that the sentiment engendered by this attitude is so fervent as to ignore party lines, if either party attempts to deny its expression. This statement has been made in these columns again and again.

Through their national legislative representatives alone can the people of the community and state voice an effective complaint against the eighteenth amendment and aid an orderly retreat from the inquities it presents. Conscious of this fact and the bare justice of affording Ohio Republican voters an opportunity equal to that of their Democratic brothers the News, while there was still time, asked the Republican leaders in the state to place in the primary a prohibition reform candidate to oppose ultra-dry Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch for the party nomination to the senate. It seemed only fair to us that, whatever the results, the Ohio Republican reform advocates should have this chance to speak under their own party banner. For reasons best known to national and state leaders, this request was refused. The Republican primary ballot offered only Roscoe C. McCulloch for the United States senate.

The Democratic primary was a different matter. There were five candidates for the senatorial nomination. Mainly they were dry; one, ex-Congressman Robert J. Bulkley, was not. Mr. Bulkley throughout his primary campaign stressed his belief in the necessity for prohibition reform and frankly dedicated his legislative future to that cause. The primary swept him into the nomination by a convincing margin. The state Democrats, given voice, replied with a command.

Now come the November elections. Voters of the state must choose between Mr. McCulloch, dry, unchallenged in the primary, and Mr. Bulkley, wet, selected over four others in the primary. Whom shall the Republican voter, anxious for prohibition relief and believing in fair play, support, Mr. McCulloch or Mr. Bulkley?

The News, traditionally Republican and always deeply sympathetic with TRUE Republican principles, unhesitatingly accepts the candidacy of Robert J. Bulkley and pledges thereto its sincere and energetic support. We reserve the right to differ with him on certain issues, but we also insist on our right to agree with him on the outstanding issue, the fight against the eighteenth amendment, and our right to lend him our strength in this fight. We believe that in so choosing we are playing the part of good citizens. We refuse to obey the mandate of Republican national and state party leaders, it is true, but in the refusal we pledge ourselves to the election of an honest gentleman, an experienced legislator and one who sees eye to eye with us on the paramount question. This is our simple right, we think, pressed upon us by the attitude of our party leadership.

Again, the News, Republican at heart, recommends Robert J. Bulkley for election to the United States senate and brings to him its whole support.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

WHOOPING COUGH.

WHOOPING cough ranks with measles as the most deadly of all contagious diseases left to contend with. It is especially dangerous for babies. For children of school age it is not so much of a menace, but such children can carry it from school to the babies at home, making the school a menace to the nursery.

The disease enters into its period of low prevalence just about now, but soon it will begin to climb toward the high plateau which starts with March and ends with August.

There is nothing new to say as to treatment or specific prevention. Serums and other biologics are practically without value either as cures or vaccines. The only new thing to write about is a method of laboratory diagnosis, one that is not so new, but that has had several years to season.

* *

The method consists in having the child cough on a plate of specially prepared culture media and bacterial examination of the culture. If a child has been exposed to whooping cough, and has not had the disease, the parent should be on watch. The incubation period is never less than one week and is usually two. When the child begins to cough one to two weeks after exposure the parent sends to the health department for one of these plates.

When the child has a coughing spell the cover of the plate is removed, and the culture is held directly in front of the child's mouth and about one foot away. The cover is replaced and the plate is sent to the laboratory for examination. The advantage of this method is that it makes diagnosis possible before there is any whoop, and sometimes before there is paroxysmal coughing, night coughing, vomiting, or fever.

* *

Early diagnosis is not of first importance from the standpoint of cure, since there is nothing to do but to let the disease run its course, giving the best possible care and attention. It is of service in preventing the spread of the disease. A child with his disease promptly diagnosed is kept away from other children. When this method of diagnosis is used in schools, it has been found possible to protect other children from exposure. Copenhagen has the honor of having first used this method of diagnosis as a public health procedure.

GALL BLADDER TROUBLE.

Mrs. G. K. writes:

1. What causes gall bladder trouble?
2. What can any one do to get rid of it?
3. What is a good diet for a person with gall bladder trouble?

REPLY:

1. Among the causes are infection and gall stones.
2. Some cases require operation. Some are benefited by dieting, living a more active life, losing weight, and obeying the rules of health.
3. Eat no condiments, sauces, or spices. Eat sparingly of eggs, fats, and oils. Do not eat much meat. Eat a very light supper.

HAIR DYE AND POISON.

M. T. writes: If hair dye injurious to health and is it possible for it to affect the brain?

REPLY.

Hair dyes do not affect the brain. Some contain poisonous substances. There is danger of poisoning when any one of these is used. For instance, some hair dyes contain lead. A person using one of these carefully may escape lead poisoning. However, he is always in danger of either chronic or acute poisoning.

LET A PHYSICIAN DECIDE.

M. E. D. writes: My daughter, aged 15, had sore spots on her hands and between her fingers. A friend suggested that it was the itch. It comes out in small water blisters.

REPLY.

Your description indicates either a fungus infection such as ringworm or itch, or an occupational disease. Let a physician decide which it is. He can cure it.

NO ALUMINUM POISON.

P. H. writes: I have heard a lot about aluminum poisoning. My mother uses aluminum pans and we have never suffered from the effects. Would you publish something on the matter?

REPLY.

Try to find who puts out the stuff about poisoning from aluminum pans and why they put it out.

There is no such poisoning.

POLICEMAN'S DEBT.

SMALL CLAIMS.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is there any court of small claims in the Chicago area where a merchant may turn to in order to collect several small bills? The collection of these would be an unprofitable affair if done so through an agency. 2. If not, is there any other way of collecting them at a small cost? A. S.

1. Most such cases are handled through the Municipal court of Chicago.
2. If they are too small to be worth employing an attorney upon, they are probably too small to be worth your spending your own time upon.

WIDENING SEAMS.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a large hole in the center of the street at the intersection of Forty-third place and Princeton avenue. It should be repaired before winter sets in.

Also, Forty-third place between Wentworth and Stewart avenues has a lot of cracks which should be tarred to prevent them getting wider from the traffic. T. J.

Hole in pavement referred to was repaired by the vehicle tax repair forces. Report further states there are no cracks in the pavement in 43d place as described by writer; evidently he has reference to the seams between the several lengths of the concrete pavement. J. J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

CHRIS OR LEIF?

Hail to Columbus, who discovered our land.
(Wait, what's the name, I don't understand!)
Why, 'twas old Chris Columbus who this great honor won
(Which is the boloney, 'twas Leif Ericson).

Columbus discovered our land, give him cheers
(Only Leif beat him to it by five hundred years).
Today is Columbus day, beat the drum!
(Well, compared to Leif Ericson, old Chris was a bum.)

Nothing daunted Columbus, no sneer nor rebuff
(He sure had it easy, he stole all Leif's stuff).
Like a comet, Columbus on America burst.
(Oh, not so darned sudden, old Leif did it first.)

Columbus declared that the world wasn't flat
(He'd seen old Leif's map, that's where he got that).
His great noble spirit refused to be awed.
(He put up a fine bluff, the doggoned old fraud.)

Before Columbus today let us fall on our knees
(Don't count me in, brother, I think he's the cheese).
He gave us our country, now second to none!
(Only he didn't do it, it was Leif Ericson.)

TWENTY-SEVEN GANGSTERS SLAIN.

The bodies of twenty-seven members of the Ferdinand Prairieflower gang, which controls the suppressed-book racket on the North Side, were found near the base of the Volstead statue in Lincoln Park early this morning. "Just another underworld feud," stated a prominent police official, after visiting the scene of the massacre. "Evidently, these men were captured by a rival outfit, tied hand and foot, forced to lie in a row on the grass and were then squashed by a huge steam roller! We have already made rapid progress in this case; in fact, we have found the steam roller and have arrested it. Now, all we have to do is find the hoodlums who used it."

PROHIBITION

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 13, 1914.

LONDON.—Ghent was occupied by the Germans, an Amsterdam dispatch says. Uhlans have arrived at Selzaete, a short distance from Ghent, and the commander announced that 6,000 soldiers must be quartered in the village. The Times' Ostend correspondent says: "Strong German columns of all arms are passing through Bailleul near the Belgian frontier in the direction of Ypres. Around the latter town the Germans are concentrated in large numbers. German cavalry patrols have been seen in many places within twenty miles of Dunkirk on the Straits of Dover, 40 miles northwest of Lille."

AMSTERDAM.—There is an unconfirmed report that the Germans, following the occupation of Ghent, are bombarding Bruges, 23 miles from Ostend. They are known to be moving that way.

PETROGRAD.—It was officially announced that the Russian armored cruiser Tallada was torpedoed in the Baltic sea by a German submarine and sank with all its crew, numbering 568 men.

SPRINGFIELD.—Secretary of State Harry Woods committed suicide by firing a bullet into his head in the garage of his home. His body was found early in the morning by Mrs. Woods, formerly Miss Mattie Bell of Chicago.

PARIS.—Another bombing raid was made by a German airplane and six more bombs were dropped on the city, but no one was killed.

BOSTON.—Absolutely refusing to be licked even after being apparently hopelessly beaten, Boston's Braves fought Philadelphia's Athletics to a standstill for eleven innings, then in the 12th won their third straight victory in the world's series by a score of 5 to 4. Bush was the pitcher for Philadelphia and Tyler and James for the Braves.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 13, 1900.

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Gov. Roosevelt spoke today at Greencastle, Plainfield, Brazil, Terre Haute, Linton, Vincennes and Evansville. He did not hesitate an instant in his replies to the question delivered by William Jennings Bryan at Nashville, Mich., the day before.

CHICAGO.—There is much opposition to the introduction of a volume entitled "Readings from the Bible" in the public schools of Chicago as suggested by Trustee Chester M. Dawes of the board of education.

NEW YORK.—Eight more names were selected for the hall of fame by the judges chosen by the New York university senate. They are George Washington, first President; Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth President; Daniel Webster, statesman; Benjamin Franklin, statesman and philosopher; Thomas Jefferson, third President; Henry Clay, statesman; John Adams, second President, and William Morris Hunt, artist.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 13, 1880.

CHICAGO.—The American people will rejoice most heartily at the news this morning from Indiana and Ohio. No such gratifying news has been spread since the wires announced the fall of Richmond and the capture and surrender of Lee's army. All honor and glory to the people of Indiana! They have redeemed that state from the long thralldom in which it has been bound and released it from the slavery of Hendricks and English. The Democratic majorities in 1876 of 5,071, and 1878 of 14,000, have been overcome, and Judge Porter, the Republican, has been elected governor. Ohio, which in 1876 gave Hayes only 7,000 majority, now gives Garfield more than three times that majority. Nobly have the people of Indiana and Ohio rebuked the libelers of the soldier-statesman.

NEW YORK.—The New York Sun people concede that Indiana has gone Republican by 8,000 and Ohio by 12,000. There is the wildest joy all over New York among business men. Every one believes the bottom has fallen out of the Hancock farce, and that the candidate of the solid rebel south will peter out like the shaky candidacy of Horace Greeley.

CHICAGO.—Miss Mary Anderson began a two weeks' engagement at McVicker's, her initial performance being Juliet in Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

JUDGE LYLE.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—I notice that according to the Chicago Bar association Judge Lyle does not possess the judicial temperament and should not be reëlected.

The apparently small fraction of the people of this city who can or do give this matter any intelligent thought are quite agreed that Judge Lyle does not have the "judicial temperament." Judicial temperament, as interpreted here, means the granting of delays, continuances, reducing of bonds, taking bonds that are known to be worthless, changes of venue; in short, everything under the sun to help the criminal. It means getting up at any hour of the night to conduct a hearing so that the gentry of the underworld will not have to spend the night in jail; it means granting writs of habeas corpus with such speed that they have been known to reach the jail before the prisoner. Under the "judicial temperament" crime and the criminals have had one grand spree.

There is one way to put a stop to this hilarity of hoodlums and that is to put on the bench some men that are more concerned with enforcing the law and ridding the city of known criminals than they are with cultivating the "judicial temperament."

WILLIAM F. LEIBFRITZ.

POLITICAL ENLIGHTENMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—A few days ago I was discussing the condition of our street [Sunnyside avenue, just west of Kedzie avenue] with a neighbor. The street has not been swept nor cleaned this year, so far as I know; the gutters along the curbs are full of dirt and leaves. It's a disgrace to any community.

The party I was talking to said: "Well, the alderman of our ward is not a Thompson man, so that is the reason." Now, can you feature that?

Personally I'd just like to bring said mayor out here and stick his old nose right into the filth and see how he would like that.

Yes, sir, I voted for Thompson, but don't hold that against me.

MRS. R. L. SPENCER.

SMULSKI PRESERVE.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—As an admirer and a steady visitor to the beautiful Edgebrook forest preserve district, I wish to voice my protest to the change from Edgebrook forest preserve to Smulski forest preserve. No name can be more fitting to this beautiful section in the northwest of Chicago, following the north branch of the river through Edgebrook. So why this change? Have the public and the taxpayer nothing to say about this? A. STENNETT.

ANOTHER SHOW.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Big Bill's show is over. Let's have another show.

On June 17, 1929, the state approved a bill which requires all corporate authorities in Cook county shall compile, file and offer to newspapers and distribute a list showing all receipts and expenditures of any character for the preceding six months. This list shall also show the name, address, position and salary of every employé of such county or municipal organization. It provides that this list shall be published not later than sixty days after June and January of each year.

Last April I tried vainly to find such a list. The city clerk, corporation counsel and controller's office did not know such a law was in existence. At that time two lists should have been available. There are now three lists due.

The publication of such a list now might give the public an opportunity to decide whether they wish to continue the present men in office. C. H. M.

BREAD.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—I would like bread companies to explain to me as well as to thousands of others why they still hold up the price of bread so that it cannot be retailed for less than 10c per loaf. The price of wheat is the lowest it has been in years and this is true as well of other things which go to make up a loaf of bread.

They still insist on charging a storekeeper 8½c a loaf, which he must retail at 10c. They could set a lower price on bread to a storekeeper with no returns and he could then retail for a lower price. I for one would be willing to handle bread on that basis.

GROCER.

ANYHOW, THE CHILDREN ARE BETTER.

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 22.—I note that the children's bureau of the labor department officially reports that the number of children passing through children's courts has decreased 30 per cent in Buffalo, 45 per cent in New York City, 46 per cent in Chicago, 55 per cent in New Orleans, and 60 per cent in Boston.

Every city making a report showed a decrease.

Societies for the prevention of cruelty to children have found similar improvements in the condition of childhood. The decreases in the cases of cruelty range from 40 to 70 per cent.

These reports show that children are happier and healthier. Laws which produce such results should be safeguarded and upheld. VIRGIL G. HINSHAW.

A. F. OF L. CHIEFS SNUB INSURGENT MINERS' APPEAL

Howat Sees Labor Party as Only Hope.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today turned down the plea of the insurgent miners for conciliation and supported the administration of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

President William Green read a long letter from John H. Walker, secretary of the insurgent miners union. As a means of determining the sentiment of the rank and file of the miners towards the official union presided over by Mr. Lewis and towards the insurgent organization, Mr. Walker suggested that a convention be held.

Following the meeting today Mr. Green merely announced, it was later learned, that the council had closed the door completely to Mr. Walker's proposal.

"Labor Party Only Hope."

Mount Olive, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Alexander Howat, long a leader in mine union affairs and bitter critic of John L. Lewis, head of the regular wing of the United Mine Workers, said a Labor party in this country the only means by which labor will receive justice.

"Eighty-five per cent of the citizens of this country are laborers and we cannot expect to get justice until we have labor represented in the legislative halls," Howat told several hundred miners who gathered here for memorial services over the graves of three Mount Olive miners who lost their lives in the Virden mine riot thirty-two years ago.

For Jobless Insurance.

Howat said the reorganized wing of the United Mine Workers of which he is head, proposed to obtain enactment of the old age pension bill as well as the enactment of a law which would obtain unemployment insurance for the workers.

The reorganized union, Howat stated, "is more determined than ever" to continue its fight against Lewis and his organization. The Lewis wing, he said, was a "company union," and he described Lewis as a "tool of the coal operators."

Chases Wounded Negro Out of Hospital and Kills Him

Ardmore, Okla., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Babe Pruitt, Berwin, Okla., constable, died today in a hospital from bullet wounds inflicted in a gun fight with Semi Robertson, Negro. Claude Pruitt, brother of the constable, was in the death room. "I'll kill every Negro in this hospital," attendants quoted him as shouting. He ran to the Negro ward. Robertson, receiving treatment for a lung wound, fled. A half mile from the hospital, Pruitt overtook the fugitive. He fired and the Negro dropped dead.

Week of Oct. 13 Designated for Civic Opera Drive

By proclamation of Mayor William Hale Thompson and special act of the city council the week beginning next Monday has been officially designated Civic Opera Week.

Banks, department stores, clubs, business concerns and civic organizations are co-operating to make the next seven days the outstanding cultural week of the year.

Samuel Insull, president of the Chicago Civic Opera Company, commenting on Civic Opera Week, stressed his constant aim—to make the Chicago Civic Opera an actual civic force and not a mere social function.

CIVIC OPERA WEEK SET TO BEGIN MONDAY, OCT. 13

Sponsored by the forty-two civic opera clubs of metropolitan Chicago, the week beginning Monday, Oct. 13, has been set apart by the city council to be known as Civic Opera week.

Every bank, department store, specialty shop, club and, in fact, every branch of activity in Chicago is cooperating to make this the outstanding cultural week of the year.

Mayor Thompson has issued the following proclamation:

"Whereas, the Chicago Civic Opera Company is one of the outstanding civic and cultural institutions of metropolitan Chicago and has sponsored the Associated Civic Opera clubs of this city—an association of clubs that receives from the Chicago Civic Opera Company, during the opera season, educational programs which further the cultural development of our city,

"This proclaims the week of Oct. 13-18 as Civic Opera week in the city of Chicago.

"It is a great privilege to bring to the attention of the people of Chicago, as a whole, one of our greatest cultural assets—the Chicago Civic Opera Company."

REHEARSALS AT OPERA BEGIN

The rhythm of dancing feet and swishing ballet skirts was heard again yesterday behind the scenes at the Chicago Civic Opera Building when members of the ballet began rehearsals for the 1930-31 season.

Laurent Novikoff, formerly Pavlowa's dancing partner, and recent head of a London dancing school, is directing the ballet for a second year.

Many of last year's ballet are also returning this season. Among these are Kathleen Crofton who came to the company last year from London. During her holidays last May, Miss Crofton was presented at the Court of St. James.

Ruth Pryor, premiere danseuse, and Edward Caton, premier danseur, and Soloists Harriet Lundgren, Julia Barashkova and Sven Larsen were among those who had their first rehearsals yesterday.

SEASON TO OPEN WITH NEW OPERA

The Civic Opera's 1930 season will open with the first performance in America of Ernest Moret's "Lorenzaccio." This is the latest news from the operatic front and I am assured that it is final.

The work was written for Vanni-Marcoux, whose dramatic gifts should be effectively exploited in the title role—Lorenzo the wicked, most iniquitous of all the evil Medici.

The drama "Lorenzaccio", was published in 1834 in "La Revue des Deux Mondes," famous French magazine, but was neglected insofar as performance was concerned until after the death of de Musset.

'OLD IRONSIDES' CUTS CHICAGO OFF ITS VISITING LIST

Canal Too Shallow; Ready for Voyage in June.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The restoration of the U. S. S. Constitution, the historic old frigate whose brilliant exploits added new luster to the Stars and Stripes during the war of 1812, will be completed at the Boston navy yard next June, it was disclosed at the navy department today. Virtually all the work of refitting and rerigging the famous vessel has been completed and all that now remains to be done is to add the finishing touches.

As strong and seaworthy as on the day she was built, Old Ironsides will be placed on exhibition in Boston as soon as completed. When funds are made available by congress the vessel, equipped as a floating museum, will make a tour of United States ports on both the Pacific and Atlantic coasts.

Promised to Visit Chicago.

Chicago school children, who contributed generously in nickels, dimes, and quarters to the volunteer fund which made reconditioning of the vessel possible, will not have an opportunity to see the vessel for many years unless they travel to Boston or one of the coast ports for that purpose. Although former Secretary of the Navy Curtis D. Wilbur promised Chicago school children during the fund raising campaign that the navy would make every effort to send the vessel to the great lakes ports as soon as possible after the reconditioning work was completed, navy officials state it now is physically impossible to take the Constitution into the great lakes area.

According to navy officials Old Ironsides cannot travel through channels less than twenty feet in depths. A survey made by the naval hydrographer's office disclosed, an inquirer was told today, that the St. Lawrence has a depth of but 14 feet at certain points, making passage of the Constitution impossible. Even if the vessel were lightened, it would not be possible to take the boat into the lakes, officials said.

"The plans for the Constitution still are indefinite," Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams said today. "I hope it will be possible some day to take the vessel to Chicago. Every promise made by Secretary Wilbur will be honored by the navy department when it is physically possible to do so. The question of when and where the Constitution is taken rests partly, however, with congress, as funds have to be voted for operation and maintenance of the vessel."

Place Vessel on Exhibition.

A movement already is on foot to have the Constitution manned and towed to Atlantic ports late this next year. It is probable the budget will be asked for funds with which to place the vessel on exhibition. No decision has been reached regarding where the vessel will be kept permanently and it is possible the ship may be brought to Washington and placed on exhibition as a permanent floating museum.

The Constitution was launched in Boston, near the place where she is undergoing rejuvenation, on Oct. 21, 1798. "Old Ironsides" was well designed, for she could fight and whip the best the enemy could offer and show a clean pair of heels when outnumbered. Besides the capture of a score of smaller war vessels and merchantmen, the Constitution, in the war of 1812 defeated the forty-nine gun British frigate Guerriere and the thirty-eight gun frigate Java and the frigates Cyanne and Levant, the latter two at the same time. Her nickname, "Old Ironsides," was won on her engagement with the Guerriere.

In 1925, on authority of congress, a campaign for reconditioning the frigate was begun by a "Save Old Ironsides committee," headed by Admiral Philipp Andrews, then head of the Boston navy yard. An aggressive campaign, especially among school children, yielded a large sum. The total collected from all sources netted $872,627. Last year, when the campaign broke down still short of funds, congress appropriated $300,000 to complete the work. The total collected and appropriated amounted to $1,172,000. The total expended on construction will amount to $900,000. The balance, according to testimony before the house appropriations committee, was expended in collecting the fund and the manufacture of the souvenirs which were sold.

RELAY CABLES FOR NEW I. C. STATION WORK

Removal and rerouting of cables by the Commonwealth Edison company was begun yesterday as a preliminary to the foundation work for the Randolph street viaduct and suburban station. A contract for the improvement was let by the Illinois Central railway last week. With the approval of the south park commissioners, the contract was let to R. T. Hanrahan for $192,726. Work is to be begun immediately, according to George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the south park board.

ARREST CUBAN NATIONALISTS ON SEDITION CHARGE

Editor on His Deathbed Accuses Policeman.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Oct. 12.—This republic, which has been expecting a revolution for many days, passed another quiet week-end with no outward signs of immediate trouble in this city. The only reports of disturbances came from the interior, and they were of a minor nature despite the double holiday—Sunday and Columbus day.

In the city of Trinidad, in Santa Clara province, leaders of the Nationalist union, which is opposed to the Machado government, attempted to hold a meeting and a number of them were arrested for sedition. The reports said they were to be taken before a Trinidad court for investigation.

Countermand Permit.

The two Nationalist leaders in Trinidad who were among those accused of sedition are Dr. Tomas Cabrera and Tomas Ruedo. No further word of how they were punished has been received here. The mayor of Trinidad had granted permission for the meeting, but suddenly changed his mind and ordered the police to break up the gathering. There was no disorder.

Today was Columbus day in Cuba, and usually is celebrated by large gatherings and speechmaking in all parts of the island. Because of the political situation there were few meeting anywhere.

Students Stage Strike.

Another sympathy student strike took place yesterday in Pinar del Rio, where the students in three schools walked out of their classes and said they would not return until the students of Havana university, who were arrested after a demonstration in which a Havana boy was killed, were released from prison.

Another development this afternoon was the death of José Lora Infante, Nationalist editor of the Voice of Reason, who was shot in his office at Santiago last week. Señor Infante on his deathbed charged a municipal policeman, Pernardo Perez, with firing the shot that killed him. The policeman has been missing from Santiago for several days.

Beach, Who Killed Doctor to Get Wife, Dies in Prison

Trenton, N. J., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Willis Beach, 60 year old South Vineland poultry raiser, died today at the Bordentown state prison farm, where he was serving ten years for manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl in 1927. Beach was convicted of the crime with Dr. Lilliendahl's wife, Margaret. Both were given ten year terms, which they began serving in December, 1927. Mrs. Lilliendahl is now in Clinton prison. Dr. Lilliendahl was shot on a lonely road near Hammonton, N. J.

Robbers Beat Up Woman; Steal Her Purse and $20

Mrs. Clarence E. Wise, 56 years old, 6952 Oglesby avenue, was beaten and robbed of her handbag, containing $20 and two bank books, by two youths in front of 7010 Oglesby avenue last night, she reported to Woodlawn police. Mrs. Wise was waiting for her daughter, Miss Frances Edna Wise, when the bandits, unarmed and on foot, threw her to the sidewalk, struck her in the face with their fists, and fled after taking her purse.

FRANCE TO BUILD DREADNAUGHTS, NOT CRUISERS

Eyes German Warship and Changes Plans.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 12.—It is reported in naval circles that the ministry of marine has decided to give up its cruiser building program after the launching of the Algeria, the seventh of the projected series of ten, and concentrate on heavier units.

The French naval experts are thoroughly dissatisfied with 10,000 tonners like the recently launched Dupleix and favor the heavily armed pocket battleship, a type which has much greater offensive power.

Too Easy a Target.

It is argued that the cruisers Hybrid and Creation have neither the speed of a destroyer nor the striking power of a battleship and present too easy a target in proportion to their combat effectiveness.

The semi-official paper Le Temps, always well informed on naval matters, tonight says:

"None of the seven French cruisers, any more than Italian, English, and American cruisers, can fight on equal terms with a ship like the German Admiral Scheer if the latter fulfills its early promise. Before it they can do nothing but retreat."

Plan "Small" Dreadnaughts.

In spite of the admiration professed for the German type of pocket battleships, it is declared that the French navy will not be content to rest there, but are planning the early construction of several small dreadnaughts with still heavier armament and armor.

When the Algeria is completed—probably about this time next year—the French will have 10 modern cruisers, seven 10,000 tonners and three 8,000 tonners.

GUN ROUTS BANDIT.

A bandit who attempted to hold up Charles Johnson in his grocery store at 2858 West 59th street late Saturday night fled after firing one shot when Johnson seized a gun and started in pursuit.

85 CENT HOLDUP LEADS TO ARREST AS A SLAYER

Peter Petkunas, alias Roy Peters, robbed a victim of 85 cents Saturday night and yesterday found himself in custody on a charge of murder.

When Roy Reinhartsen, 5101 Montana street, stopped on Broadway for the traffic signal at Addison a man boarded his car and forced him to drive around the northwest side for an hour and a half, finally taking 85 cents and his car. Reinhartsen commandeered another car and gave pursuit, overtaking the bandit at Archer avenue and Halsted street. There Reinhartsen called Patrolman William Selhorn to his aid and there was an exchange of shots. A flivver squad arrested Petkunas.

When Lieut. John J. Farrell of Deering street station came to work yesterday he took a careful look at the prisoner and drew from his pocket a circular which announced a $1,500 reward for the apprehension of Peter Petkunas, alias Roy Peters, wanted for the murder of Gustave Poet in a robbery in Spring Valley, Ill.

THREE NEGROES ADMIT KILLING AND ROBBING MAN

Ste. Genevieve, Mo., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Three Negroes, two men and a woman, confessed tonight, Sheriff Zeigler announced, that they had shot and killed Harry Panchot, 48, and wounded seriously Paul Ritter, 38, near here early today. Ritter was thrown into the Mississippi river. Both Panchot and Ritter were robbed before being shot.

After the confession the prisoners were taken to jail at Hillsboro because authorities here feared mob violence.

The Negroes under arrest are J. B. Lee, 28; Guy Teylor, 28, and Vera Rogers, 30. The woman was the first to confess, naming Lee as the slayer.

Sheriff Zeigler spirited the prisoners from the jail here when a mob started forming.

Milk builds strong bodies for the big game of life . . . .

FOOTBALL season is here. Father, mother, sister, brother—all are pulling to have "Bill" make the team. Whether or not he does, much depends on how "Bill" has prepared himself over the years.

The young man who drinks a quart of milk a day regularly right through childhood and boyhood is far more apt to develop the big muscles and the powerful shoulders that football calls for.

Good football players are usually regular milk drinkers. They drink it every day during training season and between training seasons—and they have been milk drinkers all their lives.

Childhood is the training period for the big game of life. Boys and girls! you are building each day the young man or young woman you are going to be. Your body can be strong only if the food you eat has made it so.

Milk is so important as food because it contains mineral salts for sturdy bones and teeth, protein for powerful muscles, fat for energy, vitamins for abounding vitality.

Remember this, the players who get the cheers and the honors are the ones who eat right, who don't wait for mother to urge them to drink milk—the builder.

A word to Mothers

In these days of economy, thousands of home-makers have found that milk helps keep family health up and eating costs down. A quart of milk for each member of the family has become the rule in these homes—the grown-ups join the children in drinking milk—and part of each day's diet consists of foods in which milk plays an important part. Many delightful soups are made with milk—chipped beef in milk gravy is a delicacy with potatoes and bread—rice pudding, bread pudding, custards, cabinet pudding, make desserts that have needed nourishment as well as appetite appeal.

Your cookbook has dozens of recipes using milk. A valuable leaflet on "How to Feed Your Family Better at Lower Cost" has been published by the Milk Council of Greater Chicago. Phone or write us for a copy.

"SELECTED" Milk makes Milk Drinking More Enjoyable

For milk drinkers, young and old, we produce a special milk for drinking. Because of the extraordinary precaution we take in its production on 105 picked farms in the neighborhood of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, "Selected" has a "Sweet Natural Taste" that makes milk drinking more than ever a pleasure. It costs only three cents more a quart to enjoy this special drinking milk. Speak to your Borden's milkman, phone Franklin 3110, or drop us a line ordering regular delivery of "Selected."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In distributing prizes for upsetting estimated experts last Saturday, the awards must go to Minnesota and Michigan. The M's have it, for neither eleven had been thought in advance to have much chance with its foe.

Minnesota, perhaps, has an edge over Michigan, for the Gophers thrilled 4,000 gathered at Minneapolis to see Grand Stanford win by any score it gained by battling the coast team to a scoreless tie. Nine times, somewhat of a record, Stanford rushed the ball within a running dive of Minnesota's goal line. And nine times Stanford failed to score.

Of course, as the game was played, one might say Stanford had the stronger eleven. But the score, after a thrilling minutes, was 0 to 0. The extra yardage gained by plungers and the greater distance on passes, might as well be forgotten, for football games are not decided in that manner.

Stanford Had Won Twice.

Stanford had counted two easy victories before meeting Fritz Crisler's unbeaten sophomores, defeating the Olympic club, 13 to 0, and Santa Clara, 20 to 6. Vanderbilt had humiliated the Gophers a week ago, 33 to 7 — hardly the greater honor Saturday for Minnesota.

To Michigan goes the honor of whipping the 1929 western conference champion. Although Purdue lost by the margin of a point after touchdowns, 14 to 13, only the most valiant of Wolverine partisans had predicted a close contest, particularly after Michigan State, on the previous week-end, had held the Wolves to a scoreless tie.

Michigan's triumph was the greater because it came after the Boilermakers led 13 to 0 at the end of the first period. Van Bibber's failure to kick goal, seemingly unimportant at the time, became more serious at the end when Michigan led 14 to 13, and a minutes later it was all important.

Missouri Beaten Again.

Missouri, another of the M's, continued on an opposite course. The Missouri Tiger this year is a mighty little kitten. A week ago Colorado twisted the Tiger's tail, 9 to 0. Saturday St. Louis university piled up a 19 to 0 victory to prove further the impotence of the Missouri team.

Northwestern fulfilled expectations of its followers by whipping Ohio State, 19 to 2, although forced to use a passing game to accomplish its purpose. Without its captain, Hank Bruder, Northwestern played steady ball all the way. Bruder undoubtedly will go as the hard luck player of the year. In his sophomore year he was forced from action with a hip injury. Last season he broke his leg in the opening conference game, a 6 to 0 triumph over Wisconsin. Now he is out with a mild attack of smallpox for at least three weeks.

Ohio State's inexperienced sophomores continued their development against Missouri's second foe. Zuppke's troops won from Butler, 27 to 0, and now face the Purdue Wildcats in the homecoming game Saturday at Champaign.

Maroon Eleven Weak.

Wisconsin defeated Chicago, not as was expected, for the 34 to 0 score exceeded all predictions. The large size victory, however, rather proved the reported tales of Chicago's helplessness than emphasized the power of the Badgers. When Pennsylvania invades Camp Randall stadium next Saturday the actual test will be made. In the meantime Purdue should have a hard game with Iowa, which lost to Missouri Saturday, 19 to 12, before entertaining Wisconsin on Oct. 25. Washington State is the top notch coast eleven this year, it seems, having only early positions on the schedules of their California rivals, the Bears Saturday defeated Southern California, 7 to 6. A week ago Washington State promised as much when it held to California's gridiron and goal to 6. With Stanford's record marred by a tie with Minnesota, Washington State should have no serious opposition for Pacific coast honors at least, until the annual game with Washington, Nov. 15.

Southern's bad pass from center to the Trojans' guard, Baker, stood up to for the tying place kick, directly responsible for Southern California's loss.

Yale, Princeton Lose.

While Georgia defeated Yale for a second successive year, 18 to 14, and Army did likewise to Princeton, 7 to 0, neither victory could be termed a surprise. Rather, Yale and Princeton are credited with undeserved victories largely because of their records and because they were played at home.

Coach Walsh, Yale's line coach, one time star and leader of the Notre

VACCINATE 110 PURPLE PLAYERS TO BAR SMALLPOX

Action Follows Discovery of Bruder's Illness.

One hundred and ten members of Northwestern's varsity and freshman football squads were vaccinated yesterday at Dyche stadium, where they were called together by Dr. S. J. Lang, university physician. The wholesale vaccination followed the discovery on Saturday that Capt. Hank Bruder was suffering from smallpox.

HANK BRUDER.

Bruder's case is a light one, and he is expected to be able to leave the Chicago isolation hospital in about three weeks.

In addition to the players, Coach Dick Hanley and his entire staff were vaccinated. The remainder of the athletic department staff, as well as Bruder's fraternity brothers and classmates, are to be vaccinated today. Four hundred persons in all are to receive this treatment.

Expects No Harmful Reaction.

Dr. Lang stated that most of the players had been vaccinated before and should suffer no harmful reaction. The men will not be forced to miss practice because of the treatment, Dr. Lang said.

Coach Dick Hanley, however, plans to give most of the 29 players who played against Ohio State on Saturday a rest today. All of the regulars have been told to be on hand Tuesday.

With Bruder and Russell, who is temporarily ineligible, lost to the squad for the Illinois game at Champaign Saturday, Coach Hanley plans to ease up on his practice program during the week to prevent injury to his other mainstays.

The ill luck which invaded the Wildcats' camp was tempered by the victory over Ohio State. The players and coaches are sitting tight, however, awaiting the next move of the jinx.

Warns of Illini "Inexperience."

In preparing his battle plans for Saturday, Coach Hanley informed his players yesterday that they should not be deceived by reports that the Illini are a green team. Coach Zuppke, he said, is never so dangerous as when he has a group of new players with which to work. The Wildcats will present the same front against Illinois as was used in the Ohio game. The back field functioned well, although all the players except Rentner, full back, were playing in positions new to them.

Frank Baker's work at end brought praise from the coaches. His defensive tactics as well as offensive play was outstanding. The two referees, Woodworth and Clark, also were commended for their performances at guard and center, respectively.

HOLLYWOOD WINS SECOND HALF OF COAST LEAGUE

Sacramento, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Hollywood won the second half of the split coast league baseball season by taking a double header from Sacramento today, 12 to 5 and 5 to 3.

Los Angeles, winner in the first half of the Pacific coast league split season, will meet Hollywood in a playoff for the league championship in Los Angeles, beginning Oct. 22.

Argentina Retains Net Title of South America

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Argentina retained the tennis championship of South America by defeating Chile today in the final match of the doubles. The singles finals of the international tournament still is to be played.

M'Carthy to Meet Ruppert Tomorrow

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Joseph Vincent McCarthy, until recently manager of the Chicago Cubs, is expected to sign a contract in the offices of the New York Yankees at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Tonight Charles McManus, the Yanks' secretary, announced that "a conference will be held Tuesday between Col. Ruppert and Mr. McCarthy."

At the world series—a very inopportune time—it was reported that McCarthy and Ruppert had already come to an understanding. This, with the telegraph wires clogged with thousands of world series masterpieces caused Col. Ruppert to evade an announcement when questioned. About all the Yankees' owner would say was that McCarthy was a very fine fellow, indeed.

* *

McCarthy intimated that the colonel was an estimable gentleman, too. Then President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox announced negotiations between his ball club and McCarthy were off, with the inference that Joe had caught on with the New York Americans. When the first flush of football scores had had their day the Yankee office selected a nice quiet midweek afternoon for the announcement. Such are the ways of baseball.

If nothing unusual comes up between now and Tuesday to fill the sports pages, it is more than reasonable to assume the regulation pen-in-hand picture will be taken, with the colonel looking surprised and pleased and probably shaking hands with McCarthy.

* *

McCarthy has had surprising success in both the American Association, where he managed Louisville, and in the National league, where he piloted the Cubs to the 1929 pennant.

His contract with the Yankees, it is believed, will run but one year, as Babe Ruth's contract expires next year and the Babe has hinted at either retiring or going into the managing business himself.

Play to Start in Women's Golf Today

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Eager for the start of the women's national amateur championship competition tomorrow, all but a few of 100 feminine golfers spent today resting and making final preparations for the six days' grind.

During her play yesterday, Marion Hollins, Santa Cruz, Cal., and 1921 national champion, turned in a card of 38—42—80, one under women's par. She came to the 16th hole needing three 4's for a 74 and a new course record, but took an 8 on the 16th.

Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., who has been shooting consistently in the low 80's, equaled par with an 81. Both are considered threats to the championship crown won four times by Glenna Collett of New York City.

Miss Maureen Orcutt of New York, the Canadian women's champion, and Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, 1929 western woman's champion, and Miss Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, had 83's. Mrs. Harley Higbie of Detroit shot an 86.

HAGEN DEFEATS ARMOUR FOR HIS FIRST 1930 TITLE

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Walter Hagen defeated Tommy Armour 3 and 2 in the 36 hole finals of the Michigan P. G. A. tournament today at Birmingham Golf club to win his first championship of the year. Hagen and the present national P. G. A. champion fought a close battle during the morning round and neither was more than two up until the 11th hole in the afternoon. Hagen took the 10th and 11th holes to become three up and ended the match at the 16th as Armour found a tree between his ball and the cup and got into two traps before he picked up.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Frosty Peters' field goal and a touchdown on an intercepted pass by Racis defeated the Chicago Cardinals, 9 to 7, here today. A crowd of 6,500 witnessed the contest, which resulted in the third straight victory for Providence. Ernie Nevers, star of the Chicago club, was on the bench throughout the game.

Providence scored first, Peters' booting a drop kick for three points from the 41 yard line in the first period. Providence scored again in the third period when Racis grabbed Flenniken's pass on the Cardinals' 40 yard line and had a clear path to the goal.

Opening up with forward passes in the fourth period the Cardinals scored their touchdown when Flenniken went through right guard standing up from the four yard line after two aerials from Rose to Belden and Rose to Kassell advanced the ball from the 50 yard line. Bogue place kicked the point.

The game was bitterly fought in the line and numerous penalties were inflicted for holding and offsides, the teams suffering equally. Most of the game was played between the 40 yard lines, two rugged defenses nullifying attempts to rush the ball.

Boyd's kicking for the Cardinals kept the Rollers in their own territory much of the game.

MINNEAPOLIS WINS, 13-0

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Minneapolis Redjackets handed the Portsmouth Panthers their first defeat in the National Professional Football league, 13-0, here today.

Pape dashed 46 yards for the first Minneapolis touchdown in the second quarter, while Joesting went over for the other in the third session after leading a march of three-quarters the length of the field.

The Panthers' back field of Glasgow, McLain, Lumpkin, and Bennett failed to gain consistently until late in the final quarter, when the Jackets stopped their long march on the three yard line as the game ended.

DODGERS BEAT NEWARK

Brooklyn, Oct. 12.—(AP)—A powerful attack in the first three periods enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to defeat the Newark Bears, 32 to 0, in a National league pro football game today. All the Brooklyn scoring came in the first three frames with three touchdowns in the second.

McBride, Brooklyn right half back, scored two touchdowns and added two points by placement kicks.

Benny Tate Honored at Ball Game; His Team Wins

WOLGAST'S HAND INJURED; GENARO FIGHT CANCELED

New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The proposed fifteen round tilt between Frankie Genaro, National Boxing association titleholder with international recognition, and Midget Wolgast, Philadelphian, who is recognized by the state athletic commission, scheduled for Madison Square Garden Friday night, is off. An injury to the right hand of Wolgast necessitated the postponement, upsetting again the plans to give the ring's 112 pound division a leader. The Philadelphian sustained the injury in training in his native city last Thursday.

Indus Wins Criterium Stakes at Longchamps

LONGCHAMPS, France, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Indus, a fine colt by Alcantara, out of Himalaya, owned by Edward Esmond, won the Grand Criterium stakes, the autumn classic for two year olds over the mile distance at the Longchamp track today. Four-in-Hand was second and Pearl Cap third.

The winner, ridden by William Scanlan, paid two to one. The race was worth $6,000. Ten colts and five fillies started the classic and Pearl Cap was the first filly at the finish.

GRANGE AND FRIEDMAN AGAIN

Red Grange and Benny Friedman, once collegiate rivals, met again yesterday when the Chicago Bears and New York Giants clashed at Wrigley field. Benny's team won, 12 to 0. Red is here shown getting away from the New Yorkers' defense and apparently from his interference as well.

Packers Crush Frankford in 4th Grid Win

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Green Bay Packers scored their fourth victory in the National Football league here this afternoon by defeating the Frankford Yellow Jackets, 27 to 12, before 8,000 spectators.

The Bays made three touchdowns in the opening period, Coach Lambeau then relieved some of his veterans and the replacements did well until the easterners started passing late in the third frame. Kostos grabbed one toss for a marker and then Tanner duplicated the trick early in the fourth stanza.

At this stage the Bay first stringers went back in the game, came across with another touchdown and had the invaders running to cover for the remainder of the game. Lineup:

THREE INJURED IN ROBY RACES; 2 RECORDS FALL

Two track records were established and three drivers were injured, one seriously, in the stock car races at Roby speedway yesterday. Emil Johnson of Gary, driving a De Soto, won the 25 mile race in 22:58, breaking the old mark of 23:47, set by himself in 1928. John Adams of Chicago, piloting a Chevrolet, was second, and Virgil Livengood, also in a Chevrolet, was third.

Fred Barney, defending champion in the 25 mile event, was running third half way through the race when his car skidded and turned over. He was taken to St. Catherine's hospital in Hammond, where his injuries were said to be serious.

Johnson was leading after 40 miles of the 50 mile race had been covered, but he lost his chance for a double victory when a blowout forced him out of the race. Adams won the race in 46:28.4, a new record. The old mark of 47:25.2 was established by Louis Schneider in 1927. Bob Cleveland of Chicago, driving a Ford, was second, and Livengood third.

M. Rutherford and A. Fosh of Gary were bruised and shaken up during the fifty miles race, the former's car going through the fence into the infield and the latters' turning over.

Benny Friedman and his crew of professional football players, most of whom have visited Wrigley field in past seasons, dropped into the city yesterday to assist the Chicago Bears with inaugural ceremonies before 12,000 fans. The year's absence apparently hadn't affected Friedman or the Giants for they picked up their victory chain at the point they had abandoned it last season. Yesterday's score was Giants, 12; Bears, 0.

It may be Friedman and his men are no better than in other years. The comparison is difficult, for the Bears employed several new hands yesterday afternoon. But if Friedman isn't better, the answer is obvious. The Bears must be worse.

Benny Retires Early.

Neither did Benny have much regard for the 12,000, a majority of whom had come to see him pass and run. Benny played throughout the first quarter, in which neither team scored, and for six minutes of the second period. During this session the Giants counted both their touchdowns. Then, apparently having won the game, Benny retired to the sidelines until further need should develop for a bit of experting. Although that necessity did not arise because of the impotence of the Bears' attack, Friedman finally yielded to the crowd's wishes and made a final appearance of five minutes in the fourth period, which was something in the way of a curtain call.

With Benny off stage, the Giants played a polite waiting game throughout the second half. They kicked and waited for the Bears to start trouble, and when the Bears couldn't offer worthy opposition, they maintained their attitude, eventually knocking off work at the conclusion of the elapsed 60 minutes with the Bears still trying to reach New York's 20 yard line.

All in Six Minutes.

The scoring action was jammed into those six minutes of the second quarter. Previously New York made two false starts but each was stopped by fumbles. The first alarm was raised immediately after the Bears kicked off to Benny. Five successive plays carried the ball from New York's 35 yard line to the Bears' 25 yard line. The march was largely accomplished by two passes from Benny to Sedbrook for 20 and 8 yards, respectively. But Sedbrook fumbled and the Bears recovered.

Again New York started with a gain of 12 yards by Friedman from his own 30 yard line. Dale Burnett, a newcomer in Benny's backfield, because of Al Feather's injury, raced through the Bear line for an 18 yard gain, only to fumble when tackled and Garland Grange recovered for Chicago as the first period ended.

Wiberg Scores on Plunge.

Bronko Nagurski plunged for two yards for the opening Bear play in the second quarter. Then Brumbaugh passed, supposedly to one of his own men, but Burnett intercepted the aerial and raced through all opposition until Nagurski yanked him down from behind just as he was ready to slide over the Bear goal line. Resuming play three yards out, Swede Wiberg cleared the distance in one smash over Chicago's left guard.

Friedman failed to kick the extra point, his shot at the posts falling away to the left.

New York traveled 47 yards under its own power for the second score. After Lintzenich's kick sailed out of bounds on the Bears' 47 yard line, Friedman, et al., went to work. Ten plays were required. Benny covered 19 yards in three runs; Burnett got 15 yards in two attempts and a pass, Friedman to Sedbrook, clipped off ten more, while another pass in the series of plays was incomplete. The remaining three plays plugged a yard at a time from the Bears' 3 yard line until Burnett barely reached the coun-

OLD SUN BEAU OUTPLAYS OTHER TURF TROUPERS

He's Last of First Cup Race's Famous Cast.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Sun Beau, which seems to have the Hawthorne gold cup market cornered, departed for Maryland yesterday, where he will wind up his 5 year old racing career.

As he climbed into a private express car which was attached to a fast eastern bound train, the bay boy son of Sun Briar seemed a bit sad. And there didn't seem to be any cause for his showing even a sign of regret.

For Sun Beau has won the last two gold cups here, and each victory brought him the handicap title of the year. But Sun Beau seemed to want to say "I should have won all three of the cups." Aside from the two he has captured, he play a prominent part in the first running of the great stake.

Ran Fifth to Display.

This race, run on Oct. 11, 1928, was won by stout-hearted old Display. He beat the mighty route runner, Mike Hall, by a nose. Crusader, one of Man o' War's best sons, ran third, fleet little Misstep was fourth, and Sun Beau landed in fifth position. Trailing home back of Sun Beau came Hydromel, a great horse, and then Chicago, at his peak. Handy Mandy, a record smasher, was back of Chicago, and Sankari, quite a horse in his day, was last.

Just how close Sun Beau came to winning the first running of the cup when he was a 3 year old is best shown by the chart of the race. As the field headed into the stretch Sun Beau, which had been running second, galloped up on the outside and went ahead of Misstep, which had been the leader from the start. He was two lengths in front, an eighth from home.

Then along came those seasoned veterans, Display, Mike Hall, and Crusader, to take his measure. Despite the company he was thrown into, Sun Beau had his backers, and if he had won would have paid only 7 to 1.

Only Sun Beau Remains.

But from the day of that defeat Sun Beau had never left his supremacy in doubt. He is one of the few horses in America over 3 years of age that has never taken a lame step. He seldom has reached his best form until fall. Frequently, early in the season he has been beaten. But in the late autumn and during the fall campaign no horse has been able to beat him.

How the mighty have dropped by the wayside since Sun Beau started three years ago in the first Hawthorne cup. Display tried a comeback this year. It was a failure. He was a cripple and now heads a stud of his own in Kentucky. Mike Hall couldn't come back last year and is living a life of ease in Kentucky.

Speedy little Misstep has tried to carry on with Sun Beau. But the job has been too much for him. He showed signs of lameness at Arlington in July. He hasn't been to the post since.

Why Not Next Year, Too?

And how can Sun Beau be denied the championship next year if Owner Kilmer decides to race him as a 6 year old? The only 3 year old that has come up this year that might give him a brush is Gallant Fox. The Fox will never race again, it has been announced.

With the cup stars departing, Hawthorne's fall meeting goes into its third week today with the Columbus day clidming purse as the feature. Eighteen were named overnight for it and the Kentucky 6 year old, Bonaire, loomed as the favorite.

New York Pro Eleven Beats Bears, 12 to 0

Bears Get 6 First Downs.

Not only were the Bears unable to reach New York's 20 yard line, but their attack didn't seem to register in any part of the field. They finally secured credit for six first downs, four in the second half, but only two came joined together.

The passing was similar to the running attack. Six passes were completed in 22 attempts, each occurring separately. Ten were incomplete while five were intercepted. Another pass for eight yards was ruled incomplete because of interference with the receiver.

Nagurski Tackles Well.

New York attempted eleven passes with four successful for a total of 52 yards. However, Friedman, the master tosser, only tried his arm five times with three completions. His aim registered 38 yards of the total.

Nagurski's tackling at defensive full back for the Bears was outstanding, while Pearson, McMullen and Carlson, the center trio which replaced Trafton, Frump and Schuette, had much better luck stopping New York's attack. However, most of their turn in the line occurred while Friedman was on vacation.

Eight Records Broken in Outboard Regatta

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Eight new world's outboard records, two of which were toppled shortly afterward, were established today as the national championship two day regatta got under way on the Connecticut river. Finals were held in classes "A" and "E." In the eastern division regatta yesterday 15 new records were established, five of which were superseded by new ones later in the day and three of which fell in today's racing.

OUR ETHICS

Every case taken is handled under the personal supervision of the Founder of the WELLINGTON INSTITUTE, who watches the progress of each case himself. This is his eighth year of continuous service to the Chicago public here in the loop. We have no other office. No "chain" of offices, with other people in charge. We are not commercialized. The same specialist is here year after year. Our treatment must recommend itself. We have no selling talk. Your scalp is carefully examined and its exact condition explained. We do not sell any manufactured product, or even ask if you will return for further treatment. Our facilities are extensive, our whole Institute surgically clean and hygeic to the last degree. Our operators have been with us for years. We administer one full half-hour demonstration treatment without charge, and you decide at your leisure about further service.

Ultra-Violet-Ray Treatment
Under the Mercury Quartz Lamp, $1.50

This Ultra-Violet Ray Treatment, however is only part of our Complete Scientific Treatment. For cases of "oily hair" it is sometimes used by itself.

For dry, tight scalps; brittle, falling hair; itching or baldness, the Ultra-Violet Ray treatment is followed by vibratory and hand massage to loosen the scalp and increase circulation; by the gentle application of high frequency current to electrify and tone the muscles and tissues, and whatever is required of ointments or stimulating and nourishing medicaments. These are applied to the scalp (not the hair) and gently warmed into it by the rays from the Infra-Red Lamp.

THIS COMPLETE SCIENTIFIC TREATMENT attacks the disorders of the scalp from every angle, and leaves it all aglow with increased circulation, soft, pliable, free from dryness and tightness, and with a wonderful feeling of increased vitality. This complete treatment, Including the Ultra-Violet Ray, is..... $3.50

ACK'S BOXING SKILL LIKELY TO TROUBLE SINGER

Stadium Principals End Work for Bout Tomorrow.

Mack, student of philosophy professor of ring craft at St University, and his opponent, Al lightweight champion, who in the featured ten round bout of Stadium's boxing card tomorrow ended strenuous conditioning

Mack's work during the last four has been so superior to what he here last when training fo Canzoneri, that experts, who he might fall victim to Singer's early round assault, have ad the opinion that the New will not be able to get past left hand.

Singer Rushes to Attack.

Singer's success has been achieved the first two rounds. He comes gun, swinging a hard right and landing a jarring left to the head. After the first two rounds, if he does go with the first punches, he is your finisher. Mack, on the other hand, is a slow starter.

Ring Levinsky, who became an international figure in boxing when he stopped Leo Lomski in six rounds, is going to Tom Kirby, a heavyweight who is equipped similarly to Lomski Kirby is a marvelous boxer. Lomski's job at the hands of the Ghetto mauler, when he ran into a right hand that separated him from his senses in the first minute of the fight, is expected to be a warning to other foes. Kirby will not hold Levinsky as lightly as Lomski did and will be seeking him immediately, instead of sizing it from the bell.

Dangerous to Mix With King.

Any man who mixes it with Levinsky, anywhere along a ten round route, is likely to be dropped by a single punch from either the right or left hand.

The interest of the fans also centers on the Harry Fierro-Kid Francis bout. Francis is expected to win, but Fierro has been so successful against Kid Francis' type that he is in line for the bantamweight title. The N. B. A. has notified him it will deprive him the titleholder if he defeats Fidel Labarba's conqueror.

However, Francis, in the matter of purses and big houses, has more to gain for, since he has signed contracts to meet Earl Mastro if he defeats him.

Mills End Season with Win Over Chicago Giants, 6-3

The Mills of the Chicago Semi-pro league closed its 1930 season yesterday, defeating the Chicago Giants, 6 to 3, at Mills stadium. The Giants won the right to meet the Mills by turning back the Chicago Firemen, 3 to 2, earlier.

Capt. Van Nice Lost to Maroons for 3 Weeks

With Capt. Errett Van Nice out of action until the Princeton game, Nov. 1, at least, Coach A. A. Stagg faces the necessity of rebuilding his offense for the coming games with Florida and Mississippi. Several Maroon players were crippled at Madison Saturday under the combination of Wisconsin's power and the terrific heat. Van Nice suffered a recurrence of an old knee injury.

Kenneth Mackenzie, a full back who has been playing guard this season, will be moved to the back field this week, for both Knudson and Stackler are crippled. It looked yesterday as if neither would be available for the Florida game Saturday.

Stagg was dissatisfied with his ends before the Wisconsin game and he was more so afterward. He may continue to groom Sam Horwitz for the position, although Horwitz played an outstanding game at guard and was the support of his side of the line. Hamberg, whose throat was injured in a scrimmage, probably will be in shape to play Saturday.

ILLINI EYE WILDCATS.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Pleased with the improvement that Illinois showed against Butler, Bob Zuppke made plans today for the Northwestern game. Carl Voyles, freshman coach who scouted the Wildcats, pointed out that Northwestern was able to go along without the services of Bruder, and regarded this as significant of the Wildcats' man power.

"Smallpox is a tough break for Bruder and I and everybody at Illinois regret it," said Coach Zuppke. "We have always been anxious to see him against us, because he is an Illinois State boy and undoubtedly a fine back."

That Zuppke succeeded in his purpose of strengthening the line by using Bauer and Ovelman, two new prospects, is indicated by his decision to retain them. Bauer is the biggest man who has played here since the day of "Bubbles" Mitterwallner, tipping the scales at 250 pounds.

OHIO NEXT FOR MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Having conquered the jinx which Purdue athletic teams nailed onto the Maize and Blue last year, Michigan will go to work tomorrow to prepare for its two outstanding traditional contests of the year, the annual games with Ohio State, to be played Saturday at Columbus, and the battle here with Illinois on Oct. 25.

Coach Harry Kipke will probably give the squad a light workout Monday in view of the fact that almost every man who got into the Purdue melee took hard bumps and can show bruises to prove it.

Michigan was forced to uncover everything it had to beat Purdue, and the team will have to absorb a lot of new plays in the coming five days.

IRISH STARS QUIT HOSPITAL.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—With Carnegie Tech, one of the strongest teams in the east, coming here next Saturday, Notre Dame will need every available regular. Larry Mullins, first string full back; Frank Leahy, regular left tackle; Dick Donoghue, varsity right tackle, and Paul O'Connor, shock troops right half, are four who will be scratched off the hospital list for duty Saturday. Donoghue was the only one of the four who was used against Navy yesterday. The others are almost in top shape, after nursing injuries for a week.

Jack Chevigny, assistant coach, who scouted the 31 to 0 victory of Carnegie over Georgia Tech yesterday, returned to South Bend tonight, and tomorrow will instruct freshmen teams in Carnegie plays for use in scrimmage. He reports that the Tartans are a physically perfect team and that they had one of the most versatile and powerful offenses that he has ever seen.

INDIANA FACES GOPHERS.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—For the third time in as many years, Indiana goes to Minnesota Saturday for another Big Ten football contest. Due to a faculty arrangement, the Hoosiers agreed to make three trips to Minneapolis and the Gophers to come to Bloomington once. These meetings have been memorable affairs. Three years ago Indiana held the Gophers to a 14 to 14 tie here. Minnesota has won the last two games, 21 to 12 and 19 to 7.

Two Hoosier back field stars, Saluski and Dauer, are recovering from injuries of a week ago and are expected to play Saturday.

BADGERS LOSE WEIGHT.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Wisconsin came through its opening conference game against Chicago yesterday in good shape. No injuries were reported, but the players lost weight as a result of the warm weather that prevailed.

"We did as well as I could expect," Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite declared today, "but Chicago was a weak team. Our line will get its first real test Saturday against Pennsylvania."

The work of Tury Oman, who gained 104 yards from scrimmage on five attempts, and John Schneller, sophomore full back, who totaled 79 yards on 17 plays against the Maroons, pleased Badger fans.

PURDUE LOSES WHITE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Jack White, Purdue's veteran quarter back, who was forced from the Michigan game in its early stages yesterday, will in all probability be unable to play in the Iowa game next Saturday because of the seriousness of the injury to his shoulder.

Bitterly disappointed, but not discouraged, over Michigan's one point victory, the Boilermakers will settle down tomorrow to intensive drill for the invasion of Iowa City Saturday that will provide the Hawkeyes with their lone conference encounter this season.

Benny Allen, Maj. White to Meet in Billiard Match

Benny Allen of Kansas City, former world's pocket billiard champion, will meet Mayor White in a 1,250 point match at the Congress billiard room, Congress street and Wabash avenue this afternoon. The match will be at ten block of 125 points each and will end Friday night.

Chicago Beats St. Louis in Golf Match

Chicago defeated St. Louis yesterday in the intercity golf matches at Medinah Country club by a total of 60½ to 32½ for two days' play. It was the worst drubbing the St. Louis amateurs have ever received in the intercity series.

Teams of 16 each played two days over Medinah's courses and the Chicago golfers won each of the three rounds. In the individual play Saturday Chicago won, 30 to 15, and yesterday, in the 36 hole foursomes, the local amateurs won both morning round and afternoon round, quitting with 30½ to 17½ for yesterday's play.

Jimmy Manion and Cotton Whitbread, the star St. Louis team, came through with an even break yesterday with Jack Westland and Johnny Lehman.

Don Hamilton and Art Sweet made the best showing of the Chicago teams. They won three points for both rounds against "Chuck" Collins, the western junior champion, and Ben Goodman. Johnny Ames and George Dawson got a 4½ to 1½ victory over Don Anderson and Earl Whatley, as did Ira Couch and Gus Novotny over Dick Bockenkamp and Chester O'Brien. Jimmy Miller and Art Harrison chalked up a 5 to 1 victory over Leonard Casale and Dr. I. R. Davis.

Roger Lord of St. Louis went around No. 3 course Sunday in 35—34—69 and led his partner, Chick Irwin, to a 5½ to 3 victory over George Thomas and Ben Stevenson.

Summary of yesterday's foursome play follows, with Chicago teams listed first:

Jimmy Miller and Art Harrison, 5; Dr. I. R. Davis and Leonard Casale, 1.

Johnny Lehman and Jack Westland, 3; Jimmy Manion and Cotton Whitbread, 3.

Ben Stevenson and George Thomas, ½; Roger Lord and Chick Irvin, 5½.

Ira Couch and Gus Novotny, 4½; Dick Bockenkamp and Chester O'Brien, 1½.

Rial Rolfe and Lou Levinson, 4; Les Slattery and Mike Roach, 2.

Art Sweet and Don Hamilton, 6; Chuck Collins and Ben Goodman, 0.

John Ames and George Dawson, 4½; Earl Whatley and Don Anderson, 1½.

Burton Mudge and Joe Bour, 3; Sid Salomon Jr. and Harold McAninch, 3.

DE PAUL COACH SHIFTS LINE FOR ST. MARY'S GAME

The De Paul university football team will undergo a shakeup at its practice today, with three new linemen slated for action, Coach Eddie Anderson announced yesterday.

Frank Hamilton will replace Hal Cherno at tackle and Bud Borelli and Al Morse will appear at guard in place of Cowhey and McClane.

Red Harrington, half back, who has been out of practice for two weeks because of injuries, is expected to start against St. Mary's college at Winona, Minn., Saturday.

Frank Hartman is being used in place of Ernie Butcher, half back, who was injured in a recent scrimmage.

Waterfowl Stay Far from Hunters in Warm Weather

BY BOB BECKER.

October's Indian summer weather, the kind that prevailed last week, was a great break for the waterfowl but a poor one for the hunters in the middle west. The weather was so warm that the average duck hunter didn't want to do much in the marsh, and the birds just took sunbaths all day, far from the range of all guns.

Along the Illinois some of the landowners refused to take in hunters because they could guarantee very few birds in the gunner's game bag. When waterfowl prefer to soak up the ultraviolet rays or just quietly sit all day instead of decoying one can't do much with a shotgun. Last week this was the situation that prevailed in much of the duck country.

It is quite apparent that waterfowl hunters who demand wide open country with "free hunting" must either pay from $10 to $25 per day for shooting privileges or else turn to another sport this fall. Our survey (which now is completed) of bottomlands, sloughs and other suitable areas for duck and goose hunting along the Mississippi and Illinois rivers indicates that free hunting just "isn't."

With more than 1,000,000 hunters in the central states bordering on the great lakes and the Mississippi river, the demand for marshes and lakes where waterfowl gather has gone sky high. Consequently, landowners having an eye open to business have built blinds, raised decoys, and now charge for hunting privileges. Those that did not do this have sold or leased their property to groups of waterfowl hunters. So it's good-by to the free hunting stuff.

Our survey shows that one can still get pretty fair duck hunting near Henry, Putnam, Chillicothe, Lacon, Havana, Bath, Sheldons Grove, and Beardstown, Ill., along the Illinois river valley as well as due west from Chicago in the Mississippi river bottoms. There also is open ground along the Mississippi above Cairo.

These are the best open grounds for daily fee hunters or day hunters as the landowners call those gunners who wish a one, two or three day shoot. Our survey also shows that the price per day for blinds, decoys and boat (sometimes board and lodging) ranges from $10 up to $25 per day in these localities. Above Cairo, Ill., the goose shooting daily fee is cheap, about $10 per day for everything.

Grid Honors Go to Michigan and Minnesota

Dame national champions of 1924, was supposed to be able to give old Eli whatever it needed to solve Georgia's attack, which was directed by Harry Mehr, another Notre Dame center. However, the strategy failed, as the score attested.

In the playing of the game each team was convincingly superior for a half, Yale won the first half, although the first kickoff was run back by Downs, Georgia's quarter back, for a touchdown. The Georgia Bulldog won the second half by two touchdowns to one, although in this portion Barres, a Yale end, recovered a fumble on the kickoff and sprinted for the easterners' second and final score. Otherwise, Georgia's line outplayed Yale's, and therein was the story.

While Brown only won, 7 to 0, it outplayed Princeton from all angles, even in fumbling, a matter which cost a pair of unneeded scores.

Irish Meet Carnegie Next.

The results of other contests were about as most folks had predicted. However, Knute Rockne, whose Notre Dame first, second and third elevens successfully dedicated the new $750,000 stadium at South Bend with a 26 to 2 win over the Annapolis middies, had better watch for Carnegie Tech this coming Saturday. The Scots of Pittsburgh tramped on the once famous Golden Tornado from Georgia Tech, 31 to 0, thereby earning considerable respect for the conflict impending at the Irish stadium.

And if Mr. Rockne's first, second and third elevens whip Carnegie Tech, there is Pittsburgh to worry about Oct. 25. Pitt, Saturday, rolled over Western Reserve, 52 to 0, which is menacing no matter what the ability of Western Reserve.

Nebraska deserves mention because of its reversal in form. A week ago the Cornhuskers won from the Texas Aggies, 13 to 0. Saturday a lightweight Oklahoma team trounced the 1929 Big Six champs, 20 to 7, and consequently now takes a commanding position in the 1930 campaign.

Ames Beats Simmons in Indoor Opener, 2-0

Carlos Ames opened the indoor baseball season with a 2 to 0 victory over Simmons yesterday at the Washington-Jefferson school gym. Matt Ruppert, Ames hurler, pitched a no hit, no run game. He struck out 25.

LOYOLA ELEVEN DRILLS FOR TRIP TO NEW ORLEANS

With little success in two starts against eastern competition this season, Loyola's football team will journey south this week-end to invade the Southern conference for their annual game with Loyola of New Orleans.

Under the coaching of Clark Shaughnessy, Loyola of the south has developed a strong eleven this season. It trounced Baker, 39 to 0, last Saturday.

Against Duquesne, Chicago Loyola showed marked improvement in defense and with additional drill on this phase of the game, the Ramblers should present a much better front Friday night. Duquesne was only able to annex three first downs during the entire game, and two of these resulted from passes.

GRAIN VALUES SEEM TO BE AT CAUTION LEVELS

Situation of Wheat Needs Watching.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation in commodity markets has been severe, with a decline in values to the lowest in recent years. This is due to timidity on the part of investors, resulting from the drastic decline in securities in Wall street.

Traders say that were the stock markets to brace up and hold a good advance it would be reflected in grains and all commodities. Values are at a level where conservative traders advise caution on both sides, especially selling grains short. Their theory is that possibilities of profits arising from declines are small, while the risk is too great. The disposition of the speculative trade and public is to work on the constructive side of the market on declines and take profits on moderate advances.

Appreciations of the past week were about all lost, wheat breaking around 7c, and corn around 7¼c. Highest prices were made at the opening and the lowest around the close, with net losses for the week on wheat of 4½@5½c; corn, 4½@5¼c; oats, 1½@1¾c; rye, 4¼@5c. Lard declined 50@60c, while dry salted bellies gained $1.12½ on October owing to scarcity of supplies, while the January, in which interest is limited, finished only 5c higher than a week ago.

Needs Close Watching.

The wheat situation is regarded as needing the closest watching in years. There are many constructive factors, the numerous adverse ones. Along the constructive lines are extensive selling operations in the United States, with prospects of considerable selling led in Europe, as wheat is relatively cheaper than corn.

Marketing of wheat, as indicated by primary receipts, was the smallest for the period in ten years, as farmers have not been satisfied with prices and are holding their grains. It is said that were the 60,000,000 bu of wheat held by the farm board companies and not hedged, eliminated from the visible, the supply would not be burdensome.

Looking at the other side of the picture, there are interesting factors. Argentina and Australia have had rains of late, and domestic winter wheat prospects have also been improved by wide distribution of moisture. Argentina has had cold weather, but no damage from frosts are reported.

The United States has raised 840,000,000 bu of wheat, which, with the carryover, suggests a supply of 1,100,000,000 bu. Last year's crop was 886,000,000 bu. Speculators and cash handlers are paying accurate attention to the wheat feeding proposition.

Russia Covers Short.

Russia is said to have finished covering its recent short sales of 10,000,000 bu in the Chicago market, while shorts in general were large buyers to secure profits at the close.

One of the weak spots is the absence of large foreign buying of American wheat, and it is claimed that Canada, Argentina, Australia, and Russia can supply the foreign demand without coming to America. This will place the United States in a position where domestic consumption for food and feed will have to be increased and production decreased to put the market on a domestic basis.

Wheat prices have gained on corn, and several futures that have been at a discount of late are now a premium over corn. December wheat closed at 77⅝@77½c; March, 81⅝@81¾c; May, 83⅜@83¾c, and July, 84½c.

Old and new style trading will start tomorrow.

All American grain markets will be closed today in celebration of Columbus day. Prices for the week follow:

Corn Crop Figures a Surprise.

With a corn crop of 2,047,000,000 bu, the smallest since 1901, but 64,000,000 bu more than last month, traders are not as bullish as they were recently, but believe that ultimately husking returns will necessitate a reduction in present estimates and that prices later in the year will range materially higher.

An analysis of the corn crop shows that Illinois and Iowa have around 37 per cent of the total. Illinois markets its surplus, while Iowa feeds it and markets it through live stock.

A most important feature is that cash premiums on No. 2 yellow and mixed corn of around 6⅛@7⅛c over December, with a scarcity of white corn at 10@13c premium, there is nothing bearish in the actual corn situation, although traders have tried to establish a bullish position in December based on small supplies, with indifferent success.

Prices dropped around 7c from the high to the low point with the close around the bottom. December being 80¼c; March, 80@80¼c; May, 82⅝ @82¾c and July, 83¾c. Prices follow:

In the first line of the government report published in the Chicago Tribune on Saturday morning, corn figures of 2,647,000,000 bu for Oct. 1, 1930, should have read 2,047,000,000 bu.

Investment Bankers Set for Conclave

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Twenty-five committees, each in itself a small research organization, today were preparing reports on current financial problems to be presented tomorrow to the first general session of the Investment Bankers Association of America. The annual convention, being held in the Hotel Roosevelt here, has attracted about 600 delegates from investment firms.

Among the more important questions to be taken up are those bearing on municipal securities, public utility issues, and investment trusts. The situation created by defaults of the many millions of city bonds, notably in Florida, has not yet been dealt with adequately from the standpoint of investment bankers' present policy, and important pronouncements on this subject are forecast.

Feared Drop in Stocks.

In connection with the utility securities, it is recalled that this convention early last October, in session at Quebec, accepted a report stating unhesitatingly that the prices of utility stocks were over high. In effect this was almost a prediction of the break that came with dramatic swiftness less than a week after the close of the 1929 sessions.

This year, despite the generally low state of investment business for many months, the note being struck is one of confidence. While attendance is smaller than usual representation from all sections of the country is present, and the association's president, Trowbridge Callaway, of New York, announced that many of the committees which do the important work of the organization have larger attending membership than usual.

"In common with other lines of business," said Mr. Callaway, "we have been going through a trying experience, yet the organized investment banking business of the country is working with a very definite conviction that better times are close ahead.

Confidence in Future.

"I find these men from all parts of the nation calmly optimistic, undisturbed by the vague fears that have been so prevalent. There has been no hesitancy in getting down to work and the spirit of confidence is most encouraging."

Mr. Callaway will make his annual address tomorrow morning after the welcoming speech to the convention has been given by George W. Robertson, New Orleans banker.

Most of the delegates arrived on special trains this morning, the New York and Chicago contingents being the largest. Chicagoans who are chairmen of committees which will report before the end of the convention Wednesday include: Robert A. Gardner, Francis A. Bommer, William J. Wardall, Arthur H. Gilbert, and Victor S. Buchanan. Attorney Silas H. Strawn of Chicago will speak on "Problems of Municipal Finance in the Future," on Wednesday.

GRAIN, FEED MEN WILL VISIT NEW BOARD OF TRADE

Elaborate preparations have been made by the Chicago Board of Trade for entertaining members of the Grain and Feed Dealers' National association, which meets in Chicago this week, at the Sherman house today and tomorrow. As today is Columbus day and a legal holiday, the day will be spent largely in showing the visiting grain men all over the new Board of Trade building.

Members and visitors are expected to assemble on the third floor at 2:30 o'clock and will be shown around the leading offices of the brokerage houses. Those who are especially interested in the handling of grain will be welcomed in the inspection of the model elevator in the weighmaster's department on the 7th floor and in the board's official sampling department on the eleventh floor. President John A. Bunnell of the Chicago Board of Trade will deliver the welcoming address. Ben E. Clement of Waco, Tex., will respond in behalf of the grain trade.

RIVALS OF ARMOUR, SWIFT TO BE CALLED IN PACKERS' DECREE CASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—Attorney Frank J. Hogan, counsel for the Swift and Armour companies, announced today that he will call this week several officials of rival packers' concerns as witnesses in the packers' consent decree case. The two Chicago packers are seeking in the District of Columbia Supreme court modifications of the decree to allow them to retail food products.

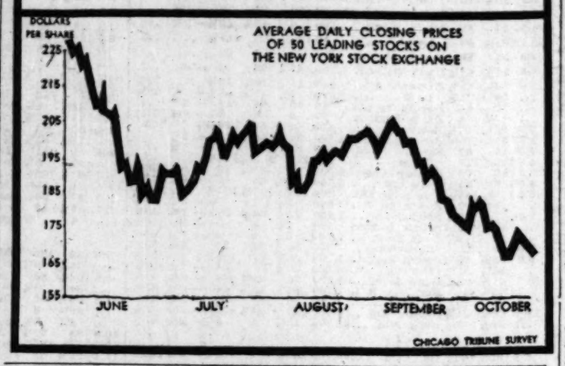
The spokesmen for the competing packing firms, according to Mr. Hogan, will testify that the competition on the buying of live stock and in the sale of meat is so keen and the business so well distributed as to preclude the possibility of any monopoly.

Among those scheduled to testify are Oscar G. Mayer of Chicago, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers; Barney Brennan, president of Brennan Packing company of Chicago; and the heads of packing companies in East St. Louis, Knoxville, St. Louis, Nashville, and Boston.

Mr. Hogan said he would also call a number of outstanding men in the live stock world, including F. E. Mollin, secretary of the American National Live Stock association; F. W. Harding, general executive of the American Shorthorn Cattle Breeders' association; W. H. Tomhave, secretary of the American Aberdeen Angus Cattle Breeders' association, and Dan D. Casement, a cattle man operating in Kansas, Colorado, and Ohio.

Hearings on the Swift-Armour petition started before Justice Bailey last Tuesday and are expected to continue five or six weeks. The opening days of the hearings have been devoted to testimony of government officials regarding the extent and distribution of the packing business.

FRESH DECLINES LAST WEEK CARRIED STOCK PRICES TO THE YEAR'S LOWEST LEVEL



WHOLESALE DIST. IS PLEASED WITH RETAIL ACTIVITY

Sept. Cotton Cloth Sales High.

BY HOWARD CARSWELL.

The wholesale district was pleased last week at the activity and good reports of retail sales in the merchandising field. Although the advent of chilly weather would obviously be a strong stimulus to the movement of autumn and winter lines, the encouraging pace of retail business generally has proceeded in a surprising way.

E. W. STEINBECK. (Wallinger Photo.)

Dress accessories, small wares, gifts, woolens, and numerous other lines are selling in such volume as to put merchants in a more optimistic frame of mind, the Chicago Association of Commerce finds in its weekly report.

Delay in Filling Orders.

"One large wholesale firm reported some delay in filling orders, the result of a promotion and advertising campaign that featured hosiery and lingerie. One executive stated that his company was doing the best business in woolens in recent years," the association's report says.

E. W. Steinbeck has been renominated as president of the Gifts, Artwares and Novelties association, which is now planning its winter market to be held early next February in the Merchandise Mart. Nomination is usually tantamount to election in the association. Benjamin Marcuse, Walter Larsen and Mrs. E. D. Leavitt were named as vice presidents, Malvin Fleshman as treasurer, and Ralph B. Kraetsch as secretary. George Turner and V. Christy were nominated as new directors.

Cotton Cloth Statistics.

September statistics on standard cotton cloths released by the Association of Cotton Textile Merchants of New York indicate a very great absorption of stocks, with sales and shipments far exceeding production. September production of 182,385,000 yards was 32 per cent below the same month of 1929. Sales during the month of 291,980,000 yards were 160 per cent of production, while the month's shipments of 232,975,000 yards were the equivalent of 127.7 per cent of September output.

Stocks of standard cotton cloths on hand at the end of September amounted to 392,406,000 yards, a decrease of 11.4 per cent during the month, while unfilled orders of 285,427,000 yards represented an increase of 26.1 per cent during the month. Stocks were reduced more than 50,000,000 yards as a result of continued low production, which reduction is the greatest—both in yardage and percentage—recorded in any month since the association has been compelling the statistics.

OFFERS CREDIT OF $125,000,000 TO GERMANY

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The banking firm of Lee, Higginson & Co. announced today that a group of international bankers had put a credit of $125,000,000 at the disposal of the German government, subject to action by the German reichstag authorizing the credit and providing a method of repayment.

The announcement said a syndicate of banks had been formed by the reichsbank in Germany to participate in the credit, while in the United States a syndicate has been formed by Lee, Higginson & Co., in which certain foreign participants also will be included.

The credit, it was said, will take the form of German government six months treasury bills. The various syndicates have agreed to discount these bills in the amount of $125,000,000, and have granted the German government the option to renew the paper three times.

The American institutions which are participating in this credit include: Lee, Higginson & Co., the Chase National bank, Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company, First National bank of Chicago, Central Trust company of Illinois, Foreman-State National bank of Chicago, and many others.

Federal Reserve Assures Ample Farm Crop Credits

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Assurance was given today by the federal reserve board that ample credit facilities were available for orderly movement of agricultural crops to market.

In its monthly review of business and financial conditions the board said ample credit for this purpose was assured through "the exceptionally strong position of commercial banks and of the reserve banks, the prevailing ease in credit conditions, the low level of money rates, and the attitude of the federal reserve system."

The statement recalled that on Sept. 24 the board had promised the American farmers that it was eager to have its available resources used to finance the movement of crops at the lowest interest rates ever charged by the federal reserve banks.

The board said that for the year ending in September there had been an increase of $1,125,000,000 in deposits shown by the reporting member banks. Of this amount there was an increase of $470,000,000 in net demand deposits and an increase of $655,000,000 in time deposits.

This growth, the board said, was nearly twice the increase in loans and investments which had advanced $615,000,000 in the year. New York City banks showed an increase of $444,000,000 in demand deposits and an increase of $175,000,000 in time deposits, while outside New York City the increase in net demand deposits was $26,000,000 and $480,000,000 in time deposits.

Reflects Gold Inflow.

"The more rapid growth of deposits than of loan and investments during the year, which is usual during a period of business recession, reflected in part an inflow into the banks of gold from abroad and of currency from circulation," the review said.

"The country's stock of monetary gold increased during the year by about $130,000,000 and the outstanding volume of money in circulation was diminished by $300,000,000 owing to decreased demand caused by reduced pay rolls, a smaller volume of retail trade, and a lower level of commodity prices."

The board said conditions in the money market remained easy in September and that although the usual seasonal change at this time was upward there was little change in the demand for reserve bank credit.

DEMAND MELLON SHUT U. S. DOOR ON LUMBER SHIPPED FROM RUSSIA

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Formal complaint against the failure of the government to prescribe regulations to prevent admission to this country of convict-made Russian lumber and a demand that it do so at once to protect the domestic lumber industry has been filed with the treasury department by the National Lumber Manufacturers' association.

Wilson Compton, secretary and manager of the association, made public today copies of a letter forwarded to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in which he asserts the law requires the secretary to prescribe regulations shutting out convict-made merchandise and that there is "ample reason for suspecting every Russian lumber importation is illegal."

The new demand of the lumber association recalled the threat of the treasury department several weeks ago to bar a number of shipments of soviet lumber described as convict made. Subsequently, the department withdrew the threat on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Mr. Compton in his letter argued that "both general and specific information known to the department is adequate to support the assumption that Russian lumber shipped to this country is convict made and that the burden of proof of the non-convict origin of specific shipments should in the light of our knowledge of the labor used in the lumber industry by the soviet rests upon the importers."

Another demand of the lumber association was that unless each piece of Russian lumber is stamped with a distinct mark showing the country of origin there be imposed upon it the additional imposts provided by section 304 of the tariff act.

WALL ST. FIRM FAILURE HAS NO CREDIT EFFECT

Sequels of the Past Are Recalled.

All banks, stock and commodity exchanges will be closed today—Columbus day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 12.—When the stock exchange last Thursday announced the Prince & Whitely failure, probably there were people not in touch with the Wall street situation who imagined that now, at last, the credit structure was giving way, and that no one could tell what the result would be.

The idea never occurred to any one in Wall street—it was obviously absurd. The news had no resemblance whatever to the string of Wall street insolvencies which used to follow close on the heels of an old time stock exchange panic, and which invariably were preceded or accompanied by frantic bids for money. That there was not a flicker of concern in last week's money market, with its 2 and 3 per cent rate for loans on stock exchange collateral, sufficiently indicated the real meaning of the failure.

Recalls 1901 Panic.

It would not have caused surprise, even to Wall street, if a series of commission house suspensions had been announced at the end of October or in the middle of November. The downward plunge of values for collateral pledged against brokers' loans had surpassed all known precedent. In the equally rapid though far less sweeping crumbling away of prices in the May 9 panic of 1901, it was commonly declared that, at noon on the panic day, half of commission house Wall street was technically insolvent. Those were the days of "25 per cent margins" and banks without a central guiding policy.

On that occasion an equally sudden and equally violent recovery surmounted the crisis, so that the sequel of 1907 and 1893 and even 1903 was obviated. Last autumn's case was different, partly in the vastly greater scope of the unified banking system to "carry over" concerns that were embarrassed at the moment, but who

Apply these THREE TESTS to any securities you may hold

—to determine whether or not your list needs revision

Are you getting the most out of your investments? Could certain changes be made that would give you more income, greater safety or better chances for appreciation? Ask yourself these three questions before deciding to buy a security or to hold it:

First—At its current price and dividend rate, does it give a satisfactory yield?

Second—If so, is it the stock of a company which will come through this period of business recession with its earning power substantially unimpaired and in the ensuing period of prosperity experience greater than average expansion?

Third—If it passes both of the above tests, what are the chances of buying it below the present price?

Finding the answers

In this period of uncertainty in the security market, it is more than ever necessary to have correct answers to these questions. That is why so many investors are turning to Standard Statistics Company for reliable information and sound investment counsel.

RUSSIA DRIVES IDLE TO WORK BY STOPPING DOLES

Must Take Jobs Given Them or Starve.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 12.—Economy measures aimed to reduce the emission of uncovered paper money by the soviet state bank is expected to effect large savings for Russia this winter, according to the Moscow Pravda. It declares that the communist party has decided to immediately stop paying th unemployed registered at soviet labor bureaus further subsidies.

According to the Pravda, Moscow has been the mecca for Russian jobless for the last 10 years with an average of 500,000 favored workers drawing doles.

Beginning last August the labor exchanges began to dispatch trainloads of Moscow unemployed to various industrial districts, where regular workers were deserting their jobs and migrating about the country seeking places where the food crisis was less evident.

Jobless Join Deserters.

Appeals from the heads of nationalized enterprises for more workers revealed that the Moscow jobless were also joining the deserters, most of whom were seeking to return to the communist capital, where the food supply, though insufficient, still was larger than any other city in Russia.

An interesting feature of the latest decree issued by the commissariat of labor is that workers, who have been drawing subsidies, must accept the work assigned to them, irrespective of their trade, or lose their membership in the trade union, including the loss of the privilege of purchasing food rations from government stores at cheaper prices than those charged other classes of the population. Those deserting their jobs will be blacklisted and refused work in other government undertakings.

Decrees issued in the last two months have placed every industry in Russia on a forced labor basis. The soviet press, discussing the mobilization of workers and their assignments to various industrial districts, admits that less than 10 per cent arrive at their places of work and that the desertions from enterprises are continuing.

Fear Mines and Lumber Camps.

Drafted workers, according to the Kharkov Isvestia, have a special aversion for the Donnetz coal mines, which have been closed for lack of miners. The Leningrad Krasnaja Gazette reports similar conditions in the northern lumber industry, which, at the present time, is being operated entirely with convict labor and drafted peasants.

The forced optimism of the soviet press concerning the communists' industrial achievements is fading and their columns are now filled with complaints concerning the breakdown of scheduled developments.

A. M. Tsikon, commissar of labor, has a different view. He says:

"There is really no unemployment in the soviet union today because of the unparalleled growth of socialized industry and agriculture. In construction work alone there is a shortage of 300,000 workers and in the month of July national industry as a whole was short 500,000 workers."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Doctor in Charge

YANK BUILDER IN RUSSIA AGAINST ATTITUDE OF U.S.

Doubts Attacks Upon World Markets.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 12.—(AP)—An opinion that recent charges of commodity dumping by the soviet government for the purpose of wrecking world markets, in only a "hob-goblin' without truth, was expressed here today by W. J. Austin, head of the Austin company, which is building a $60,000,000 industrial city and auto plant in Russia for the soviet government. Austin has just returned from a two months' study of conditions in that country.

Russia offers a market for some hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of technical assistance and equipment over the next few years, Austin said, but added his belief that continuance of "antagonistic attacks on Russia here may divert much of this business to other countries."

Says U. S. Has Lost Business.

Much business originally intended for American mills already has been lost to Germany, England and other European countries, Austin said. The soviet, he explained, is determined to buy from nations with more lenient trade and credit policies.

"I am convinced by observation and experience that the Russian government intends to meet every dollar of the obligations they are incurring, on the nail," Austin said. "I do not believe any American business is taking an extraordinary risk in extending reasonable credit to them on purchases made.

"Russia has no great surplus of many commodities, not even of wheat, for export, and there is no danger that she will launch any program of dumping to break world prices."

Manufactured Goods Needed.

"At the same time, vast deficiencies of all kinds of manufactured goods exist there. It will take years to supply these shortages and lift the country's standard of living to a level comparable with that of America."

About 10,000 Russian laborers are employed in the construction of the city which the Austin company is supervising. It is located near Nishni Novgorod. When complete, its automobile plant is to be capable of producing 150,000 cars a year. Homes, apartments, and business houses will be sufficient to house 50,000 people.

"Russia hopes to do in 25 years what America has been 150 years in doing—the building of an industrial civilization with mass production and high standards of living," Austin said.

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is vicar of a country village in England. His wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Lettice, and his second wife, Anne, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist who is living in a cottage on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the artist and Mrs. Protheroe had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel dead, murdered apparently. No weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is called, and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and summons the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:22, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding and Mrs. Protheroe both confess to the murder.

Miss Marple, a near neighbor, saw Anne Protheroe go to the vicarage about 6:15 and afterward and joined her at the studio. She had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly to village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar after leaving Anne and had found his pistol and thought Anne must have taken it.

"Murder by person or persons unknown," is the verdict given at the inquest.

Col. Melchett, the chief constable, suspects a poacher named Archer, whom Protheroe had prosecuted, of committing the murder.

INSTALLMENT XLIX.
THE FORGED LETTER.

"Do you seriously suspect Archer?"

"Well, you know," Col. Melchett said, "old Protheroe had his knife into Archer pretty badly. Lots of bad blood between them. Leniency wasn't Protheroe's strong point."

"No," I said. "He was a very ruthless man."

"What I say is," said Melchett, "live and let live. Of course, the law's the law, but it never hurts to give a man the benefit of the doubt. That's what Protheroe never did."

"He prided himself on it," I said.

There was a pause, and then I asked:

"What is this 'astounding bit of news' you promised me?"

"Well, it is astounding. You know that unfinished letter that Protheroe was writing when he was killed?"

"Yes."

"We got an expert on it—to say whether the 6:20 was added by a different hand. Naturally, we sent up samples of Protheroe's handwriting. And do you know the verdict? That letter was never written by Protheroe at all."

"You mean a forgery?"

"It's a forgery. The 6:20, they think, is written in a different hand again—but they're not sure about that. The heading is in a different ink, but the letter itself is a forgery. Protheroe never wrote it."

"Why," I said, "I remember at the time Mrs. Protheroe said it wasn't like her husband's handwriting at all, and I took no notice."

"Really?"

"I thought it one of those silly remarks women will make. If there seemed one thing sure on earth it was that Protheroe had written that note."

"It's curious," I said, slowly. "Miss Marple was saying this evening that that note was all wrong."

On the floor by his left foot was a crumpled sheet of paper with writing on it.

"Confound the woman, she couldn't know more about it if she had committed the murder herself."

At that moment the telephone bell rang. There is a queer kind of psychology about a telephone bell. It rang now persistently and with a kind of sinister significance.

I went over and took up the receiver.

"This is the vicarage," I said. "Who's speaking?"

A strange, high pitched, hysterical voice came over the wire.

"I want to confess!" it said. "My God, I want to confess!"

"Hullo!" I said. "Hullo! Look here, you've cut me off. What number was that?"

A languid voice said it didn't know. It added that it was sorry I had been troubled.

I put down the receiver and turned to Melchett.

"You once said," I remarked, "that you would go mad if any one else assumed themselves of the crime."

"What about it?"

"That was some one who wanted to confess . . . and the exchange has cut us off."

"I'll speak to them."

"Do," I said. "You may have some effect. I'll leave you to it. I'm going out. I've a fancy I recognized that voice."

I hurried down the village street. It was eleven o'clock and at eleven o'clock on a Sunday night the whole village of St. Mary Mead might be dead. I saw, however, a light in a first floor window as I passed, and, realizing that Hawes was still up, I stopped and rang the door bell.

After what seemed a long time, Hawes' landlady, Mrs. Sadler, laboriously unfastened two bolts, a chain, and turned a key, and peered out at me suspiciously.

"Good evening," I said. "I want to see Mr. Hawes. I see there's a light in the window, so he's up still."

"That may be. I've not seen him since I took up his supper. He's had a quiet evening—no one to see him, and he's not been out."

I nodded and, passing her, went quickly up the stairs. Hawes has a bedroom and sitting room on the first floor.

I passed into the latter. Hawes was lying back in a long chair asleep. My entrance did not wake him. An empty cachet box and a glass of water, half full, stood beside him.

On the floor, by his left foot, was a crumpled sheet of paper with writing on it. I picked it up and straightened it out.

It began: "My dear Clement——"

I read it through, uttered an exclamation, and shoved it into my pocket. Then I bent over Hawes and studied him attentively.

Next, reaching for the telephone which stood by his elbow, I gave the number of the vicarage. Melchett must have been still trying to trace the call, for I was told that the number was engaged. Asking them to call me, I put the instrument down again.

I put my hand into my pocket to look at the paper I had picked up once more. With it I drew out the note that I had found in the letter box and which was still unopened.

Its appearance was horribly familiar. It was the same handwriting as the anonymous letter that had come that afternoon.

I read it once—twice—unable to realize its contents.

I was beginning to read it a third time when the telephone rang. Like a man in a dream, I picked up the receiver and spoke.

"Is that you, Melchett?"

"Yes, where are you? I've traced that call. The number is——"

"I know the number."

"O, good! Is that where you are speaking from?"

"Yes."

"What about that confession?"

"I've got the confession all right."

"You mean you've got the murderer?"

I had then the strongest temptation of my life. I looked at Hawes. I looked at the crumpled letter. I looked at the anonymous scrawl. I looked at the empty cachet box with the name of Cherubim on it. I remembered a certain casual conversation.

"I—don't know," I said. "You'd better come 'round."

And I gave him the address.

Then I sat down in the chair opposite Hawes to think.

In two minutes' time Melchett would have arrived.

I took up the anonymous letter and read it through again for the third time.

I don't know how long I sat there—only a few minutes, in reality, I suppose. Yet it seemed as though an eternity had passed when I heard the door open and, turning my head, I looked up to see Melchett entering the room.

"What's this, Clement? What does it all mean?"

Of the two letters in my hand I selected one and passed it to him. He read it aloud in a low voice:

"My dear Clement:

"It is a peculiarly unpleasant thing that I have to say. After all, I think I prefer writing it. We can discuss it at a later date. It concerns the recent peculations. I am sorry to say that I have satisfied myself beyond any possible doubt as to the identity of the culprit. Painful as it is for me to have to accuse an ordained priest of the church, my duty is only too painfully clear. An example must be made, and——

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Your enjoyment of this picture will depend largely on your sense of humor and whether or not you are interested in the modes and morals of French theatrical folks as they were in the early part of the nineteenth century.

Emile Zola wrote the novel which served as basis for "Nana," the film, which was produced in France and acted in the main by French players of the Comédie Française. Werner Krauss was borrowed from the Germans for the occasion.

The story told is of a temperamental actress, loved by many men. She bleeds them and casts them aside and makes much whoopee after the Eva Tanguay I don't care fashion, until the tide of her popularity turns. Then she finds herself a laughing stock, forsaken by all but Count Muffet, who had started her on the road to success and, though later spurned by the lady, be continued to moon after her faithfully in a manner that makes you want to push his face in. True to the end is the count—

When smallpox takes the lady fair
(To heaven we hope) the count is there!

Minor rôles are better played than the principal ones, which are performed in ridiculously melodramatic fashion. It is because of all the overemphasis that tragedy becomes comedy. If you don't take "Nana" too seriously the picture will afford you considerable enjoyment. Otherwise I think it will make you tired. The costumes and sets are the best things about the production. At no time does direction or photography transcend the mediocre.

See you tomorrow.

Italy Honors Memory of Vergil, Scholars Attending the Rites

NAPLES, Italy, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The tomb of the poet Vergil was reconsecrated today by Balbino Giuliano, minister of national education, in the presence of noted classical scholars and thousands of residents of this city. Wednesday is the two thousandth anniversary of Vergil's birth.

From early morning pilgrimages of Neapolitans moved from the city to Pozzuoli, site of the tomb, several miles out of town. They swarmed over the hill of Pozzuoli, halfway up which the mausoleum is situated.

Mussolini's government has restored and reconstructed the poet's final resting place, left for centuries in ruin.

Tonight Naples and Pozzuoli were gay with festive lights and fireworks.

Start Miss Columbia Vote Campaign for Mardi Gras

Catholic young women of Chicago yesterday started their campaigns for votes for the title of "Miss Columbia" to be awarded at the Chicagoland Mardi Gras to be held at the Hotel Sherman Dec. 11 to 13, under the auspices of West Side Building association of seven affiliated Knights of Columbus councils. Proceeds will go to the association's charity fund.

Two of the candidates, Miss Amy Schaffer of 3752 Dickens avenue, and Miss Iva Wilson of 4240 Clarendon avenue, provided an embarrassing moment for Judge Francis B. Allegretti when both solicited his vote at the same time. The judge solved the problem by voting for both.

Chicago Growth Cited at Statue of Marquette

Shaft Dedicated at 26th St. and Damen Ave.

Chicago's first white citizen, Pere Jacques Marquette, yesterday was accorded official recognition by this metropolis. The French explorer and missionary is to stand henceforth in bronze bas-relief on a granite shaft marking a spot at the north end of the new Damen avenue bridge at 26th street. There he spent the winter of 1674 and 1675. Nearly 5,000 persons from all walks of life attended the dedicatory ceremonies at the sixteen foot monument. Judge Francis B. Allegretti presided.

Marquette's life and death, his adventures and his voyages were glowingly described by the Rev. Hugo F. Sloctemyer, S. J., new head of St. Ignatius High school. The Rev Joseph Morrison, representing the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, chronicled the achievements of the church in this city as the result of Father Marquette's early activities, with a communion of 1,250,000 persons at present. Yet Chicago, he added, in comparison with other communities, is "only a sprawling youth."

Judge John P. McGoorty of the Superior court congratulated the community on the erection of the monument on behalf of the state deputy of the Knights of Columbus. Msgr. Daniel F. Byrnes told of the struggles and the accomplishments of the Rev. Arnold Damen, for whom the street was renamed from Robey, and who worked for twenty-seven years in that vicinity from 1857. He was the founder of what for many years was St. Ignatius college.

Also on the platform and participating were L. Hubbard Shattuck, who accepted the monument as a director of the Chicago Historical society; Alderman Dennis Horan, who was active in getting the bridge and marker; Georges Sirven, French vice consul; Thomas A. O'Shaughnessy, who assisted in the designing of the shaft; Robert Coubé, who as head of the French war veterans laid a wreath on the monument; James A. Kearns, clerk of the Municipal court; Alphonse Champion, representing the Société Française; Dr. Alexander Pope, representing the American Irish Historical society, and Brother James Mulhearn, S. J.

CHAMBER MUSIC, KREISLER, SOUSA START THE SEASON

BY HAZEL MOORE.

The first of the programs of the Chicago Festival of Chamber Music was presented last evening in the classic environs of the James Simpson theater, located in the Field Museum of Natural History, before a formidable gathering of Chicago's musical élite, whether by inclination or accomplishment.

This first program also inaugurated the first chamber music festival of real proportions to be attempted in Chicago. To Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge, a former Chicagoan and an indefatigable aid to the furtherance of chamber music in America, goes the credit for this series of programs. It is to her unaided effort that so much new material in the field of chamber music, the little field of the one, two or three instrument combinations, and of the instrumental use of the human voice, so dear to the heart of the true modernist finds an opportunity to be heard. A great deal of this material has been dedicated to Mrs. Coolidge in appreciation of her unflagging zeal.

Last night's program was devoted to the compositions of the old Bach and the young Hindemith. As a contrast the effect was certain; as a comparison not so clearly so. Whether the Bach sonata for violin and piano, No. 3, in E major, beautifully performed by Emma Lubbecke-Job and William Kroll, sounded better by comparison to the delectable bit of humor in Hindemith's Sonatina in canon form, for two flutes, played by Georges Barrere and Ernest Liegl, or vice versa, cannot be said, but certainly the Hindemith "Die Sernenaden," cantata for soprana, oboe, viola, and violoncello, opus 35, offered a wider range of fancy in its shadowy tonal web than the queerly chosen opening number of the program, Bach's Unaccompanied Suite for violoncello, No. 4, in E flat major, performed in meticulous fashion by Iwan d'Archambeau, recently of the Flonazley quartet.

A Bach sonota for flute and piano and a first performance of Hindemith's Konzertmusick fur Klavier, Blechblaser under Harfen, written in 1930, closed the program.

The second program will be given tomorrow afternoon by the Brosa quartet of London, the following programs to be given alternate evenings and afternoons until the final performance of Thursday evening.

Yesterday five theaters filled to capacity, or near capacity, augured well for the 1930 musical season.

Also the quality of the concerts marked the day as auspicious. With a Kreisler and a Sousa to top the list, a three star soprano new to Chicago in the guise of recitalist, a Far East program of drama and dance, and a pianist, there was much to choose from.

Yvonne Gall has been known both to the Chicago and Ravinia opera audiences as an artist of individuality and charm, but it remained for those fortunate enough to hear her yesterday at the Studebaker theater in a recital of French and English songs to discover what a thoroughly delightful artist she is.

Greeted at the door by enthusiastic reports of her Debussy group, one was equally delighted by a group of Ravel, and completely captivated by the charm of an excellently sung group of good English songs. Miss Gall's audience waited for encore after encore, and it is evident that this artist may, and should return again and again.

At Orchestra hall King Kreisler held court to an audience that has diminished as little with the passing seasons as the luster of his matchless tone. To this pair of woods fresh ears, this tone had never sounded fresher. The Mendelssohn E-minor Concerto was played with the mellowed art that marks all that Kreisler does. His program was typical in form, comprising Corelli, Bach, Schumann, Mozart, and the usual applauded arrangements of his own.

Another and equally famous king, the March King John Philip Sousa, and has famous band, stirred the blood of a large audience at the Civic Opera house. Here again is a reigning artist whose fame will never die as long as there are feet to march, bands to play, or boys to whistle the incomparable Sousa marches.

Relegated to the encore list, they still comprise the major part of any Sousa program, and that in spite of, or rather the addition of, an occasional new march or suite from the pen of the ageless Sousa. Yesterday's new march was the "Royal Welsh Fusiliers," played for the first time on his recent visit to Wales and England, with the inevitable stirring result.

A suite, "The Last Days of Pompeii," also by Sousa, was much liked yesterday. The program was of the type that has made the Sousa band concerts so popular.

THE STAGE

"THE CHINESE BUNGALOW."

A play by Marion Osmond and James Corbet; given at the Studebaker theater, Oct. 12, 1930, with Walker Whiteside as star, under the management of Sheridan Productions, Inc.

THE CAST.

The Ayah	Florence Hedges
Abdul	Donald Wilson
Carlotte Merivale	Helen Tucker
Harold Marquess	Cledge Roberts
Sadie Sing	Franc Hale
Richard Marquess	Gilbert Douglas
Chinese Servants	Nathaniel Sack, Michael Rale
Yuan Sing	Walker Whiteside
Captain Harley	William Wagner

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

WHEN the name of Walker Whiteside appears on the billboards, you cannot help thinking of sinister Chinese gentlemen who slink about the stage ominously, quoting choice lines from Confucius, making bitter epigrams about the barbarism of European culture, and hatching up subtle schemes of oriental revenge. He has concentrated on character of this type ever since his notable success in "Typhoon," nearly twenty years ago, and he acts them with a quiet melodramatic swank that is decidedly effective.

So in "A Chinese Bungalow," which had its premiere at the Studebaker last night, you will find Mr. Whiteside running true to form. His mellow voice, which should rank high in any list of the ten best voices in the American theater, recites in menacing sing-song the litany of the hate of Yuan Sing, whose English wife had betrayed him with a lover of her own breed.

He glides through the play as its ornate villain, a power of darkness meditating deeds of stealthy evil, but at the end he dies in something like an heroic attitude. Quite a fellow, this sinister Mr. Sing, in dress, deportment, and the delicacy of his technique in murder.

The play itself is a quiet domestic melodrama which carefully avoids the bizarre hank-pank that usually accompanies the depiction of demon Chinamen in wild-eyed fantasies of oriental deviltry. There is no Sax Rohmer stuff to be found in it; and Yuan Sing is always human, according to his racial traditions.

It is, in fact, a little too quiet; one could wish for fewer pauses and slinkings and dreadful silences, and more thrills. The shudders in "A Chinese Bungalow" are restricted to the English characters, who are constantly confessing that they are frightened out of their wits. The mood of terror does not come across the footlights with impact.

The scene is somewhere in the Malay states, among the rubber plantations—the rich establishment of the wealthy Yuan Sing who has married an English wife and is silently in love with his pretty sister-in-law. But when the unhappy Mrs. Yuan Sing keeps a sinful tryst under the rubber trees with a young planter, Sing, hitherto the perfect husband, starts doing his stuff.

Sibilla, the cat with the poisoned claws, puts the lover out of the picture; the wife confesses after getting the third degree and is sent back to Singapore to some nameless fate; and the implacable Sing shoots it out, in a manner of speaking, with the other Englishman [brother of Sibilla's victim] for possession of the sister-in-law. It is a duel of champagne glasses, with a deadly drug in one; and Sing proves that he is a true sportsman in any language by choosing the wrong goblet. Then, bowing reverently to Buddha, he goes to join his ancestors; and the audience leaves "A Chinese Bungalow" saying that when among the Chinese devils of melodrama Mr. Whiteside is a veritable Lucifer.

The staging of the play conveys the atmosphere of a remote corner of the orient, and the cast is adequate to its demands. Helen Tucker, as the winsome sister-in-law; Gilbert Douglas, as the Englishman who matches wits with Yuan Sing; and Franc Hale, as the distracted wife, give satisfactory performances.

Italy's Monarch Soon Will Greet King of Bulgars

Latter Arrives; Pope Is Likely to Help.

SAN ROSSORE, Italy, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bulgaria's bachelor monarch, King Boris, arrived at the Italian royal palace here tonight from Sofia and was greeted by his fiancée, Princess Giovanna, the royal family, and high court officials.

The king, whose train reached Triest early in the morning, arrived at the Pisa railway station at 8 p. m. and immediately came on by automobile to San Rossore. His car was preceded by motor trucks carrying a number or brilliant blue trunks containing his effects and those of his suite.

Despite bad weather, a large crowd of villagers stood outside the entrance to the royal grounds and gave King Boris a rousing cheer as his automobile entered.

While he is visiting his fiancée the king will inhabit a small palace known as the "Gombo," about half a mile from the "Cascine Velocchie," villa of the royal family.

Tonight and tomorrow King Boris will have a chance to talk over the marriage plans with his future father-in-law. King Victor is due in Rome for an official function Tuesday morning.

The present plan is for Boris to make a brief visit now to Princess Giovanna and her family and then to return to Bulgaria, returning later with Premier Liaptcheff and court officials for the ceremony itself.

The place where the marriage will be solemnized is veiled in secrecy. San Rossore, Assisi, and Pisa are all contending for the honor.

In the preparations for the king's arrival, the visitor whose presence roused most speculation was Count de Vecchi di Val Cismon, Italian ambassador to the vatican, and one of the quadrumvirs of Mussolini's march on Rome.

It is understood that Count de Vecchi is keeping in close touch with his embassy by telephone, in order to be posted about the latest views of Pope Pius concerning the wedding of a Catholic princess to a monarch of the Greek orthodox faith.

Probable Views of Vatican.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Every possible aid the vatican can give without departing from the immutable precepts of the Roman Catholic church will be afforded King Boris of Bulgaria to make his marriage with Princess Giovanna of Italy possible, the Associated Press today learned from an unimpeachable source close to the pope himself. A vatican pronouncement probably tomorrow is expected to make this clear.

The vatican, the informant of the Associated Press said, has not forgotten that King Boris is the son of a Roman Catholic father and mother, and was forced in infancy to adopt the orthodox faith, for which the former Czar Ferdinand is "known to have apologized to the boy." Boris himself, it was said, often has piously visited the tomb of his mother in the Roman Catholic church at Philippopoli, and frequently during the hours of mass.

As in other cases of marriage of a Roman Catholic with a nonRoman Catholic throughout the world, the vatican will consider the Catholic ceremony alone as valid and binding and will not tolerate another of the orthodox rite.

However, the spokesman remarked, in Bulgaria as in other orthodox countries, there are no civil registrars of marriages, births, or deaths, that function being delegated to priests of the orthodox church who act as civil officers.

Therefore Boris and his bride could quite properly have the act of their Roman Catholic wedding in Italy duly transcribed on the state's registers by the metropolitan of Sofia, or another high orthodox clergyman in a formal ceremonial seeting, in order to comply with the laws of the land. This would in nowise be interpreted as a religious function which the Vatican might be misconstrued as recognizing as valid.

Such a ceremony of formal registration of a marriage already contracted in Italy might well take place in the largest building in Sofia, possibly the royal palace, in order to give Giovanna's future subjects some satisfaction, the vatican's informant vouchsafed, and might even take place within the orthodox cathedral in Sofia if that would be more convenient without its taking the character of a second religious function.

The Palace Can Truly Claim 'Big Acts'; 'Star Acts'

All stage programs pale into insignificance before the amazing array of big celebrities headed for the Palace for the NEXT TWELVE WEEKS—one after another these will come:

Four other outstanding acts accompany each star.

The genius of these entertainers is not shown for a few moments in a tinsel production. They do their entire act so that the public may appreciate to the fullest extent the entire range of their ability.

In almost any other theater the type of pictures shown with these great stars would be called "big productions." AND THINK OF IT! These shows are brought to the public at a price which (at the Matinees) is less than other loop theaters.

First Coolidge Concert Given Last Evening

BY THALIA

The first program of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge's Chicago Festival of Chamber Music, given last night at the James Simpson theater in the Field museum, was attended by a large and representative group of Chicagoans interested in the various aspects of music.

Mrs. Coolidge occupied one of the center seats in the first row with some of the guests that she has brought to Chicago for the festival, and was the center of a small court of friends during the intermission. Her brother and sister-in-law, Col. and Mrs. Albert A. Sprague, were further back in the audience.

Others in the audience were Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Edwin D. Kinsley, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, Miss Anita Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Miss Marie Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamill and their daughter, Miss Frances Hamill, Mr. and Mrs. Shreve Badger, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Arthur Dunn, Mrs. Francis Johnson, James Bailey, Mrs. Waller Borden, Augustus S. Peabody, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sherriff, Frederick Stock and his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Wolfe, Miss Peggy Hamilton, and Col. George Voevodsky.

In between the remainder of the program, to be given this afternoon, tomorrow evening, Wednesday afternoon, and Thursday evening, there are several affairs being given for Mrs. Coolidge. So many of the Cliff-Dwellers want to attend the dinner that organization is to give for her this evening that a limitation had to be put upon the reservations.

Among those who will attend are the Arthur Bissells, Russell Tyson, Arthur T. Aldis, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rush, the Carter Harrisons, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Logan, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Burnham.

The distinguished musicians who are here for the festival are also to be guests, and Mischa Mischakof, the new concert master for the Symphony concerts, is to give a program after the dinner. Mrs. Clyde Carr, Mrs. A. A. Sprague, Mrs. Siason Thompson, Mrs. Horace A. Martin, Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell, and Mrs. Henry E. Tuttle are to give a luncheon tomorrow for Mrs. Coolidge and some of her women guests, and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Borowski are to give a luncheon for her at the Arts club on Wednesday.

Invitation cards to the effect that Mrs. Coolidge would receive at 4:30 o'clock on Thursday afternoon in the Stevens hotel lounge were included in the programs for the program last night.

Receiving at the Arts club's opening tea on Friday afternoon after the first symphony concert will be Mrs. Edwin Clarke, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Frank Hixon, Mrs. Clyde M. She plans to live in Chicago this winter, and has taken Mrs. Hazel Parsons' apartment at 210 East Pearson street.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Shaw who have been motoring in Europe for the last four months, accompanied by their son, have returned and opened their residence at 49 East Division street.

Chesterton Draws Text from Wine Aunt Mary Made

All in the space of half an hour yesterday, Gilbert K. Chesterton's words skipped lightly from biographies and biographers, Dean Inge and George Bernard Shaw, Arthur Conan Doyle to Aunt Maria's cowslip wine. Pausing there a moment he then considered the rising divorce rate and possible future philosophy of women who work.

"If I had to choose," he answered a question, "I'd prefer a biography in the Lytton Strache manner, with all the unadorned reality now in vogue, rather than one of those whited sepulchres prepared in the Victorian manner.

"Take Tennyson's biography, for instance. He was no saint—a vain, rather mean tempered old man, humbled, as vain people as apt to be. Yet the uncle or nephew who wrote his ponderous, dry as dust, two volume biography rather made him out a plaster saint. One has respect for sepulchres, of course—but one doesn't seek their company.

"As for the George Washington and Gen. Grant biographies that have appeared in this country lately, I can't say I sympathize with their manner in revealing certain traits of character of those men—yet they have their points in comparison with the Victorian style."

"G. K." avowed ignorance of the recent statements of Dean Inge and George Bernard Shaw on suicide, when asked to express an opinion on the subject.

"But knowing them both from the past," he chuckled, "I'm quite sure I disagree heartily with whatever they said. If Shaw is advising people to commit suicide he's a bit inconsistent, for no one loves life nor clings to it more tenaciously. As for Dean Inge, he'd say almost anything that was against Christianity."

Although decrying the exodus of women from the home to the office and into politics, this huge Englishman admitted in his suite at the Stevens hotel, that there are some women better fitted for business than for domesticity. It is possible, he believes, that women may tire of the industrial whirl. Industry, he calls a greater slavery than kitchens, and will return to the home and express their individualities by competing against the excellence of Aunt Maria's cowslip wine.

"After all," he reminded his interviewers, "Aunt Maria's wine was just a bit different and better than Aunt Susan's. Therein lies personality."

Mr. Chesterton will return to Chicago Oct. 25 to debate with Horace J. Bridges, president of the Chicago Ethical society, at Orchestra hall on the subject, "Is psychology necessary?" Mr. Chesterton will take the negative.

WILL SPEAK

MRS. TIFFANY BLAKE.

Dean is to preside at all sessions, and will give a dinner on Wednesday evening for all members of the executive committee of the affiliated clubs.

Chicago from Glaciers to Golf Described in Newest U. S. Maps

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Twenty topographical maps of the Chicago metropolitan area, so minutely detailed that they show golf links bunkers, railroad switches, and the ells and wings of the larger buildings, have just been prepared by the United States geological survey.

Announcing completion of the maps today, the geological survey described them as representing "the highest standard of accuracy achieved in its present day mapping." They are based on data obtained by close instrumental surveys, supplemented by airplane photographs.

Among the natural features represented in the set of maps are the contours left by the retreat of the ice sheet which once occupied the basin of Lake Michigan and the beach lines of the ancient glacial Lake Chicago, which covered a much larger area than the present Lake Michigan. The highest of the ancient beaches is about 625 feet above sea level, or 45 feet above Lake Michigan, and there are several lower ones, all easily traceable on the maps.

A total area of 1,000 square miles is covered by the twenty maps, each of which covers 50 square miles on a scale of one inch to 2,000 feet. Each map is named from a section or suburb of the city, as Highland Park, Berwyn, and Harvey Assembled, the separate maps make a sheet nearly 6 feet wide and 12 feet high. The cost of the field work for the maps was $99.50 a square mile, of which the state of Illinois paid a part, the project being a cooperative one. The maps will sell for 10 cents each, or $2 a set.

Food Talk.

Are you planning to have some fruit cake in your household this coming Christmas? And will you serve it with that pardonable pride that all cooks have when they turn out a perfect product? Many of use have quite definite ideas about the qualities of fruit cake. But these ideas are not much different from those our ancestors had. The preference has always seemed to be for the moist, waxy cake, heavy with fruit. This kind of cake is sufficiently compact to cut into a thin slice or small dice that will keep its shape. If well cared for, fruit cake improves with age and is all the better for having been made several weeks in advance.

You may feel that this is too soon to think about making Christmas cake. But this is exactly the right time to become "fruit cake conscious" and prepare a few luscious ones. Butter and eggs are still rather inexpensive and the other necessary ingredients may be readily purchased.

One of these fine days, make up your cake. Remember that it takes no longer to bake 10 pounds than 5. It may be a light or dark one and it may be wine flavored or not, but it must be aged. After baking, allow the cake to cool and then place in a tightly covered box. Put the box away and forget about it until Christmas time. The ingredients in the cake will blend thoroughly in this time and acquire the mellowness and flavor characteristic of good fruit cake.

There are many good recipes for fruit cake but if you have a favorite one I would suggest that you use it.

The preparation of the ingredients requires the most time and labor. The mixing is not difficult, but it must be well done. The baking, however, is difficult and it is here that the most failures occur. Long, slow cooking is essential to develop the flavor of the fruits. A fireless cooker or steamer is ideal for the major part of cooking. Then the cake may be finished in a slow oven. If the cake is baked, the temperature should never go higher than 250° F. Because of the great quantity of fruit that has a high sugar content, fruit cake scorches easily. And nothing spoils the flavor of fruit cake more than just a little burnt taste that soon permeates all through the cake.

The old practice of adding brandy to fruit cake was an excellent one for it kept the cake moist and added flavor. Grape juice may be used instead of brandy with excellent results.

FRUIT CAKE.

1 lb. blanched almonds, cut fine
1 lb shelled pecans, cut small
2 teaspoons rose water
1 teaspoon orange flower water
1 lb. butter
1 lb sugar
12 eggs, beaten separately
1 lb. flour, sifted
5 lbs. seeded raisins
1½ lbs. shredded citron peel
1 glass grape jelly
1 lb. crystallized cherries
1 lb. crystallized diced pineapple
2 tablespoons powdered cinnamon
1 teaspoon grated nutmeg [scant]
½ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon powdered cloves
1 glass grape juice
2 teaspoons melted chocolate

Soak the almonds and pecans overnight in the rose and orange flower water and the fruit in the grape juice for same length of time. Cream butter and sugar thoroughly; add well beaten yolks of eggs; then the spices, grape jelly, and chocolate. Next add the beaten whites of the eggs and part of the flour. Roll the fruit in the rest of the flour, mixing it with the cake in small quantities at a time. Add the nuts last. Bake or steam the cake from 4 to 6 hours in small or large pans or molds. If steamed, bake in slow oven for 1 hour after steaming.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. Stark McMullin, with several guests, returned this afternoon from their camp on the Rapidan. In their company were Mr. and Mrs. John Agnew and John Agnew Jr. of London, who will be guests at the White House for a few days; Mrs. Edward Bowman, intimate friend of Mrs. Hoover; Dr. Joel T. Boone, U. S. N., and Lawrence Richey, secretary to the President. President and Mrs. Hoover had a few other guests in for Sunday night supper.

Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state, is spending the week-end in his summer home on Long Island with Mrs. Stimson, who is remaining there late this fall.

Secretary Mellon is spending this week-end in his Pittsburgh home instead of with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce, on Long Island.

Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, motored to Annapolis today to return tomorrow and join Mrs. Adams at their home here. She returned here Friday for the season.

Robert P. Lamont, the secretary of commerce, is spending the week-end with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Belknap, in New York, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Lamont.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Worker's Request.

"I am working only two days a week and it is pretty hard to buy the things we need. If you can get me a small heating stove, a dresser and a rocking chair I would be most grateful. MRS. H. M."

These pieces of furniture which would help so much in making this woman's home more comfortable may be among the articles you discarded in your recent housecleaning. If so, may she not have them?

Girl Unconsciously Gives Hints of Why She Is Friendless

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is 19 and terribly lonely. Lives on a farm but is as up to date in dress and appearance as any city girl. Modern from head to toes, she says, also modern as to head content excepting that she does not believe in drinking, smoking, or petting.

Boys evade her. She is a good dancer, plays the piano, rides horseback, swims, and drives a car. She's a good housekeeper, sociable by nature, yet has no friends. Has met any number of boys, but, she says, "All they seem to care for is a girl who is not good."

"All the girls are jealous of me," she adds.

By the last two sentences may the girl's unpopularity be known. Why should boys like a girl who believes the worst of them, and why should girls like her who attributes jealousy to their motives?

The virtues and the accomplishments Sally possesses, for that is the lonely one's name, are good ones, excellent, in fact. But aren't there thousands of Sallies and Millies and Dotties with as many commendable qualities? It is not uncommon to find a girl who can cook and drive a car, ride horseback, and swim, and do many other things of Sally's bragging, so the accomplishments are not enough to set one up as an extraordinary sort of girl.

And there are simply oodles of girls who do not smoke, drink, or make themselves common in any way, so that these reservations are not particularly distinguishing, either. They are simply nothing to get high hat about.

That talk about boys wanting their girls bad, and bad only, is just too outmoded for repetition. It is just as stupid to commit one's self to the expression as to say there aren't any good girls left. It's the weak defense of a girl made lonely through some fault or faults she will not face honestly.

When one can get one's self to believe that all other girls are jealous of one, you know there is a weak spot in the makeup. Only a feeling of supreme superiority would ever provoke that understanding of other girls' motives. Girls are not built that way any more. They're generous about other girls' personal advantages. They're not jealous of girls who make themselves likeable.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Difficult Position.

"Dear Miss Blake—My best friend loves the same girl I do. She says she loves me. How can I keep his friendship and her love? N. C."

Yours is a difficult position. Unless he will face facts and accept her decision there is bound to be ill feeling.

Seeks More Freedom.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 19. Am I not entitled once or twice a week to go out without my parents?

"BROWN EYES."

I believe you're entitled to do some of the things you want to do. However, you should acquaint them with your plans.

Best of Schools Can Only Partly Educate Children

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Short reading reference for the expectant mother will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

In the dictionary of most of our minds lies this:

Education; synonym: school.

In spite of ourselves—although we really know better—we do associate school with the word education, with the very idea of education.

We expect school to educate our children.

And it's too much to expect of school.

No matter how fine a school may be, it can only partly educate our children. Of course it can play a rich, inspiring, happy, useful part in their lives instead of a dull, deadening mechanical one. It can be something they look forward to with pleasure instead of something they dread. But it can't do the whole work of education.

Why not?

Because it's life during the whole twenty-four hours that educates a child, from the time it's born.

His plays—
His meals—
His sleep—
His physical routine—
His association with his parents—
His reading—
His sports—
His trips about the city or country—
His travels—if any—
His listening in on the conversation of visitors and friends—
His observation of the feelings and thoughts and conduct of those around him—
His questions and the way in which they're answered—
The attitude of his parents toward work and play and other people—

The attitude of his parents toward each other—

The interests shown by those he associates with at home—music, movies, books, dancing, hobbies—

The material aspects of his home—its color and beauty and cleanliness and orderliness—

His illnesses—

Our treatment of him—

All these and a thousand other things educate our children.

And since we are their parents and have control over so many of these factors,

Then we have the greater part to play in the education—not in the learning of arithmetic or geography, or foreign languages—but in the whole education of our children.

Pursuit of Beauty Is Real Job, Not "Frivolous" Play

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Some folks just refuse to join in the merry-making!

Here's a Mr. and Mrs. Anonymous [I can't tell which] dedicating three long handed pages to me, and the topic is the frivolity of woman struggling to be beautiful.

Frivolous, we sez! Lawdy, it's a duty which, if you don't keep on struggling over, you're sunk! Better a poor struggle than no struggle at all. There jes' ain't nuthin' frivolous about it, at all. Ask your maw and your sister and your aunt what chance she'd have any time and anywhere, nowadays, if she didn't put up a fight at hanging on to what she has in a beauty way and improving on that, where possible.

It's not even frivolous laying a bit of blue on an eyelid, nor running the little brush down the lashes—if the girl is going to be a bit better on the eyes. Not by a couple of good dates—social or business. Any little touch, in fact, that is going to brighten up the scenery may be construed as a benefaction to mankind in general and to the lady's self in particular.

The real reason that the words vain and frivolous should be allowed to lie in the dictionary unworked in connection with beautifying struggles is that out of the so-called frivolity there have developed in our time health and beauty standards unparalleled in history.

One does not think about preserving her beauty without automatically taking stock of her health, for our modern women know that beauty of skin and hair and the body's silhouette and carriage depend largely on the state of physical well being. The beauty seeking woman looks into many phases of body and complexion building she never would pay heed to were the object not more and better beauty for her. Another thing—she is implanting in the newer generation sane, valuable ideas on health upkeep with her own acquired ideas on what constitutes beauty.

IN AGONY WITH INDIGESTION, GAS, PAIN FOR YEARS. ENDED IT QUICK.

Tried Everything, Without Results —Now Prescription, ACIDINE, Ends Trouble.

"I am 60 years of age and had been bothered with acid indigestion, fermentation and gas in stomach and bowels for many years," writes Mr. M. A. Funk of Riverside, Ill. "Tried everything without result until I heard of ACIDINE. It gave me relief at once. How feel great."

Just one of thousands who have been astonished and delighted at the way this new prescription, ACIDINE, succeeds where other remedies fail. The reason is that it is entirely different from other known medicines. Contains the marvelous digestant called Japtase. In laboratory experiments Japtase has been tested on certain starchy foods which cause so much stomach distress. It digested 8000 times its weight of such foods in 30 minutes.

Five other ingredients in ACIDINE neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach trouble. Pain goes like a flash.

In the space of one year thousands of people have bought ACIDINE at drug stores everywhere and are enthusiastic users. Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE and thousands of people have found it the only relief from acid indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, pain, heartburn, coated tongue, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, nervousness, fullness, from acid stomach trouble.

Lace Trims Corduroy for Afternoon Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—You girls who are crying out loud for something practical, uncommon and chic, this is for you. Ardanse is bringing out afternoon frocks of finest corduroy and trimming them with Venetian lace, and they are all of the three things mentioned above.

The corduroy is extremely light weight, and its velvet stripes are scarcely wider than a pin, but, as you may know, any kind of corduroy is a champion material for durability and never shows the wear. At the same time it is rich and luxurious looking. Chanel, Vionnet, Patou, and Ardanse love it and use it to make some of their smartest clothes.

You can go down to work in the corduroy frocks shown in our sketch, and you can wear it to the theater or elsewhere in the evening with complete propriety.

The trimming of this black corduroy frock is ecru Venetian lace, which is one of the leading details of Paris fashions this fall. As you probably know, Venetian lace is the most durable of the fine hand made laces, and everybody will be glad to welcome it back to fashion again. The lace is sparingly used on the dress shown. It is placed in a band on the wide cuff that gives a below-elbow flare to the straight sleeve, and is again applied to the wrist of this sleeve. This is about the right amount of lace trimming for a daytime frock. More would be fussy, and less would be stingy.

The cut of this frock is simple and distinguished, with a bloused waist, a widish draped corduroy belt, and a flaring, gored tunic on the skirt. This tunic begins from two diagonal bands on the hips in front, and falls to the knees, while in back it begins from a V and extends to the hem.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Farmers of the corn belt, with the smallest crop this nation has produced since 1901, are taking stock of what has happened during the last summer and fall, as they reckon with the forces of nature which cause their occupation the most risk.

Surprising as it might seem at first glance, neighboring corn fields are showing marked differences in yields. Few if any fields in the entire Mississippi river valley show no signs of drought, yet the farmers who were prepared for dry weather or wet weather now find themselves favored with larger crops of this golden live stock feed than those who were not.

"Carefully conducted experiments have shown repeatedly that a program of soil improvement builds up yields and safeguards the corn plant against both disease and dry weather," declares Ove Jenson, Chicago representative of the national committee on soil improvement.

Mr. Jenson points out that fields which are kept fertile by rotation of crops and fertilizers give the corn plant quicker growth in the early weeks of its life, and the roots have strength to penetrate to deeper moisture levels. The healthier corn plant, as with humans, is the one that has been well fed.

In 1930, as in many other years of unusual climatic conditions, the thorough farmer is rewarded for his extra work, and the lax one complains that he can't be expected to produce a crop when he gets no "breaks" from the weather man. Likewise, in such years as this, the inefficient farmers are crowded nearer to the financial abyss, and whether or not immediate changes are made, eventually the good farmer gains in material wealth through acquisition of more land or improvements that make his present holdings even more profitable.
